WORLD COURT PROTOCOL TO GO TO SENATE

Plan for U. S. Adherence Will Be Submitted by President.

WATSON FEARS EXTRA SESSION WILL RESULT

Vandenberg Shares View; Hoover Hopes Issue Will Be Dealt With.

PROMPT ATTENTION PROMISED BY BORAH

Swanson Hails White House Action, but Would Pass on Other Business First.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover announced late yesterday that the protocol for American adherence to the World Court would be sent to the Senate at the short session which begins Monday.

He has hoped, the President said, that the protocol would be dealt with "at this time;" but whether it should or not, he added, was for the Senate leaders to determine.

Certainly, the President said, the World Court question should not be used to obstruct passage of appropriation bills, and thus force an extra session.

Fears Extra Session.

Fear that the President's decision to submit the world court question at this time would lead to an extra session of the Senate was expressed by Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader. Senator Watson earlier in the day had advised Mr. Hoover against such action.

Expressing disappointment over the President's decision, Watson said:

"At the present I am withholding final opinion on the world court. As a general proposition I have always been against it. I fought against the entry of the United States into the League of Nations for twelve years and have no reason for changing my mind. I was chairman of the committee on resolutions of the Republican convention of 1920, when we outlined a policy of opposition to the league and we have followed it religiously since. Unless there is some modification of the world court protocol I shall oppose it as I always have."

Doubtful of Action.

Another who expressed fear that an extra session might result from the President's decision was Senator Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, a member of the foreign relations committee. He said:

"I don't think the world court stands much show of consideration now. Either it will force an extra session or it won't be acted upon.

"I recall it took four weeks to get Senate approval of the Kellogg anti-war pact when only one member finally voted against it. It took almost four months to secure ratification of the London naval treaty with less than a dozen voting against it. Thus, it is simply mathematics that the world court probably won't be acted upon now."

Swanson Is Gratified.

Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, who is strongly opposed to the United States' joining the World Court, announced that his committee would give prompt consideration to the protocol.

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, the ranking Democrat on the foreign relations committee, who is in favor of American adherence to the court, said he was gratified by the President's decision. However, he proposed that consideration of the question be deferred until the regular session next year. It could not be disposed of at the forthcoming session, he said, because of the press of unemployment and other important legislation, and he added that he was opposed to a special session in the spring.

Statement by Mr. Hoover.

President Hoover, in making known his intention of sending the protocol to the Senate at the short session, said:

"I am submitting the protocols of the World Court to the Senate at the forthcoming session. I, of course, have hoped that it would be dealt with at this time.

"It is for the leaders of the Senate, however, to determine if it should be brought up in the press of other business during the short session.

Attitude of Borah.

"Certainly it should not be made an instrument of obstruction in attempts to force an extra session. Both its friends and foes should agree upon this."

Senator Borah, after announcing that his foreign relations committee would give prompt consideration to the World Court question, said he had no interest in the President's suggestion that Senate leaders enter into an

Calvin Coolidge

Says: When people are bewildered they tend to become credulous. We are always in danger of expecting too much of the Government. When there is distress such expectations are enlarged. The present condition of the country not only is not new but not nearly so bad as it has been at other times. In 1818, when John Quincy Adams learned of the failure of many of the greatest commercial houses, he recorded in his diary that the greatest danger would be the application of remedies worse than the disease.

That is the danger now. All any Government can do is to adopt certain policies and provide the public facilities of currency, banks, revenues, highways and the like that enable the people conveniently to do business. A large expenditure of public money to stimulate trade is a temporary expedient which begs the question. Many local governments are already taxing the people too much. Business does not need more burdens but less. The sound way to relieve distress is by direct action. When surplus exists it will do little good to spend public money for something more we do not need. The people have more power than any government to restore their own prosperity.

PLANES SCOUR KEYS FOR LOST AVIATRIX

FEARED LOST IN GULF

Miami, Fla., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Airplanes searched windswept coral keys and the waters of the Gulf of Mexico today for the airplane of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, hours overdue on a flight from Havana to Miami.

Six airplanes participated in the hunt for the Australian aviatrix when she did not land here within a few hours after 11 a. m. (E. S. T.), the time she was expected to arrive from Havana, en route to Washington, despite adverse weather conditions.

Several days ago she made a Pittsburgh-Havana flight. Her low-winged monoplane was not equipped with radio. She left Havana, message received here said, at 9:11 a. m. (E. S. T.), and expected to arrive in about two hours. A strong head wind was expected to hold her back.

A Pan-American plane returned here this afternoon after scouring the land south of here without result.

Later officials of Pan-American Airways learned Mrs. Keith-Miller had set a course from Havana without allowing for east winds which, they said, would have own her far to the west, over the Gulf of Mexico. The second plane was withdrawn from the search when this information was obtained. Two other Pan-American planes, plying between Havana and Miami, were ordered off their course in the hunt.

Curtiss-Wright marine base here sent a seaplane from Miami to Dry Tortugas with instructions to base at Key West tonight. A land plane was sent as far as Key West by the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service.

Pan-American officials tonight believed that Mrs. Keith-Miller, with gasoline for six hours' flight, might be in the vicinity of St. Petersburg after being blown westward off her charted course.

Mrs. Keith-Miller recently flew from Los Angeles to New York in less than 22 hours to lower the best time for the distance by a woman.

GIRL ASKS $313,000 OF DUKE'S ESTATE

Brings Suit Over Agreement She Alleges Tobacco Magnate Made.

EXECUTORS SCOUT DEAL

New York, Nov. 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A suit brought by Miss Helen Maher, a former clerk in the employ of Newburger, Henderson & Loeb, stockbrokers, for $313,000 which she claims the late Benjamin N. Luke, millionaire tobacco magnate, promised her, was revealed today when Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel denied Miss Maher's motion to examine the executors of the Duke estate before the trial.

According to Miss Maher, Mr. Duke exacted a promise from her in 1910 to devote her time exclusively to his interests and to limit her acquaintances to people of whom he approved. In return, she alleges, he promised her $400,000, part of which was to be paid during his lifetime and the remainder at his death. She avers he gave her $87,000 on this agreement but made no mention of her in his will.

In opposing the suit, Todd Wool, attorney for the estate, said the executors denied all knowledge of the alleged agreement and could give her no information which would be of value in her case. He pointed out that Miss Maher had waited nearly two years after Dr. Duke's death in 1920 before starting her action.

He also emphasized that much of Miss Maher's time after the alleged agreement was devoted to the interests of the Brokerage firm by which she was employed. To corroborate this, he introduced an affidavit by Lester M. Newburger, a member of the firm, who said that in 1910 she was employed by them as a $25-a-week clerk on the recommendation of Mr. Duke. Before she left in 1929, he alleged, she was earning $100 a week. During all those years he declared, she never mentioned the alleged agreement.

The executors whom Miss Maher sought to examine are Anthony J. Drexel Biddle and William R. Perkins. Justice Wasservogel said that because of the nature of the suit, he did not feel that he could grant the applica-

WOMAN SLAIN AS KIN FIGHTS SON'S ARREST

FATAL SHOT'S ORIGIN VEILED IN MYSTERY

NO ARRESTS MADE FOLLOWING TRAGEDY

Authorities Think Relative Discharged Weapon in Course of Scuffle.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Nov. 28.—Mrs. H. Blanton Orndorff, about 55 years old, was shot and almost instantly killed late this afternoon at her home near Mount Williams in the county, following an attempt by county officers to arrest her son, Arthur, on the charge of resisting an officer.

The woman's husband, Blanton Orndorff, and two of his sons, Woodrow and Holland, as well as Mrs. Orndorff, attacked Constable George Bageant and two special deputies, George Pingley and Chester Hockman, when they came to the home.

Beaten With Chair.

Mrs. Orndorff beat Constable Bageant severely with a chair while the elder Orndorff and his sons attacked Hockman and Pingley, wounding them so badly they were taken to the Winchester Hospital. Both had been sworn in as aids to the constable.

No one seems to know who shot Mrs. Orndorff. The officers say no shots were fired while they were at the house, but two of her sons went to a neighbor's home and told him their mother had been shot and killed.

When a second posse was made up in Winchester tonight and went to the Orndorff home, they found Mrs. Orndorff dead on the floor with a gunshot wound in the stomach. The only weapon known to have been carried by the constable and his assistants was a shotgun said to have been borne by Chester Hockman.

When the Orndorffs saw the weapon in Hockman's hand, they attacked him, it is said, wrested the gun from him and then beat him savagely.

Feud Arose Over Dog.

The trouble arose in the first place when Blanton Orndorff was in court last summer for having illegal possession of a dog, owned by Chester Hockman. The court ordered Orndorff to turn the dog over to Hockman but when an officer went to the home at that time, he was assaulted by Arthur Orndorff and his father. The group had gone to the Orndorff place this afternoon to recover the dog, also to arrest Arthur Orndorff for the alleged assault.

No arrests have been made in connection with the killing of Mrs. Orndorff and members of the posse declare it their belief that she was shot by members of her own family, with the shotgun they had taken away from Hockman.

Germany Says Poland Terrorizes Residents

Berlin, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Terrorism and even torture are cited in the German government's note of protest to the League of Nations Council regarding charges of mistreatment of Germans in Poland during the recent Polish election campaign.

The text of the note, which is expected to be delivered tomorrow, lists names, dates and places of nine cases and asserts that these are only a few of "countless examples."

DRYS DISAGREE ON PLAN AIMED AT REFERENDUM

WOULD GIVE SUPPORT TO BILL IN CONGRESS

Scheme to Be Thrashed Out in Capital and New York Meetings.

OPPOSED BY M'BRIDE; INDORSED BY WILSON

(Associated Press.)

A carefully worded proposal that the drys lend their support in the coming Congress to a resolution for a national referendum on prohibition was under consideration yesterday by a group of nationally prominent drys, and will be thrashed out further at temperance meetings here and in New York.

Nothing definite has been done and the leaders obviously were divided over the proposal, involving, as it would, an alliance with the wets to get the measure through Congress.

The plan was unfolded first before a selected handful of drys, gathered privately in a hotel here. As one of the conferees described it, prohibition forces would stand behind a constitutional amendment, formulated by the wets, calling for repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment, at least until the resolution had met the scrutiny of Congress.

Drys Want Assurance.

The temperance forces would seek assurance first, however, that the resolution would be considered by separate constitutional conventions elected by each of the 48 States, and that the wets would consider the decision of these groups at least temporarily final.

One antiprohibitionist, Representative Andrew (Republican), Massachusetts, has advanced an almost identical proposal. He said Wednesday he would introduce such a resolution in the approaching session.

It was disclosed yesterday that among those who met in private to listen to the plan were Patrick H. Callahan, of Louisville, secretary of the Association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition; Representative Port (Republican), New Jersey; Oliver Stewart, Indianapolis, head of the Flying Squadron of America, and Dr. Arthur J. Barton, Wilmington, N. C., head of the temperance committee of the Southern Baptist Convention.

McBride Opposes Plan.

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, and Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, were not in the Capital the day of the conference and sent associates to represent them.

McBride was outspoken in opposition to any such plan, saying:

"It would be regarded as a betrayal of prohibition by the dry leaders.

"The drys would gain nothing by it. No one can speak for the wets, giving a promise that if the referendum showed the country overwhelmingly in favor of prohibition—as it surely would—they would stop their attacks upon the law and allow its better enforcement. Further, it would be a waste of money, and would put us on the defensive rather than the offensive."

Dr. Wilson, however, said he was not opposed to a straight referendum on the prohibition law. He doubted

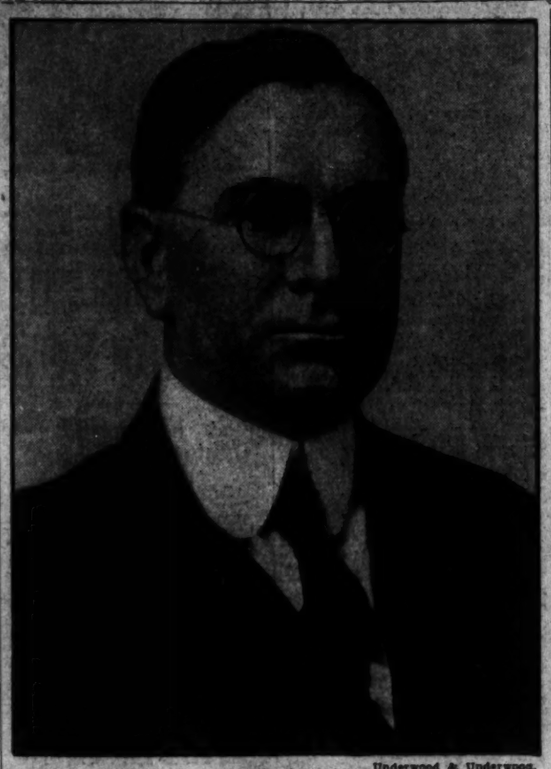
HOOVER NAMES DOAK SECRETARY OF LABOR IN DEFIANCE OF GREEN



Underwood & Underwood.

W. N. Doak, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, will succeed Secretary of Labor James J. Davis when the latter retires to enter the Senate Monday. Mr. Doak's appointment was announced by President Hoover yesterday.

Remarks of Federation Chief Are Challenge to President.

WORDS POINTED WAY FOR EXECUTIVE'S ACT

APPOINTMENT SEEN TO CONSTITUTE BREAK

Small Chance Is Forecast for Successful Fight on Appointee.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Striking out in a manner that warmed the hearts of his admirers, President Hoover yesterday publicly walloped his old friend, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and announced the appointment of William N. Doak as Secretary of Labor to succeed Senator-elect James J. Davis.

Mr. Doak is the legislative agent for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. He, too, is a friend of Mr. Hoover, and the latter wanted to give him the Labor Cabinet post when he took over the Presidency. But the federation stood on its contention that it was responsible for the creation of the office and that it should always be filled from the federation's ranks.

The matter gave Mr. Hoover so much worry that he had to continue Mr. Davis in office for nearly two years.

Hoover Answers Challenge.

Then Mr. Green, with an inadvertent remark the other day, gave him a way out. Mr. Green announced publicly after an audience with the President that the appointment must come from the federation's ranks.

This challenge, Mr. Hoover said in effect yesterday, imposed upon him the duty of appointing Mr. Doak. And as he read his statement to newspapermen he gave the impression of being delighted with his task.

His statement follows:

"I have appointed William N. Doak, of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen as Secretary of Labor. Mr. Doak has been identified with organized labor all his adult life. For sixteen years he has been a general officer of the trainmen, taking part in great numbers of labor negotiations. I have received indorsements of Mr. Doak from several score of labor unions, some of whom are members of the American Federation of Labor. I know that Mr. Doak will represent all labor in his public duties, and that he will reinforce the sympathetic attitude of the administration to the great problems of the wage earner.

Can Not Debar Rail Employes.

"While President Greene has publicly stated that he will oppose Mr. Doak's appointment because Mr. Doak's union is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, he informs me that he holds Mr. Doak in the highest personal esteem.

"I do not feel that I can consent to the principle of debarment of the railway employes, or other labor unions and associations, or any labor man in the United States, from the opportunity or the aspiration to attain any office in this land. I have the highest respect for Mr. Green and the American Federation of Labor, but Mr. Green's enunciation that appointments must come from one organization in fact imposes upon me the duty to maintain the principle of open and equal opportunity and freedom in appointments to public office."

Constitutes Break With Green.

The President's action, the nature of his statement more than the appointment itself, opens up an almost

COAL STRIKE THREAT LOOMING IN BRITAIN

Proposals of Owners Are Spurned by Miners as Parleys Fail.

WORKING HOURS ISSUE

London, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—All Britain was asking tonight whether with Christmas drawing near the whole country is to be plunged into the misery, wretchedness, and even danger of a great coal strike.

This grim prospect drew nearer today, after two chief conferences and several minor negotiations had been in progress throughout the day in an endeavor to bring employers and men together.

Proposals from the mine owners that the "spreadover" system of hours should be adopted from Monday next when the new coal mines' act becomes effective were placed before both a conference of miners' delegates and a conference of South Wales employers and men.

In each case the proposal was flatly rejected, and at the delegates' conference a recommendation was passed that stoppage of work in any one district should be converted into a national strike to include all other areas.

Under the spreadover system the owners would have the option of compelling the men to work on the basis of 90 hours every two weeks, instead of a fixed 7½-hour day, which the new act requires.

The alternative, contend the owners, is a cut in wages, and this has already been declared totally unacceptable by the men.

Although Monday officially is the crucial day, it is possible the situation may not come to a head until later. The recommendations of the

MILWAUKEE GAINS SHIRES FOR $10,000

Nats Release Colorful First-Baseman After All Clubs in Majors Waive.

CAREER WAS TURBULENT

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

Art (The Great) Shires is no longer a member of Walter Johnson's cast of Nationals. Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Club, last night announced the sale of Shires to the Milwaukee Brewers, of the American Association, for "about $10,000." Thus another move has been made in the short but greatly checkered career of the most talked-of rookie in baseball.

While President Griffith declares that the deal is an outright cash one, Milwaukee sport writers hint that there may be some later player consideration involved with the St. Louis Browns, who control the Milwaukee Club and who thus get an indirect option on Shires' services in case they decide to replace Lu Blue.

That this sale was possible means that both of the major leagues waived on Shires, a fact which President Griffith himself says was surprising. "Shires is the best ball player I have ever sent back to the minors," said the Nats' owner in announcing this action last night, "and I must confess that, in asking waivers, I simply wanted to find out what clubs were interested in Art so that I might work up a trade of some kind. As none wanted him, I decided to accept the bid of the Milwaukee Club."

This is one deal which, on the face of things, does not give the Nat leader a good batting average in the "David Harum" League, for he had to give up Pitcher Garland Braxton

New U. S. Envoy to Mexico Bars Liquor at Embassy

Clark, in Presenting Credentials to Ortiz Rubio, Implies His Guests Must Go Thirsty; Mutual Expressions of Good Will Are Exchanged.

Mexico City, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—J. Reuben Clark, jr., new American Ambassador to Mexico, announced tonight that he would not serve liquor in the American Embassy during his term. Mr. Clark, who presented his credentials to President Ortiz Rubio today, made the statement in his first conference with the press.

The new ambassador put his decision into effect this morning when a governmental guard which had escorted him to the presidential palace came to the embassy. The officers were invited in, but no liquor was served.

Whether alcoholic beverages shall be served in American embassies and legations, said the statement, "is a question regularly determined by the various chiefs of missions concerned. Some have determined the question in one way, others in another. I have decided not to serve alcoholic beverages in the embassy in Mexico City during my term at this post.

He did not discuss the matter further, but it was understood his action reflected no criticism on any other mission where liquor is served, inasmuch as he felt it was a matter for the mission head to determine.

Mr. Clark, a member of the Mormon Church, is a nondrinker.

It is understood here that the Mexico City Embassy will be the second representing the United States at which no liquor is served, Ambassador Charles G. Dawes having announced a similar policy in London some time ago.

All the world is watching the brilliant career of Marshal Joseph Pilsudski in Poland. He is one of the prominent figures in European politics of the day. In a special article, David Rankin Barbee brings out many facts and sidelights concerning this powerful influence on Poland.

The situation on Capitol Hill on the eve of the opening of the short session of Congress is outlined in his characteristic style by Carlisle Bargeron, who calls his story "Sincerity-Politics: Will They Mix?" It will be found in the tabloid magazine.

Other stories in the magazine will interest every reader. For the sport fan, Don B. Reed has written a football yarn called "They're Big Men From the Chin Up;" those who follow the courses of royalty will enjoy "Heir Apparent to Throne and Woe," a discourse on Prince Otto of Hungary by John W. Maloney; while business men are sure to find much of importance to them in John W. Thomas' story, "Washington a Manufacturing City? Yes."

Then, too, The Post will carry the complete accounts of all the leading football games, including the Notre Dame-Army contest and the Dartmouth-Stanford battle. News from every part of the world and a rotogravure section full of splendid "shots" will add to the attractiveness of a newspaper designed to meet the requirements of all.

Mercury, Tumbling to 15, Smashes 58 Year Record

America Generally Becomes "Land of the Freeze" as Cold Wave Extends as Far South as Florida; Warmer Weather Is Forecast for Today.

Washington yesterday experienced the coldest November 28 since 1872, biting winds from the northwest sending the mercury down to 15 degrees at 6 a. m. Last night it was expected to bring a minimum temperature of 14 degrees, but warmer weather is forecast for today and tomorrow. Clear skies will give way to rain Sunday, the Weather Bureau said.

The cold wave, which originated in the Lake Superior region, hit the District squarely, catching many motorists without antifreeze solutions in their radiators. Missions of the city broadcast additional appeals for old overcoats, declaring suffering to be acute among the poor.

The all-time low record for November was set on the 30th day of the month last year, when the temperature dropped to 11 degrees.

(Associated Press.)

America yesterday was the land of the freeze.

From her snow-laden head in the chilly Northwest to the tips of her usually warm toes in Florida the Nation shivered. Temperatures, save in the Far West, were generally subfreezing. In parts of the Northwest they went below zero.

Two score deaths were all attributed to the holiday cold, and half of them were in the Middle West. New England reported eleven deaths, Chicago seven, and there was one each in New York State and Maryland.

The New England cold, with a low reading of 8 above at Northfield,

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 4 and 5 Today unlimited field of speculation as to the possible political consequences.

In the first place, it constitutes a break with Mr. Green, the head of a very powerful organization. And an unusually cordial relationship has existed between the two. This was particularly noticeable when Mr. Hoover spoke before the American Federation of Labor at Boston in October. His references to Mr. Green and the latter's references to him suggested one of those mutual admiration sessions.

Yet the manner in which the President grabbed upon Mr. Green's slip of tongue leaves Mr. Green without a peg to stand on. It should, in fact, excite his admiration.

The President pointed out that Mr. Green has said he had nothing personal against Mr. Doak. His sole claim was that the labor post belonged to the federation and he will probably not get very far with this argument in the public controversy that follows.

More Aggressive in Politics.

For the enmities that the President creates among the federation officials he should get the warm friendliness of the powerful railroad groups.

These four railroad brotherhoods are the more aggressive in politics, too. While various and sundry candidates were referred to in the recent campaigns as having the support of organized labor it was the militant support of the four railroad brotherhoods that they really appreciated. These brotherhoods have money and conservative and brilliant leadership. One of the first things they do in support of a candidate is to pour thousands of copies of their organ Labor, published here, into the campaign. They do not content themselves with simply indorsing a candidate.

Boldness Seen as Heartening.

It is the strength of these organizations, indeed, that assures the confirmation of Mr. Doak by the Senate. Mr. Green will presumably continue to oppose him, but just what senator he will be able to get to carry the fight to the Senate floor is another matter. It is doubtful if he could get a single one of the senators who have heretofore fought organized labor's battles. For this reason the matter is quite likely to blow over.

Of more importance to Mr. Hoover, as political observers see it, will be the psychological effect of his action upon the country. In times such as these his boldness will probably prove to be heartening.

Green Issues Statement.

"The President of the United States has seen fit to select a Secretary of Labor outside the recognized American labor movement. The right of the President to select the members of his Cabinet is freely recognized by all classes of people regardless of political or economic affiliations. President Wilson selected the first Secretary of Labor from the American Federation of Labor. His successors, President Harding and President Coolidge did likewise. The officers and members of the American Federation of Labor have always believed that the Secretary of Labor sitting in the President's Cabinet should come from the American Federation of Labor. The American Federation of Labor is regarded as the American labor movement, speaking for American labor.

Urged Federation Man.

"The officers and members of this organization believe that the Secretary of Labor sitting in the President's Cabinet should be a man who understands the American labor movement, its problems and the thought and mind of American labor. We have always held that the Department of Labor should be the instrumentality through which Labor could express its mind and judgment upon economic and industrial problems affecting the well-being of working men and women through a Secretary of Labor to the President of the United States and his Cabinet. It is a strong reason why we earnestly urged the President to select a Secretary of Labor from the membership of the American Federation of Labor.

"There are many men connected with the American Federation of Labor who meet all the political and economic requirements necessary to serve as Secretary of Labor. Why some one outside the American Federation of Labor has been selected is a question that can not be answered by labor, and one which it is difficult to understand. The officers and members of the American Federation of Labor, myself included, are keenly disappointed because the President failed to give the American Federation of Labor recognition in the selection of a Secretary of Labor."

MARIE AND CAROL NEAR OPEN BREAK

Decision of Dowager Queen Upon Exile in Paris Bares Discord.

KING LINKED IN SCANDAL

Vienna, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Word from Bucharest that Dowager Queen Marie had suddenly made up her mind to leave Roumania and go to Paris for some time has revived reports that she and her son, King Carol, are at greater odds than ever.

Well-informed reports here indicate that the general atmosphere in Bucharest, since Carol's spectacular return to assume the throne, has had a bad effect on the queen's health.

Rumors are constantly being spread about Carol's intentions and whether true or not, they are not calculated to make Queen Marie's life tranquil.

The latest rumor, for instance, is that Carol was planning an edict whereby his mother and Queen Mother Helen would be forbidden to attend or organize public functions and would be even compelled to take up abodes assigned to them by Carol.

This report has dealt Queen Marie a harsh blow since all her life she has been accustomed to play a big role in her country. She has become entirely reconciled with Queen Helen in the latter's claims against Carol.

There have even been rumors that Mme. Lupescu, with whom Carol lived in France, has been installed in the palace at Bucharest.

What Queen Helen is understood to dread is that she may be separated from her little son, the former King Michael.

DISARMAMENT ISSUE DODGED AT GENEVA

Commission Evades Publicity for Land War Materials; French Plan Voted.

WILL LIST EXPENDITURES

Geneva, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The League of Nations Preparatory Commission today again dodged the question of full publicity on disarmament on land war materials and adopted a French resolution which provides only for an annual report on expenditures upon such equipment.

Last Saturday the Dutch delegation offered a proposal, which would have guaranteed complete publicity for war preparations and materials, but after a spirited session with much opposition from France and Japan the matter was referred to a subcommittee.

Today the question again was brought up, with the United States representative, Hugh S. Gibson, voting for full publicity on materials both in service and in stock as last Saturday. Italy, Sweden, Holland, Spain, Turkey and Russia joined with him.

The opposition ,led by France and Japan again, protested that a full exchange on war stocks would be giving away defense secrets and thereby prejudicing national security.

France's formula provides merely for the amount of money expended, not for itemization of equipment. With the French voted their central European allies, plus Japan, Peru, Persia and Norway.

Drafting of a convention by the commission, to serve as a basis for a general disarmament treaty, is expected to be completed next week.

SETTLEMENT MADE ON PANAMA CLAIM

Direct Agreement Reached on Case Negotiated for Ten Years.

$160,000 IS AWARDED

(Associated Press.)

Ten years of negotiation ended here yesterday, with payment by the United States of $160,000 for a portion of the land used in coast defence of the Panama Canal.

The Treasury Department checks were turned over to Alfredo Aleman, of Panama City, an heir of the Bermudez family, of Panama, who acted for the other heirs.

The property was confiscated by the United States for building the canal. It was known as Punta Paitilla.

Under the treaty of 1903, between the United States and Panama, the Bermudez claim was turned over to the joint land commission for action. This commission failed to agree, and Senor Walls y Marino was named umpire by King Alfonso of Spain.

The umpire's decision was protested by the State Department, however, and the claim remained in litigation until yesterday. Direct settlement was made by agreement of the State, War and Treasury Departments.

The settlement marked the close of all such cases which had been decided by the joint claims commission. At the Panama Legation it was understood, however, that other claims would be opened as soon as the United States agrees ot covnene another commission.

Johns Hopkins Probes Charges of Vandalism

Baltimore, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The partial wrecking of a motorbus and the overturning of a $4,000 statue, weighing 800 pounds, ascribed by police to Johns Hopkins University students, was under investigation today by the student council.

The alleged vandalism occurred Wednesday night when students developed enthusiasm over the Thanksgiving Day football game with the University of Maryland. Maryland won, 21 to 0.

FLEET TO BE SPLIT INTO FOUR FORCES

CHASE HEADS MAIN UNIT

(Associated Press.)

A broad reorganization of the United States fleet was announced yesterday by Secretary Adams to take effect April 1, 1931, following fleet concentration at Panama.

The new organization divides the fleet into a battle force, scouting force, submarine force and base force, provides for a second and third in command of the fleet and makes various other administrative changes.

The major unit of the fleet will remain in command of the present commander-in-chief, Admiral Jehu V. Chase, whose flagship will be the battleship Texas. The cruiser Chicago, on completion in the spring, will replace the Texas.

The newly created battle force on the Pacific will be composed of battleships, cruisers, destroyers, aircraft and minecraft, which includes the aircraft at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Admiral Frank H. Schofield, commander-in-chief of the battle fleet, will retain his rank but will have his title changed to commander of the battle force, becoming second in command of the fleet. His flagship will be the battleship California.

The scouting force on the Atlantic will be composed of cruisers, destroyers, aircraft and the training squadron.

Vice Admiral Arthur T. Willard, commander of the scouting fleet, also will retain his rank, but have his title changed to commander of the scouting force, becoming third in command of the fleet. His flagship will be the battle ship Arkansas until the new cruiser Augusta is completed.

The submarine force will comprise all submarines of the fleet and of the submarine bases at New London, Coco Solo and Pearl Harbor. Rear Admiral T. C. Hart, commander of the control force, will have his title changed to commander of the submarine force, retaining the submarine tender Bushnell as his flagship.

The base force will be composed of auxiliary vessels not assigned to other forces, together with combatant vessels, aircraft and land forces assigned for service with the fleet of base defense.

Rear Admiral William D. MacDougall, senior commander of the fleet base force, will have his title changed to commander of the base force, with the submarine tender Argonne as his flagship.

Gasoline Locomotives in Use.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 28 (Special). The Baltimore & Ohio has placed in use gasoline-electric locomotives on its line between Grafton and Belington. At Belington the road connects with the Western Maryland, which completes the train service into Elkins from Grafton.

Three Men Are Hurt When Still Explodes

Three Negroes were injured, two seriously, when a still that they are alleged to have been operating near Mitchellsville, Md., blew up yesterday. The men gave their names as Eugene C. Jackson, of Mitchellsville; George Wilson, of Morganza, Md., and Herbert Davis, of One-half street southwest.

All were badly scalded about the face and body and Wilson was suffering from a broken leg.

The men told Casualty Hospital officials that they were burned when water being heated for hog scalding burst upward through a top covering of ice, but Maryland police contended they had been operating a still, and were injured when the boiler exploded. No chargts had been lodged against them last night.

FOUR ARE STABBED TO DEATH ON FARM

MOTIVE ALSO IS LACKING

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 28 (A.P.). A family of four, residing on a farm near Stanfordville, was found stabbed to death today. Police, without a clue to the assailant, were unable to establish any motive for the murders.

The bodies of the farmer, his wife, daughter and son were found by an employe of a creamery who had come to learn why cream had not been delivered at the plant.

The dead:

James Husted Germond, 47.
Mrs. Mabel Gregory Germond, 47.
Bernice, 18.
Raymond, 10.

The time of the slayings was fixed by the authorities as late in the afternoon or evening of Wednesday.

Each of the four had been stabbed over the heart with a blade apparently an inch broad. The knife was not found. The authorities, reconstructing the scene, believed the assailant rapped at the kitchen door of the farm house and stabbed Mrs. Germond as she opened the door. Mrs. Germond fell and the slayer apparently stepped into the room and, pushing the daughter into a corner, stabbed her.

Leaving the house, police thought, the slayer met Germond and his son in front of the wagon house, killing them and dragging their bodies into that building. The doors had been closed to conceal the bodies of the father and son.

Germond had left the farm of his brother, nearby, with a truckload of feed about 4 p. m. Wednesday. The truck was found today near the wagon house, with the ignition turned off. It was believed Germond and his son had just driven into the yard when the slayer appeared from the farmhouse.

$6,000,000 Estate Tied Up by Court

Chicago Boy to Get Fortune, but Administrator Is Not Approved.

Chicago, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The six-million-dollar estate of Alexis Thompson, 15, one of Chicago's wealthiest boys, still is without an administrator.

But that fact was blamed today on an Illinois statute, not on those who do or do not want to name an administrator, when Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, jr., overruled the appointment of Clarence Randall, vice president of the Inland Steel Co., for the post. Mr. Randall was named on request of the boy's mother.

The trouble arose when the boy's father died last year without leaving a will and by complications caused when Mrs. Beaufort, his former wife and mother of Alexis, married Maj. Victor Beaufort. Both Mrs. Beaufort and the public administrator want the legal burden of administration, which is said to eventually mean a matter of about $400,000. "An Illinois statute makes it mandatory for a person to be a resident of the State in order to be appointed administrator," Judge Taylor ruled.

TESTIMONY STARTED IN F. H. SMITH CASE

Trial Opens After Justice Overrules Motion for Mistrial.

SECRETARY TAKES STAND

A defense motion for a mistrial overruled by Justice William Hitz, presiding in District Supreme Court, the trial of three former F. H. Smith Co. officials on charges of conspiracy to embezzle the company's funds and destroy records began yesterday.

Wilton J. Lambert, chief defense counsel, had asked to have a mistrial declared because Fred K. Schultz, a prospective juror, had expressed the opinion during examination that all three defendants were guilty. Justice Hitz overruled this motion and the twelfth juror was chosen early yesterday. He was Louis Seidel, a paperhanger of 726 Otis place northwest.

With the jury complete, identification of some 10,000 documents stored in the courtroom, was the first step in the trial. Witnesses called included Adolph E. Weinhart of the Federal Reserve Bank of Baltimore; Grovener Lee Michael, vice president of Central Trust Co., of Frederick, Md., and Gerald R. Trimble, former secretary of the Smith company.

Mr. Trimble testified that the company's system was to issue checks against debit slips, the slips to be initialed by a responsible officer of the company, and the purpose for which the check was drawn written on the slip. He explained however that on occasions when checks were made out to "cash," no record of the purpose of the money was available. He testified that for a period of one year, he cashed some 30 checks for large amounts at downtown banks, turning the money over to two of the three defendants.

They were C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr. The third defendant is G. Bryan Pitts.

The former secretary of the firm also testified that in May, 1929, he packed five or six trunks with records from the loan files of the company and some 30 other trunks were packed by other employes. He said that he drove with Anadale to a farm in Maryland, near the Congressional Country Club, and supervised the unloading of these trunks. Trimble declared he had no knowledge of the reason for the transfer of these records from the office to the farm.

Nugent Dodds, special assistant to the Attorney General, sprang a surprise when he announced that the Government expected to prove that some of the money, allegedly embezzled, was deposited to the account of Mrs. Gladys T. Pitts, wife of the principal defendant.

ECONOMICS PARLEY AT GENEVA FIZZLES

HOPE FOR TRUCE VOICED

Geneva, Nov. 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The second economics conference of the League of Nations, called in an effort to avert a tariff war by concerted action, closed its twelve-day session here today with the frank admission from its chairman that the 26 countries participating have failed to achieve the goal for which they met.

The work of the conference is summarized in a report consisting almost entirely of expressions of hope that various reforms will be made in the near future which the two conferences have not been able to bring about. This led Chairman Colijn, former Belgian Minister of Industry, to observe that most European countries are "sitting on the fence to see which way the cat is jumping" rather than adopting constructive programs, designed to bring about a tariff truce.

Review Their Work.

Reviewing the work of the two conferences, Colijn said:

"The economics conference of 1927 agreed that the time had come to halt rising tariff walls and start a movement in the other direction. But after three years, tariff conditions in general are just as bad as ever.

"Everybody has agreed upon the necessity of reduction, but nobody has done anything to live up to his belief. We have now chosen to direct our efforts for tariff reduction along bilateral lines. The responsibility of countries which made this decision is a grave one. If the effort fails, it will be disastrous to the whole of Europe because the few remaining free-trade countries will turn protectionist.

"The disaster will be not much in losing these free markets but rather in the repercussions which will follow throughout Europe. The tariff passions which have been held in check will then be turned loose and the result will be economic warfare all over the world."

Italy Holding Back.

Among the countries which agreed to institute direct negotiations among increase in tariffs and to start movethemselves aimed "to put an end to ment in the opposite direction," were Great Britain, Germany, Spain, Poland, Belgium, Sweden, Holland and Czechoslovakia. Italy alone is holding back.

The conference also recommended consideration immediately of plans for the organization of agricultural credits on an international basis.

Only ten states have thus far ratified the commercial convention drawn up last March for alleviating ically depicted in M. Colijn's pessithe international situation so graphmistic remarks.

BANK LOSES $25,000 IN SECOND ROBBERY

Bandits Force 17 Persons to Lie on Floor as They Loot Place.

TWO MEN ARE SLUGGED

Milwaukee, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Invading the Layton Park State Bank a second time in less than a year, six robbers with sawed-off shotguns and revolvers today obtained $25,000 in cash and escaped.

Eight patrons and nine employes were in the bank when four men, brandishing the guns, announced:

"This place is being held up."

Two other men flourished revolvers. All those in the bank were herded into a conference room and guarded.

The four who had the shotguns went through the cages scooping the money into paper bags. Henry Lemermann, assistant cashier, was ordered to open the vault, but he did not have a key. One of the robbers, angered, slugged him on the head.

Ben Koppa was slugged as he entered the building while the robbery was in progress.

Then patrons and employes were ordered into the basement and forced to lie on the floor.

Five of the men got into a sedan. The sixth entered a coupe in which sat Frank Schery. Pointing a pistol at Schery, he ordered that he drive cautiously. The men in the sedan disappeared.

Half a mile from the bank Schery was forced out of his car. He hurried back to learn the fate of his wife, who was depositing money at the time of the robbery.

Last December 6 five men robbed the bank of $53,000.

Doak First Native of U. S. Named Labor Secretary

Two Predecessors, Wilson and Davis, Were Born in Scotland and Wales; New Cabinet Member Rose to High Places From Farm in Virginia.

(Associated Press.)

William N. Doak, of Virginia, will be the First Secretary of Labor born in the United States.

There have been only two Labor Secretaries thus far—William B. Wilson, a native of Scotland, and James J. Davis, born in Wales.

Both came to the United States at the age of 8 and both were appointed Labor Secretaries from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Wilson, the First Secretary after creation of the Labor Department, served through both Wilson administrations from 1913 to 1921. Mr. Davis has served from that time until the present, in all nearly 10 years.

The retirement of Mr. Davis next Monday, when he becomes a member of the Senate from Pennsylvania, will leave to Secretary Mellon the honor of having served the third longest period of any Cabinet member in history. Mr. Davis and Mr. Mellon entered the Cabinet at the same time. James Wilson, of Iowa, holds the record, having served 16 years as Secretary of Agriculture from 1897 to 1913. Albert Gallatin, of Pennsylvania, is runner-up, serving 13 years as Secretary of the Treasury from 1801 to 1914.

Mr. Doak is the son of a Confederate soldier, and began his journey toward success by swinging on the ice-coated steps of boxcars.

The national legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen for the last fourteen years and an authority on labor economics, he came up through the ranks to win high place in the Nation's councils.

At the beginning of the twentieth century he came as a slender farm youth of 18, from Rural Retreat, Va., to begin switching boxcars in the Norfolk & Western yards at Bluefield, W. Va.

Bluefield then was reputed a rough town. Feudal animosities survived in nearby hills and a railroad man needed both courage and tact to get along.

At 21 he joined the brotherhood and served as local chairman and legislative representative as well as president of his lodge for several years. He was elected vice president of the brotherhood in 1916. In 1927 he was elected assistant president and a year later the offices of editor and manager of the Railroad Trainmen were combined with those of legislative representative.

Mr. Doak has been connected with all the recent wage movements for trainmen. He has acted as mediator in several railway labor disputes, and was sole arbitrator in some cases. His friends boast that during his entire labor career he has never had a strike.

Politically a conservative Republican, he has been the nominee of his party for representative from the Sixth District of Virginia and for United States senator.

Studious, courteous and an intensive worker, he has devoted virtually all of his time to the problems of railway employes and to the broader field of labor economics. His relaxation is working in the garden at his home in Arlington County, Va., high above the Potomac River.

Mr. Doak enters President Hoover's Cabinet at 47 years of age, the same age as Secretary Hurley, who has been the youngest member. Mrs. Doak was formerly Miss Emma A. Cricher, of Ironton, Ohio. They have no children.

Lady Astor Leads Battle For Selective Citizenship

Calls Herself "Passionate Virginian" as Commons Advances Bill to Let Women Who Marry Aliens Decide Allegiance Question for Themselves.

London, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Led by the women members of Parliament, a bill was passed on second reading today giving to British women who are married to foreigners and foreign women wedded to Britons the right to choose their nationality.

Under present law, a woman of British citizenship who is married to an alien loses her nationality, and a woman of foreign citizenship who is wedded to a British subject automatically becomes a citizen of Great Britain.

Lady Astor, the former Nancy Langhorne, of Virginia, speaking in favor of the bill, declared citizenship an individual matter which the women should be permitted to decide for themselves. She said she was still a "passionate Virginian," for all her British citizenship.

"Men never will be free until women are free," she asserted. "To my mind, being fond of men, I am so interested in their moral and social progress that I want to free women."

Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Labor member, commenting on the fact the imperial conference had recommended that there be no change in the present law except after consultation and agreement among the members of the commonwealth, said: "If it is argued that the dominions are against the measure, then it is time we stood up against t he dictation of the dominions."

Second reading was moved by Dr. Ethel Bentham, Laborite, who said it seeks to remedy a situation which now causes endless hardship and which classifies women as of inferior status.

J. R. Clynes, in explaining the government's position, said that while it approved the principle of the bill, its passage would lay the government open to the accusation of bad faith. He expressed hope that a common agreement, along the lines of the bill, soon would be reached throughout the commonwealth.

WORLD COURT ACTION IS FACED BY SENATE

"I feel," he said, "that the World Court protocol should be reported to the Senate as soon as the committee has had time to reasonably consider it. I assume it would not be sent up if it was not the desire to have it disposed of as soon as practicable. I shall proceed upon that theory."

In Favor of Deferment.

Senator Swanson had this to say:

"I am glad President Hoover sent up the World Court protocol. But I do not favor taking it up at the coming session.

"It could not be disposed of in the short session and the domestic measures for relief of the drought, the unemployed and for agriculture should have precedence over all else.

"Meanwhile the country will have an opportunity to be informed on the question. I do not favor a special session of the Senate in the spring to consider it. Efforts to call a special session of the Senate will result in a special session of the entire Congress."

Approval Is Forecast.

Senator Jones (Republican), of Washington, is one of the Republican leaders who has come out in favor of a special session after March 4 to consider the protocol.

If the World Court protocol gets out of committee and comes up for a vote at the short session it will be approved by the necessary two-thirds vote. That seems assured.

Four years ago the Senate, after adopting a number of reservations, voted, 76 to 17, in favor of American adherence.

Reservations by Senate.

Other nations, however, refused to agree to the admission of the United States to the court under the Senate reservations.

Soon after President Hoover entered the White House Elihu Root was sent to Europe to work out a formula that would be acceptable to these dissenting nations. This he did.

The Senate reservations were aimed particularly at the giving of advisory opinions to the League of Nations by the World Court without first obtaining the consent of the United States.

Under the Root formula the United States must first be consulted with regard to advisory opinions in matters in which the United States has an interest. The formula also provides for withdrawal of the United States from the court if its objections should be overruled.

The opponents of American adherence to the World Court will make the same argument this time that they made four years ago, namely, that the World Court is in reality a part of the League of Nations, and that it is simply a "back door" by which this country would enter the League of Nations.

Added Personnel Urged for Army

Payne, in Report, Asserts Present Stock Supply Also Insufficient.

(Associated Press.)

An appeal for additional personnel to assist in the Army's work of industrial mobilization in preparation for a war emergency was contained in the annual report of Assistant Secretary of War Payne.

Discussing the procurement plans of the Army, he said those completed cover 1,705 items necessary for the Army in a major emergency out of a total of 3,876 such items listed. He added that the present stocks of military supplies were not properly balanced and appropriations were barely sufficient to meet current needs.

To remedy the condition, he proposed that Congress authorize a stock fund to secure supplies in quantities sufficient to obtain price reductions, make seasonal purchases and provide a stock of articles in general use by the Army, so as to expedite issues when required.

Bedford F. Slater Fails to Regain Consciousness Following Crash.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 28.—Bedford Fletcher Slater, 18, of Upperville, student at St. Christopher's School for Boys, Richmond, died today at University Hospital from injuries sustained yesterday in an automobile accident at a highway intersection eighteen miles east of Charlottesville.

Young Slater, accompanied by three other students, was en route here to attend the Virginia-Carolina football game. Their car was struck by another car bearing a Connecticut license. Both cars were completely demolished. Slater suffered concussion of the brain and never regained consciousness. He was a son of the late George H. Slater, of Rose Hill, Fauquier County. After one year at Virginia Episcopal School, Lynchburg, he entered St. Christopher.

Besides his mother he leaves two brothers, one of whom, George, is a cadet at Virginia Military Institute. Funeral rites will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Slater home, with interment in Upperville. Lewis H. Bosser, jr., Richmond, fellow student, is at University Hospital with slight concussion of the brain.

PATROLS EXTENDED IN DANVILLE AREA

COAL COMING TO NEEDY

Danville, Va., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—While Gov. Pollard investigated the United Textile Workers' protest against removal of strike pickets from the entrance to the Dan River Mills, National Guard troops continued today their rigid enforcement of this and other requests of Pittsylvania County civil authorities.

Patrols adjacent to the mills in Schoolfield were extended to two adjoining villages. It became known that the county authorities also had requested the militia to assist in the enforcement of law and order in the section within a 5-mile radius of Danville and to protect all lives and property within the area.

Troops Patrol Town.

Everything was quiet in the area of the mills, whose employes went on strike two months ago tomorrow, but there was no slackening in the activity of the troops. Commissioned officers were in charge of every patrol and the work of the units was so ordered that it was impossible to anticipate their presence or absence anywhere.

Union members had a meeting and spokesmen said discussion centered largely on measures for the comfort of the strikers. It was reported to the meeting two carloads of coal were en route to Danville from strike sympathizers "somewhere in Virginia." A farmer has given permission to the strikers to cut wood on his land.

R. S. Pitts, justice of the peace at Schoolfield, added his voice in support of Pittsylvania County officers who urged Gov. Pollard to send the troops to the town.

Wants Soldiers to Stay.

In a telegram to the governor, Pitts said "many lives would have been lost" except for troops, and urged the governor not to change any orders in effect, but to "strongly support the present military policy, so lives and property of citizens here may be protected."

Counsel for the mills obtained continuance until January 19 of the injunction restraining strike pickets at the Riverside Mills, within the city, from using force to interfere with free entrance and egress at the mills. Judge Leigh, in granting the continuance, told counsel any future petition for a permanent injunction must be more specific.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

You know—while it would be strange, it is not wholly improbable that history may deal with Mr. Hoover in two phases after the fashion of the scientists in dealing with the evolution of man.

There would be the first phase of him in a blue suit and the second in a brown suit.

He wore a blue suit throughout the campaign and presumably when he was Secretary of Commerce. In fact, I think I read once that he used to buy blue suits in wholesale quantities.

And he wore a blue suit up until a few days ago and then he appeared at the biweekly press conference in a suit of brown.

* * * *

Unquestionably the brown suit marked a great change in him, for how long, of course, no one knows.

But ever since he has had on that brown suit he has been speaking his mind right and left and acting in controversial matters in a manner that suggested utter fearlessness.

Throughout the blue suit era, the newspaper correspondents would wait patiently on him every Tuesday and Friday and came away without knowing any more how he felt on this question and that one than they did before they went in.

And admittedly this has been a very dark era for him. Blue might well symbolize it, in fact.

* * * *

But with the appearance of the brown suit at last Tuesday's conference, he forthwith paid his respects to those municipalities and municipal officials who look to the Department of Justice to rid them of gang rule and gave his views on immigration, a most ticklish subject.

Yesterday in this same brown suit—presumably the same one—he gave Mr. William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, such a neat little spanking that it resounded throughout the country, and in the next breath said he was submitting the World Court protocol to the Senate in a manner, too, that suggested he was indulging in a general cleaning up of his desk.

The question of who should be Secretary of Labor has been in his files for nearly two years, and the World Court protocol nearly that long. That brown suit must be his working clothes, or maybe his fighting togs. At any rate, he should wear it all the time.

He will probably never endear himself to Al Smith's followers, but there is one thing they like—and that is a fighter.

VENUE CHANGE SEEN IN TRIAL OF BRADYS

State Decides to Ask for Removal From Prince Georges County.

PARRAN'S PART IN DOUBT

The State of Maryland will ask a change of venue in the trial of Herman and Leroy Brady, charged with the murder of Mrs. Naomi Hall Brady in Seat Pleasant last New Year's Day, but it has not been decided yet where the new trial would be held. The case against Leroy resulted in a mistrial, while Herman has not yet been tried.

J. Wilson Ryon will remain in the case as special prosecutor appointed by the court, but Frank Parran, who was State's attorney of Prince Georges County, where the crime took place, is not certain to be a prosecutor.

Parran said yesterday, "I won't stay on the Brady case unless assigned to it by the court if it comes up after the first of the year." Parran holds office until January 5, when he will be succeeded by the newly elected county prosecutor, Alan Bowie. It is extremely improbable that the case will be set for trial before Bowie takes office.

The decision to ask the removal of the hearing to some other county came yesterday after a conference between Parran and Defense Attorneys Tandale G. Sasscer and W. Hampton Magruder. There are five counties around Prince Georges whose county seats may be chosen for the new trial. They are Howard, Anne Arundel, Charles, Calvert, and St. Marys.

Mrs. Brady was killed by the explosion of a bomb a few months after she married Herman Brady. Also killed in the blast were a smaller brother and sister. Leroy Brady, a mechanic, is a brother of Herman. It was Leroy who was tried in Rockville last fall.

SLIM VOTE SUSTAINS TARDIEU IN FRANCE

Financial Failures Cause Decrease in Majority for Government.

RESIGNATION IS HINTED

Paris, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The government of Premier Andre Tardieu today won two votes of confidence, although his majority is gradually being whittled, on the issue of the recent failure of the Oustric Bank and other financial institutions.

The Chamber of Deputies was put in a critical mood yesterday when Tardieu won another vote of confidence. In this balloting nothing was said directly about the bank issue, but a question was poised on a purely internal matter involving expenditure of about $680,000,000 for public improvements. The government then emerged with a majority of 78. As the chamber reconvened today it became known that Eugene Lautier, undersecretary of the ministry of public works, had resigned. This was an outgrowth of the Oustric Bank failure, as was the recent resignation of Raoul Peret, minister of justice, and rumors spread that the premier himself would quit.

14-Vote Margin.

Facing wide criticism of his policy, Tardieu put a question of confidence squarely up to the chamber. He won by only fourteen votes, the smallest majority his government has ever received.

The young premier again sprang before the chamber and said it must immediately express confidence or lack of confidence in his government's ability to investigate the financial failures. On this ballot he won by 303 to 14, all oppositionists except the Communists assisting. This meant 251 abstentions. With these abstentions reckoned according to parliamentary custom, Tardieu would have had a potential majority of only 38. Tardieu has been fighting for his parliamentary life since the chamber reconvened November 4.

Resignation Hinted.

Rumors were widespread tonight that Tardieu intended to present the resignation of his cabinet to President Doumergue, but the premier indicated otherwise.

"You may take my word of honor that nothing will happen tonight," he told newspapermen.

In the meantime Albert Oustric, the banker, whose name has rung through the chamber lobbies for three weeks as having had dealings with 32 members of Parliament, including ministers and undersecretaries, was arrested on a warrant charging a swindling operation in 1926.

RUM TO BE BARRED BY AMERICAN ENVOY

ments were exchanged today by President Ortiz Rubio and Mr. Clark when the latter presented his credentials as United States Ambassador.

"I come with a message of friendship and good will from the people of the United States to the people of Mexico," said Ambassador Clark. "The President of the United States has particularly charged me to convey to your excellency the best wishes of the Government of the United States for the continued welfare and prosperity of the Mexican people and the personal happiness and well-being of your excellency."

The president, replying, said Mexico desired nothing more in her dealing with other nations than to be able to solve mutual problems in a spirit of harmony, justice and equity. He added Mexico was unwilling to surrender her rights, but at the same time had a sincere regard for the rights of others.

With his credentials, Mr. Clark presented the letters of recall of former Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, and said Mr. Morrow was and remains a true friend of Mexico and her people.

The President said he shared the opinion that Mr. Morrow was a sincere friend of Mexico and the Mexican people.

He thanked Mr. Clark for his message of good will from President Hoover and the American people, saying the Mexican government and the Mexican people desired a similar message on their part be conveyed to the American people and Government.

The president concluded by saying Ambassador Clark's friendship and respect for Mexico assured him a cordial welcome and positive cooperation in perfecting an understanding between the two nations and governments.

On arriving at the palace, the ambassador was received by Fernando de la Garza, who had escorted him from the border to Mexico City. They then proceeded to the Ambassadors' Hall, where the brief ceremony took place in the presence of the personnel of the embassy, representatives of the foreign office and attaches of the president.

Witness in Treason Trial Says Engineers Drew Him Into Scheme.

OVERTHROW PLAN BARED

Moscow, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Thorough investigation into the activities of "French and other government agents in Moscow" was demanded by Prosecutor Krilenko tonight when the trial of eight engineers, on charges of high treason, was resumed.

He asked the court for a closed session to permit him to inquire into the identities of the reputed French agents, "A" and "R," with whom the defendants have testified they dealt in connection with a plot for foreign intervention.

The request was granted by the court, but meanwhile the prosecutor started his cross-examination of the defendants.

Ramsin First to Take Stand.

Prof. L. K. Ramsin, indicted as leader of the conspiracy, was the first to take the stand.

Krilenko announced his cross-examination would be on the basis of biography, past activities, concrete explanation of the defendants' sabotage, more complete details of their connections abroad and more definite facts relating to Poincare and Briand on intervention and activities of the French General Staff.

He first questioned Ramsin about his past history.

"I was born in 1897," Ramsin said. "My father and mother were village school teachers, and I earned my own living since the age of 14. I graduated from the Moscow Technical Institute in 1914 and remained there as a teacher.

"I worked in the state planning commission from 1921 to 1925, and more recently with large Soviet power projects. I worked in the Bolshevik party as a youth, but had no political connection until the October revolution.

Joined Sabotage Group.

"My attitude was rather hostile toward the revolution, and afterward I became a member of a group which sabotaged Soviet institutions."

A crowded room was thrilled when Krilenko frequently shot his questions and the defendant slowly and carefully replied.

It was after 1926, said Ramsin, that higher engineers drew him into anti-Soviet plots with them.

"Did you sincerely believe the country should be ruled by engineers and technical men?" Krilenko asked.

"Yes," Ramsin replied, "economically."

"But how about politically?"

"Well," said Ramsin, "this was only a form of propaganda to draw more engineers into the Industrial party which then was in the process of formation."

Plato Dragged In.

Ramsin contended his antipathy toward the Soviet government was not occasioned by material reasons, but was purely ideological.

Smiling broadly, Krilenko asked, "Outside of Plato, who was your political guide?"

Ramsin grinned and replied, "Ballod."

Krilenko looked puzzled. It was obvious he was uncertain who Ballod was, so he jumped to another question.

Ramsin said he had an automobile and lived well as a scientific worker. Money didn't tempt him to plot against the Soviet, he asserted.

"I plotted against the government," he said, "for the simple reason that I was against the Soviet policy and was sure the government would come to an end sooner or later, and I decided to do my share to bring about this finish."

Crowd Becomes Ominous.

Ramsin caused a decided stir when he said his salary as an expert technical engineer was 1,500 rubles monthly.

There were murmurs of "Bourgeois," which is understandable when it is considered the highest officials get only about 250 rubles a month.

Krilenko excused Ramsin temporarily and called Victor Alexis Larichev, who, with Ramsin, was alleged to have made the trip to Paris in the interest of foreign intervention.

Larichev said he was influenced to become an anti-Soviet by a Russian professor, now exiled. "I never believed the Soviet government could succeed," he said.

As did Ramsin, he admitted he did not know how the new government was to be formed if the Soviet was overthrown.

Krilenko then called Engineer Kalinkov and questioned him along similar lines.

Fascists Decree Exile for 2 Foes

Former Mayor of Milan, Adherent of Nitti, Gets Five Years.

Milan, Italy, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The anti-Fascist cleanout promised a month ago by Premier Mussolini today swept Ernesto Belloni, former mayor of Milan, and Bartello Belotti, veteran of the Nitti cabinet, into exile on one of the penal islands for five years.

Belloni, one of the chief anti-Fascist leaders, went because an investigating committee reported that he had used his office in Milan to increase his private fortune. Belotti was thrown out of the Fascist party some time ago. The trouble began for the former mayor with charges that he had accepted a gift from an American banking concern which handled a $30,000,000 municipal loan in 1927, but he was acquitted of that charge and since has been politically inactive.

The two sentences, which will be reviewed by Mussolini in his capacity as minister of the interior, aroused widespread comment through northern Italy, where they were regarded as the beginning of a purging process which probably will send other refractory anti-Fascists to "confino."

Vice Quiz Demotes Seven Policemen

New York Chief Threatens to Oust All Accused in Inquiry.

New York, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Six plain clothes men and one detective in the New York police department, accused of complicity in a vice extortion ring during testimony before the inquiry into city magistrates' courts, were transferred today.

Commissioner Mulrooney sent all seven to patrol duty in outlying precincts and promised that departmental charges would be brought against them when sufficient evidence was developed.

The commissioner said the seven transfers and demotions marked "only the beginning." He began today a study of the testimony given before the inquiry, at which witnesses said police had arrested innocent women on immorality charges and made possible their mulcting by lawyers and bondsmen.

Viscountess Astor Remains Virginian

Patriotism Unchanged by British Citizenship, She Asserts.

London, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Viscountess Astor, the former Nancy Langhorne, told the House of Commons today that she is still a "passionate Virginian," for all her British citizenship.

Nationality, said she, in the course of a debate on a bill to permit women marrying foreigners, to choose whether they shall retain British citizenship or take that of their husbands, is an individual matter, which women should be permitted to decide for themselves.

"I'm still a passionate Virginian," Lady Astor said. "If I lived away from my country for a hundred years I would still be a Virginian, but that does not prevent my being a good British citizen. I'm trying to bring up my children so that they will be good citizens in any country."

ALEXANDRIA PLANS AID FRO RED CROSS

QUOTA IS SET AT $1,500

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Final plans for the annual Red Cross drive in Alexandria will be made at a meeting to be held in the George Mason Hotel Monday night, called by Dan S. Hollenga, chairman of the local committee in charge of the drive. Alexandria's quota this year is $1,500, and Mr. Hollenga feels confident that this figure will be exceeded.

In previous years the drive has been sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club, but this year it is understood the American Legion will be in charge. It is proposed to have 100 solicitors carry on the work stationed in the four banks of the and a group of women will also be city, the postoffice and a number of drug stores to solicit memberships.

The Red Cross has had a large number of calls for aid this year and many more are expected. Alexandrians have not forgotten that when a tornado struck this city three years ago, the Red Cross was, as usual, first on the ground with aid to the stricken.

The Antituberculosis Society, through Mrs. Taylor Burke, of the local organization, has issued an appeal asking support for the work in the coming year of the citizens generally.

During 1930 the Antituberculosis Society of Alexandria sent fourteen persons to the State tuberculosis sanitoria, of whom eight were white and six colored. A majority of these patients have returned to their homes completely recovered, and a few are still receiving treatment. Alexandria's part of the money from last year's sale of seals, $740, was not nearly sufficient to cover this expense, which was $33 a month for white and $14 a month for colored patients, and without additional assistance from the citizens some of these patients could not have received the necessary treatment. Alexandria Lodge of Elks maintained two of the patients, who otherwise could not have been given treatment.

It is stated that 15 children of this vicinity are being cared for by the society, whose main purpose is "home finding" for destitute children. The funds received provide medical care and wholesome food. The society, it is explained, is nonsectarian.

The officers are E. Randolph Williams, president; the Right Rev. Collins Denny, D. D.; the Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, D. D.; Miss Winifred D. Crenshaw, secretary; W. A. Roper, treasurer; S. S. B. Patteson, counsel, and Frank Davis Preston, general secretary.

The local gas company has installed a gas range which will be used in a soup kitchen, which will be opened as soon as funds are received for maintaining it, and Capt. Hopkins has issued an appeal for aid for this project.

Alexandrian Held On Larceny Charge

Edward Berry Lewis, 26-year-old driver for the American Express Co., of Alexandria, Va., was arrested late yesterday afternoon by Detectives D. J. Murphy and J. L. Billman, of the Washington Detective Bureau, as a fugitive from justice, after charges of grand larceny had been placed against him by Alexandria police.

FAIRFAX 'BEAN RAIN' IS SOLVED BY DERR

Investigation Reveals Seeds Were Scattered Over Fields by Birds.

CAME FROM GUM TREES

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Fairfax County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr has solved the bean downpour. Recently it was reported by several localities near Fairfax, that following rainstorms, farmers had found many of their fields covered with brown beanlike seeds about a half-inch long. When Derr received a telephone call from a farm near Ilda, on the Little River turnpike, about 3 miles east of Fairfax, that a shower of beans had fallen, he immediately investigated.

He gathered samples of the beans, which were taken to the Agricultural Department in Washington, where authorities identified them as that of the sour gum tree. He next visited the United States Biological Survey where experts on bird life explained the queer phenomenon.

They stated that the seed of the sour gum is a favorite autumn food of the starling and black bird. The birds fill their craws with the seeds, strip off the pulpy covering and finally cough up mouthfuls of the polished seeds. Seeds of poison ivy, Virginia creeper and other obnoxious weeds are likewise scattered in this manned. A flock of 300 or 400 birds after eating a hearty meal of sour gum during migration period could make quite a shower of beans while resting in their flight. The starling, which has been an unwelcome visitor in Washington during the past few years, is being considered a menace to the farmers as well.

Norman Herold, of Washington, who was found guilty by a jury of the Fairfax County Circuit Court Wednesday, was granted a new trial by Judge Walter T. McCarthy. The jury recommended a two-year sentence in the State penitentiary.

Following the jury's verdict and before sentence was passed, the defense council discovered that the offense for which Herold was indicted had been committed on June 2, 1930 instead of May 30, 1930, as the prosecution charged. It was alleged that Herold was the companion of Frank Peters in the theft of a calf from Herbert David, of Fairfax County. The defense council asked the court to set the verdict aside because of the newly discovered evidence.

Yesterday Judge McCarthy granted the motion of the defense counsel and ordered a new trial. Herold then entered a plea of guilty and was fined $5 and costs of two trials, one during the September term of court, which resulted in a hung jury, and one this term. He was also sentenced to serve six months in jail.

The Kenmore Council, Daughters of America and the Farmers and Mechanics Council, Order of Fraternal Americans at Andrew Chapel are arranging to hold a special Thanksgiving service tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Southern Methodist Church at Andrew Chapel. The Rev. Royal A. Rice, of Fairfax, will deliver the sermon.

Bishop Henry St. George Tucker, of the Episcopal diocese of Northern Virginia will visit the Church of the Good Shepherd, near Burke Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. Herbert Donovan, of the Truro Parish, will accompany him. The bishop will preach.

Farmers Trust Company's Structure Built at Cost of $145,000.

RECEPTION TO BE HELD

Montgomery County's official and financial world is expected to be evident at the opening of the imposing new building of the Farmers Banking & Trust Co. at Rockville. The building is located on Montgomery avenue, opposite the new courthouse. A public reception will be held from 2:30 o'clock this afternoon until 9 o'clock tonight.

The old building and site have been purchased by the county in connection with the building of the courthouse, which is under construction. It is two stories high, with offices on the second floor.

State Senator-elect Robert G. Hilton is president of the bank and has occupied that position since 1910, when he left the position of clerk to the county commissioners to accept a place with the bank. Albert M. Boutic, well known Rockville lawyer, and a son of William Viers Boutic, jr., first president of the bank, is vice president. F. Bache Abert, town clerk of Rockville, is assistant treasurer, and J. The building is modern in every respect, even the finishing touch of an automatic elevator having been added. The interior decoration has been completed with an eye to beauty as well as utility. The safe deposit vault is located behind attractive grilled doors which can only be opened through the cooperation of two persons, one of whom must be in a teller's cage. The vault is of the most modern design and is protected by intricate locking devices.

The building represents an investment of more than $145,000. It was designed, erected, decorated and furnished by the Tilghman Moyer Co., of Allentown, Pa.

Dr. Jacob W. Bird, of Sandy Spring, chairman of the Montgomery County General Hospital, will lead the discussion on the rural hospital at a two-day conference on public health in Maryland which is to be held Thursday and Friday at the Southern Hotel in Baltimore. Ray, clerk of the County Circuit Court, yesterday conferred with representatives of the Artmetal Construction Co. engineering department, who are to make a survey of the probable furniture and equipment needs of the new courthouse.

PARKWAY OPPOSED BY ROSSLYN GROUP

Business Men's Association Says Arlington County Will Lose Heavily.

POINTS OUT DRAWBACKS

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Going on record as opposed to the proposed plan for development of the Gerge Washingtn Memorial Parkway, the Rosslyn Business Men's Association, in a letter which had gone forth to the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce and was made public yesterday, reads, in part:

"The present plan would prevent the logical and natural development of Virginia business interests and properties and would, unnecessarily, replace taxpaying properties with nonpaying parks.

"It would deny owners of Potomac waterfront land on the Virginia side the use of the navigable river for commercial purposes.

"It would seriously diminish, if not entirely annul, Virginia's authority over a considerable portion of Potomac River waterfront and adjacent land, thereby establishing a precedent and paving the way for a further encroachment of the Federal Government on Virginia territory.

"The personnel of the board of appraisal should be more representative of Virginia's interests.

"The State of Virginia, or political subdivisions thereof, should not be asked to contribute several million dollars to the cost of a Federal project."

The letter further states that the plan does not have the undivided support either of the residents or business interests of Arlington County.

These uestions are asked in the letter, "Do Virginians desire increased taxes to pay for building another costlyy national boulevard?

"Does Virginia desire her natural industrial development hampered by outside influences?"

"The so-called Capper-Cramton Act passed by the last Congress provides for a development along the shores of the Potomac River in the vicinity of Washington, for which an appropriation of $7,500,000 has been authorized.

"Congress has provided that the Federal appropriations may be expended by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for any unit of the project, upon receipt of definite committments from the State of Virginia, or political subdivisions thereof, or from responsible sources, for one-half of the cost of acquiring the land. The proponents of the measure estimate that at least $3,000,000 will be required from Virginia."

Cold May Cause Water Shortage in Lynchburg

Special to The Washington Post. ...

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 28.—A temperature of 6 above zero which prevailed last night in the section from which the city obtains its water caused freezing of small streams which feed Pedlar River and Irish Creek and a consequent drop of 4 inches in the city's storage water there. The lake's level dropped to 283 inches below the spillway, which is 29 inches above the low level touched November 3.

Never before has the storage water been as low as it has been this month and water department officials fear a general freeze, which would force Lynchburg to use James River water.

ARRAIGNMENT TODAY FOR NURMI'S CHUMS

O'Brien and McGuire Will Be Brought Before Rockville Court.

NEW ARREST HELD NEAR

Two companions of Arvi Nurmi, 24 years old, who was found dead with a bullet in his head on the driveway next to his home at 102 Grant avenue, Takoma Park, Md., eleven days ago, are scheduled to be arraigned today before Judge Charles W. Woodward in Montgomery County Police Court at Rockville. The hearing is set for 10 o'clock a. m.

The two men, Henry W. McGuire and John J. O'Brien, both of Washington, are at liberty on bond of $1,000 each following the swearing out of warrants charging manslaughter by Sergt. Earl Burdine, of the Takoma Park subdivision of the Montgomery County police, who led the investigation. A coroner's jury last Saturday held that Nurmi died from a bullet fired by the hands of persons unknown.

McGuire and O'Brien were with Nurmi on a party at the home. They declare that they know nothing of the fatal shooting; that they were inside of the house and did not even hear the fatal shot. Both declare they believe Nurmi committed suicide.

A fourth arrest in the case promised for yesterday did not materialize, but may be made today, Sergt. Burdine says. He intends to question a taxicab driver who is alleged to have taken a fourth man to the house on the day of the shooting. Arthur Murphy, of Washington, who also was arrested and questioned by police, was released when he convinced them he left before the party began.

MRS. KEITH-MILLER OVERDUE ON FLIGHT

Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, missing aviatrix, on her flight three years ago by short stages from London to Australia, said tonight he believed she has been forced down at sea. He expressed the fear she must be afloat somewhere between Cuba and the Florida coast in the collapsible rubber boat she carried in her plane. Capt. Lancaster said she assured him in communication from Havana yesterday that she would notify him immediately upon landing in Florida after today's flight.

Backers of the woman's Pittsburgh-Havana flight, however, expressed hope that she might have landed somewhere in Florida. John Liggett 3d, one of the sponsors, pointed out that Mrs. Keith-Miller was forced down at Charleston, S. C., last Saturday on her trip from here to Cuba, and was not heard from for several hours.

Havana, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Reports of a high wind and a rough sea tonight caused Pan-American Airways and Curtiss Aairport officials to fear for the safety of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian flier, who left this morning for Miami and was hours overdue late this afternoon.

Two planes, one a trimotored transport ship, and the other a single-engined Amphibian, left this afternoon for a search of the waterways, equipped with life rafts and emergency kits, but the roughness of the seas caused doubts that Mrs. Keith-Miller's plane could survive long had it landed on the Gulf.

She carried a raft when she left this morning, but expressed doubt she would be able to use it in case of a landing on the water, since it was a rubber affair and would have to be pumped up. Her little two-place cabin machine was not equipped either with radio or with instruments for flying blind.

Mrs. Keith-Miller took off this morning in the face of unfavorable weather despite warnings by veteran fliers, but she had already waited in Havana three days and was eager to return to Pittsburgh. She was advised to go yesterday and follow in the wake of a Pan-American passenger plane flying the regular course, but she refused because she preferred to start early of a morning and thus avoid an overnight stop in Miami.

Another thing that caused concern was the fact that before the take-off Mrs. Miller admitted she was worried, and it was feared this might have constituted a "mental hazard" in case she were forced down at sea. Her worry was because she had no instruments for blind flying, radio or bank dials, and was uncertain of her ability to use the rubber raft.

A possibility that Mrs. Keith-Miller may not have attempted to go to the Florida city was seen tonight in the statement of a reporter for Diario de la Marina.

Mrs. Keith-Miller told the reporter that she would land at Miami if she found weather conditions favorable but otherwise would continue north as far as possible. Others understood, however, that she intended stopping at Miami.

Since she had fuel for about 9 hours of flight and the distance across the gulf is not far it was felt by some that she might have reached some point in the United States where communication was difficult.

COLD BREAKS MARK STANDING 58 YEARS

Vt., swung down out of Canada, laying a slick coat of ice and snow on highways. This resulted in many collisions and motor car accidents which were in turn responsible for most of New England's deaths. Even colder weather was predicted for today.

The promise of warmer weather tomorrow was held out for middle America. The moderation, however, was expected to be accompanied in parts of the Great Lakes territory by more snow to add to the transportation hazards which already have made themselves felt.

The lowest temperature report to the Weather Bureau yesterday was 12 below in Duluth, Minn. Several points in North Dakota, Wisconsin and upper Michigan also had below zero readings.

Although Miami and the Everglades escaped the severe cold, frost was reported early yesterday as far south as Bradenton. The damage to crops, however, was believed to have been slight.

The warmest readings yesterday were on the West and Gulf Coasts.

In Chicago, where the temperature moved yesterday to between 1 and 17 degrees above zero, the forecast for today's Army-Notre Dame football game at Soldiers Field was warmer, but possibly snow.

COAL STRIKE THREAT LOOMING IN BRITAIN

delegate conference are to be considered by the miners' district bodies, and a further meeting of the conference has been called for Thursday.

Early Action Seen.

If South Wales, however, or some other district should strike on Monday, it is not believed likely there would be much waiting for the routine of the delegates' conference before stoppage of work would become central.

There remains no doubt in the minds of the men as to what a general stoppage of work will mean. The prospect conjures up memories of dirty, desolate pits and villages, with the whirr of machinery absent; little groups of men and women standing silently on street corners; children crying from hunger, their clothing in rags; marines drafted to work the pumps which keep the mines from flooding, and clashes between normally peaceful and law-abiding men, made desperate by hunger, and police drafted into their area.

It is South Wales which springs chiefly to mind, when such a picture is presented, and it is South Wales which again is the chief center of hopes and fears tonight.

THE SECRETARY OF LABOR.

President Hoover has taken the liberty of appointing a Secretary of Labor of his own choice, instead of choosing an appointee from a list selected for him by the American Federation of Labor. In his statement announcing the appointment of William N. Doak the President makes it clear that he resents what he regards as an attempt at dictation in the matter of appointments to office.

If Mr. Doak were not affiliated with organized labor and not especially well qualified to fill the office, the American Federation of Labor might have reason for opposing his appointment on the ground that the President had gone out of his way to avoid recognition of organized labor. But Mr. Doak is identified with organized labor, and is even indorsed by unions belonging to the federation. That he is well qualified to make a good Secretary of Labor can not be denied.

The right of the President to select members of his official family without dictation from organizations or interests, and his obligation to maintain the principle of open opportunity of all citizens to aspire to office, are asserted by Mr. Hoover. This right and duty can not be successfully challenged. No doubt great industrial combinations would like to name an Attorney General. Financial interests would be delighted if they could dictate the appointment of a Secretary of the Treasury. Perhaps the postal employes would like to name the Postmaster General, and possibly the National Grange would be glad to select a Secretary of Agriculture and impose him upon the President.

When the people elect a President they choose an umpire who is to deal fairly with all elements and sections. Every President finds it necessary to assert his independence or yield the executive power to organizations which are not entitled to it. Mr. Hoover has searched about and found a man who in his opinion will "represent all labor in his official duties." That is all that any particular body of organized labor could rightfully ask. The Department of Labor would shrink into contemptible proportions if it should be made a mere perquisite of the American Federation. It is the Government's agency through which to deal with all the problems of all labor.

No doubt a minority in the Senate will try to curry favor with the American Federation of Labor by opposing Mr. Doak's confirmation. There is no substantial reason for opposing confirmation. The federation would not win popular favor if it should set up the claim that it has an exclusive monopoly of the office of Secretary of Labor. It would gain favor, however, if it should loyally support the President in asserting his right and duty to make his own selections to public office, having in mind solely the public interest.

NO TRANSPORTATION MONOPOLY.

The "declaration of independence" formulated last week by the Association of Railway Executives is followed by publication of a legislative program which the Class I roads propose to lay before Congress a year hence. Drafting of the bills has not been completed, but an outline of six pieces of legislation is in hand. The roads plan to propose: That the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission be extended to coastal steamship lines; that the service requirements of such lines be standardized and that they be permitted to operate only after they have been granted certificates of public convenience and necessity; that the Panama Canal act be amended to permit railroads to operate steamers coastwise and on the Great Lakes; that the interstate omnibus movement be regulated; that the impost of commercial vehicle licensing fees commensgrate with the cost of maintaining highways be provided for, and that the transportation act be amended so that pipe line common carriers be prohibited from carrying commodities in which they are interested, directly or indirectly, as the railways now are. In substance, says Charles R. Paulding, vice president of the New York Central, these are the legislative aims of the railroads.

That the railroads have had hard going since the war is emphasized by recent comparative figures having to do with the growth of various transportation agencies. From 1920 to 1929, freight, expressed in gross ton-miles, increased but 8.8 per cent, while passenger-miles decreased 34.2 per cent. Between 1920 and 1929, however, motor car registrations increased 181 per cent; motor truck registrations increased 235.9 per cent; motor omnibus registrations increased 825 per cent; intercoastal tonnage passing through the Panama Canal increased 637 per cent, while traffic on inland waterways, exclusive of the Great Lakes, increased 93.5 per cent.

The railways seemingly feel that they have been deprived of traffic that is rightfully theirs, and they propose to ask Congress to enact legislation that will force shippers to use the railways or enable the railways to enter competitive transportation fields. Mr. Paulding says:

> Competition by new and unregulated methods of transportation has brought about the present crisis in railroading. The railroads do not oppose the use and expansion of these methods. Such an attitude would be inimical to progress. What the railroads desire and will seek by appropriate legislation is the placing of all forms of interstate transportation under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the removal of certain restrictions on their operations that the railroads find onerous and believe unfair.

The question of placing all forms on interstate transportation under the regulation of the Interstate Commerce Commission is one that has been debated by Congress at length. It seems most likely that sooner or later the jurisdiction of the commission will be extended to buses, barges and all other interstate common carriers. No possible objection can be raised against the railroads lending their influence toward hastening the enactment of legislation extending the authority of the Commerce Commission. But when the roads ask for removal of restrictions that they found "onerous" and believe "unfair" it sounds as though they have in mind the building up of a transportation monopoly. The roads had better go slow in pushing any program that is calculated to make the public believe that they hope to build up a transportation monopoly. The situation that prevailed before the railroads were forced to drop their steamship lines indicated only too clearly that competition was throttled whenever the railroads had the power to throttle it.

THE VICIOUS NORRIS AMENDMENT.

The whole country is hoping that an extra session of Congress may be averted. The present fear and dread of an early session of the new Congress should cause every one to pause in the face of the proposition to amend the Constitution, providing that the country hereafter shall never be able to avert the calamity of a session of the new Congress soon after the election of its members.

The proposed amendment would rush political campaigners into Congress with such haste after their election as to make it impossible for them to change from campaign partisans to judicious lawmakers. If there is any logic or reason for the proposed change in the Constitution, it is to enable those who have been successful as candidates for Congress to begin at once to enact law. Laws to remedy temporary and local conditions immaturely considered would be the result.

It is not enough to say that the parliaments of Europe convene soon after their election. The European countries referred to are parliamentary governments—the United States is not. Those who think the Norris amendment important should know that the Constitution does not give the legislative branch of this country the powers conferred on parliament by the parliamentary governments of Europe. All are thankful for that. Within recent years dictators have taken charge in Italy and Spain and a dictatorship was avoided in France by the parliament of that country conferring almost unrestricted power on the premier, all because of the near failure of parliamentary government, which Americans are asked to imitate.

No one has indicated the failure of Congress to enact laws at the short session of Congress that were essential to the common weal. On the contrary, many of the most important laws were enacted in the short sessions of Congress. Among them are the interstate commerce act, the Aldrich-Vreeland currency act, the gold standard act, as well as most of the amendments to the judicial code. Important legislative proposals before Congress have often been laid aside until the short session, to give further time for reflection and more mature judgment.

For more than a century and a quarter Congress has met every just expectation of the people. The laws enacted from time to time have helped to elevate the standard of living above all the rest of the world. The Constitution as it stands has contributed to the common welfare, by insuring due deliberation before making laws.

Recent amendments have been adopted as a result of specious and unsound argument, which many of the people now regret. The same school of politicians that inflicted upon the country the direct primary and the direct election of United States senators is now proposing the Norris amendment to provide for hasty and emotional legislation. The amendment should be defeated.

CHRISTMAS SEALS.

While agencies administering directly to the needs of the unemployed and those otherwise in distress are deserving of every penny that can be donated by those not in actual want, the agencies that year after year have been working for the amelioration of social and physical ills should not be overlooked. The Washington Tuberculosis Association is one of these. The fight it has directed against the great white plague has resulted in decreasing the tuberculosis death rate in Washington from 266 per 100,000 population in 1900 to 92 per 100,000 population in 1928. The fact that the death rate in the United States registration area is lower by 22 per 100,000 population than the Washington rate is evidence of itself that the fight of the local association must not be allowed to slacken.

For 23 years the Tuberculosis Association has raised its funds through the sale of Christmas seals. In sheets of 100, valued at $1 a sheet, the seals have now been mailed to Washingtonians. A generous response is anticipated. Christmas gifts sealed with the familiar emblem of the Tuberculosis Association carry hope and good cheer to many a heart.

Times of distress and hardship always witness an increase of tuberculosis. This winter the Tuberculosis Association should increase its activities with respect to its child clinic, home instruction, educational publicity and in other ways. The fight against the dread disease that annually claims thousands of victims is of personal interest to all. Washington should buy tuberculosis seals to the limit of its ability.

"ACTING" IN OPERA

From the Chicago Tribune.

There is a good deal to be said for opera in English, but it has all been said. Knowledge of the words might contribute to appreciation of the performance, but it is not as important as many people think. The thing the operagoer wants most to know is what the peole on the stage are doing and why. For these purposes the words may be regarded as of secondary value. The American people have a gift for pantomime; that is a conclusion which may fairly be drawn from the fact that our silent movies conquered the world. Our actors seem to be peculiarly gifted in telling a story and expressing emotion without the use of words and our audiences are just as quick to catch the meaning.

Now, the stories of the operas may be divided roughly into two classes; there are those which have no sense to them at all, like "Il Trovatore" or "Traviata," and, therefore, can not be made intelligible under any circumstances; and there are the others whose stories for the most part are as simple and direct as they can possibly be. Without the aid of words or the suggestion of the music an imbecile ought to be able to follow the story of "Carmen," for example, or "Aida." Yet the fact is incontestable that American audiences, quick as they are to catch a story told in pantomime, are commonly puzzled at the opera. Most of us, even at the operas with which we are most familiar, are speculating on what all the fuss on the stage is about when we might be more pleasantly occupied in listening to it. Even when we are dead certain of the story we often find it difficult to make the behavior on the stage correspond with the known progress of the tale.

You can not attribute that only or chiefly to a failure to understand the words. More especially, it results from failure to understand the gestures. The style of acting adopted by most opera singers happily went out of business on the spoken stage in this country some time before 1890. It is florid, histrionic, actorish. It lacks restraint, subtlety, and shading. From the actor's behavior it is generally possible to determine that he has lost something, but whether it is his collar button, his girl, or only his senses is another question. He makes about the same faces and pounds his breast with about equal force for all three deprivations.

Not only that, but the gestures themselves are commonly the conventionalized modes of expression employed by the Latin peoples. The best guide for the operagoer, oddly enough, is Mr. Terry's invaluable guide to Mexico, with its preliminary remarks on the meaning of Latin gestures. After a thorough training in these conventions the American operagoer has a better chance; but even then he can find no pleasure in the acting as such. He can understand it as a stenographer can understand shorthand, but he can hardly be expected to enjoy it.

If the actors would only learn to behave like Americans we might take a greater interest in what they are saying in song. As it is we are half convinced it is nonsense, and therefore we don't care whether it is couched in English, French or Sanskrit. The opera in English societies would get along faster, we suspect, if they would start with Americanizing the acting, for they would thereby create a demand for the words, which now is almost totally lacking.

Certainly it ought to be to the interest of the singers themselves to modernize and Americanize their behavior on the stage. The notable successes of such artists as Miss Garden, Miss Bori and Mr. Vanni-Marcoux are to be attributed in no small measure to the restraint, the originality and the departure from tradition in their acting. They do not go through the routine taught by the mise en scene hacks in every European opera center. They do not tear the hair and beat the breast when dismayed. They do not make a sweeping bow to the waist when meeting a stranger. For the most part they behave on the stage as the rest of us behave or would like to. It would profit other singers to acquire their technique.

Through infrequency is retained freshness of experience.

With wisdom you must carry on.
Not having me on hand to tell
What stocks to buy, what shares to sell
Will make it difficult for you.
So please be careful what you do.

"Of course I purchased Y. & Z.

Women are helpless at the best.

Why do you throw that up to me?

To count the losses I have had.
Please bear in mind, if even I
Pick all the bad ones out to buy
Without my wisdom, how will you
Determine what is best to do?

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

MY DEAR LOUISE:

Do you remember the skeleton of a giant lizard-like creature you saw in Washington? And do you known what killed him and his kind?

Men of science, digging in the earth for scraps of early history, find fragmentary skeletons of many great varmints that lived a million years ago—queer, awkward-looking creatures, for the most part, and yet possessed of enormous strength and armed with teeth that could make one bite of an ordinary man.

What killed these giants? Well, in a world full of many risks they chose the greatest risk of all. Some water creatures risked climbing out on dry land and survived to climb even higher. Some risked developing wings and soon their progeny were nesting above the danger line. But these big fellows with the mighty jaws took the biggest risk of all. They risked standing still, and something got them. They didn't keep pace with the world.

There isn't any way to escape risks on this terrestrial ball. Germs and storms and fool drivers are an ever-present menace. But there is one risk you can avoid. You can avoid the certain destruction that awaits those who stand still.

The world doesn't stand still—not ever. It goes on and on, and those who don't keep pace with it are left behind with bitterness for company.

At seventeen you haven't much distance to afford perspective, but I want you to look back about five years and try to recall certain people as you knew them then.

Do they seem as important and as wonderful now as you thought they were five years ago? If they do, you haven't done any traveling. And if they seem to have shrunk about 50 per cent, it is because you have grown.

Do the ideas and ideals you had then seem amusing to you now? All right; you have moved up a notch.

Keep moving you must, for the minute you stop your doom is sealed. You become a has-been—an old fogey—fit only for the discard.

There are fundamental ideals and standards that have survived in all ages and all lands—eternal verities that you must hold fast because they are as unchanging as the law of gravity.

But you must beware the ideas and isms of the day. They replace other ideas and isms that seemed sacred to everybody yesterday, and new ones will replace them tomorrow.

Don't collect a set of them and thereafter refuse to listen when new ones appear. The world keeps on learning. You must learn with it, for the moment you begin to hate new ideas, that moment you are dead from the ears up.

Accept the ideas that seem sound, but be ready to swop when better ones appear. In short, don't petrify.

Love, DAD.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Railroads Will Be Beaten.

(New Orleans Times-Picayune.)

If the rail interests are resolved to make the fight against inland water transportation development, their challenge will be accepted and their attack will be stoutly resisted. In our opinion, such a conflict could have but one result—defeat of the antiwaterway forces. For national public opinion backs the waterway development program. Both the great political parties have indorsed it. The practical benefits thereof not only are demanded but needed by millions of inland producers and shippers who attribute some part of their present troubles to rail transportation rate systems that they believe with all sincerity, whether mistakenly or not, are unfair to them and their interests. Against that public feeling and conviction, plus congressional and administration commitments to the waterway program that stands additionally indorsed by both parties, the antiwaterway attack in our judgment is fated to defeat.

They called her the "Portia of Prohibition." Other decorations might have been pinned on her flowing robe. In the purple of her erudition she was the Hypatia of the cause. By the fiats of her dynastic leadership she was the noble experiment's Catherine the Great. This was the Mabel Walker Willebrandt whom the world knew as Assistant Attorney General and Westerville worshiped. Alas, she has forsaken the arid paths. Now she walks in gayer vineyards. She is counsel for a California enterprise which, innocent in appearance, is at heart a guilty wretch. The commodity this company vends, though kickless as a chocolate eclair when purchased, writhes with evil propensities and sinister predilections. A little while and the harmless draft takes on a livelier iris, achieves an incredible bouquet, develops an authority like dynamite. If we understand the irate Rev. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, Mrs. Willebrandt, as the goddess of the grape, has handed her old love, prohibition, the ramberry.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Straw Votes in Washington Show Temper of American People on Paramount Issues of the Day.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As salaried secretary of the Propaganda Pilgrims and receiving a bonus for all matter I get into the newspapers, I hasten to apprise you of the results of our latest straw vote in the District of Columbia. Similar sentiments probably hold good throughout the nation.

"On all-night curbside parking on all streets." We sent out 341,465 postcards, that being the total of adults in the city. We got back 81,413. Opposed to such parking, 4,602; in favor of it, 56,811. This shows 92 per cent in favor, which just happens to be the number of all-night parkers.

"Proposed law requiring all customers to tip the barber at least 20 cents." Again we sent out 341,465 postcards. We got back 5,064 replies. Opposed, 648; favoring 4,416. There are some 4,417 barbers in town. You see, the city favors the tip 87 per cent.

"Proposition to make a $5 cash present compulsory by every householder as a Christmas gift to the garbage man." Usual 341,465 postcards went out. We got back 511 replies. Opposed, 25; favoring, 486. This shows the city in favor of the garbage present plan more than 96 per cent. There as 489 garbage collectors in the city. We can not understand how three failed to vote on the question. Possibly at Palm Beach.

"On public demand that Army-Navy football games be resumed and Army be made to observe regular collegiate three-year eligibility rule." Usual 341,465 cards went out. We got back 8,482 cards, indicating a really amazingly large vote. Opposed, 2,003; favoring, 7,479. We understand that there are 2,003 Army officers in Washington.

"To permit free and unlimited panhandling in the city." Again we sent out 341,465 postcards, and in addition distributed by hand a total of 1,721 to men on park benches, because we did not have their local addresses. We got back 1,796 replies. Opposed, 75; in favor of the personal freedom plan, 1,721.

As rapidly as we receive returns from other significant straw votes, showing which way the breeze is blowing, we shall lose no time in getting the suggestion into print.

WILL E. CONVINCE.

Something Wrong With Reparations Plan—German Bonds Down, and Allies Worried.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What has happened to the German reparation 5½ per cent bonds issued under the Young plan? There must be something wrong with the watch, even though, as the mad hatter explained, the best butter was put in the works. It will be recalled that after four long months of labor in Paris the so-called economic experts of different nations, including (unofficially) our own, finally solved what was duly and carefully christened the Young plan.

The plan would straighten out the awful mess in which the Germans and the other war debtors found themselves. Such matters could be handled much better by bankers and economic experts, as Mr. Young, who presided at Paris, afterward explained in San Francisco. Politicians and politics were carefully excluded from the experts' deliberations.

But politicians are a pestiferous tribe. They insist they are still on the map. For example, consider one Herr Hitler in Germany. His announced purpose is to tear the Young plan in shreds, and recent elections in Germany make his followers the strongest political party there.

Naturally, the "commercialization" of the German reparation payments to the allied nations is not getting on so well, so far as selling the German obligations to those nations to private American investors is concerned. The 5½ per cent German bonds issued at 90 several months ago sold at 68 on the New York Stock Exchange in the last few days. "There must be something wrong with the watch." WILLIAM McENTEE.
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Does This Age Have Miracles No Less Marvelous Than Those of Ancient Days?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Doubtless the airplane would be as wonderful to Elisha and the sons of the prophets as the chariot of fire that carried Elijah to heaven is to the people of today. Probably the airplane fulfills these words of the psalmist: "If I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; even there shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me."

No doubt the submarine would seem as incredible to the Ninevites as Jonah's three days and three nights in the belly of the big fish is to some of the modernites.

Possibly the radio would be as great a mystery to John the Baptist, and the disciples, as the voice that came from heaven when Jesus was baptized in the Jordan, transfigured on the mount, and speaking in the temple at Jerusalem, is to the people of this generation. E. W. MAXSON.

Row of Dogwood Trees Would Enhance Beauty of Potomac Park.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Tidal Basin and Haines Point are lined with Japanese cherry trees which attract thousands of visitors every spring because of the beauty of the trees when in blossom. I think that there should be an avenue of dogwood trees planted along one or more of the driveways in Washington. It is a native tree and would aid in the scenic beauty of the locality in which planted. Americans admire the beauty of the Japanese cherry tree, but the Japanese possess a great admiration for the dogwood tree. A fine locality for the planting of dogwood trees would be between the Highway Bridge and the new Arlington Bridge. ALFRED SANDBOY.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

BOTH networks will carry accounts of the Army-Notre Dame football game this afternoon (WRC, WMAL, 2:15 p. m.). The Dartmouth-Stanford football game will not be heard locally, but may be picked up over stations associated with the WEAF network, at 4:45 o'clock.

The new RCA Radiotron period will make its appearance on the WEAF network this evening at 8:15 o'clock, but will not be transmitted locally until Saturday, December 20. "Bugs" Baer will be master of ceremonies, a new orchestra will be directed by William Daly, while Welcome Lewis, contralto; Sam Herman, xylophonist, and Harold Van Emburgh, tenor, will be the soloists. Likely stations for reception of this program are WEAF, WGY, WTAM and WWJ.

THE Russian Symphonic Choir, directed by Basile Kibalchich and Mischa Levitzki, pianist, will be presented as a part of the GE Hour which Walter Damrosch will direct tonight (WRC, 9 p. m.).

"Tony's Scrap Book" will be heard again at 6:45 each evening through WMAL. It may become a two-a-day broadcast, continuing in the morning period also.

Two special concerts by the Curtis Symphony Orchestra, of Philadelphia, will be broadcast over the Columbia network tomorrow afternoon and Sunday, December 7 (WMAL, 3 to 4 p. m.), dates on which the arrangements of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra do not permit of the usual broadcasts.

CONTINUING their series of "country" broadcasts, the Washington Gas Light Co.'s concert quintet, directed by Daniel Breeskin, will present an all-Viennese program (WRC, 6:15 p. m.):

Overture to "Die Fledermaus," Strauss; "Blue Danube Waltz," Strauss; "Caprice Viennois" and "The Old Refrain," Kreisler; "Tales from Vienna Woods," Strauss, and Folk-songs of Vienna, Komzak.

Four stout ropes rigged with pulleys from the ceiling of the studio to a traveling microphone, in an otherwise beautifully equipped broadcasting studio of WBBM, may seem an incongruity to some, but H. Leslie Atlass, manager, declares that the radio studio is a workshop and that mechanics come first.

"If log-chains would better serve our purpose, we would run log-chains from the ceiling," he declared.

The new dramatic serial, "Careless Love," is written and acted by an all-colored cast, (WRC, 8:30 p. m.).

The Chicago Civic Opera Company will sing a portion of "Fidelio" (WJZ, WBAL, 10 p. m.).

DESPITE business depression, the National Broadcasting Company will gross $24,000,000 for 1930 on a basis of averages up to and including September 30, figures Variety. This compares to around $18,000,000 for the year 1929.

"Columbia will also show a distinct jump forward," the story continues, "from about $3,000,000 to over $5,000,000. Columbia has added 25 stations to its chain in about fifteen months, with fourteen of that number tying-in since January last.

"Despite the increase in volume of business, the claim is made by radio officials that the industry as a whole is not making a profit, or at least nor proportionate to the capital investment or the total revenue. Explanation is the enormous expansion still as rapid and as costly as in the infancy of the development."

Now the Crockett Mountaineers, who have been true to their hill-billy songs ever since they became part of the C. B. S., have at last been affected by continued exposure to urban syncopation. Recently Albert and Johnny played "Frankie and Johnny." Johnny's arrangement of the melancholy ballad was full of off-beats and sliding chords in the best manner of the modern masters of jazz.

Dare Interprets the Mode

New York, Nov. 28.

IT doesn't seem to lend itself to gold or very much that glitters goldishly, our modern art, does it? The Theater Pigalle is my idea of modern in the most artistic sense of the word, and who has ever been fortunate enough to set foot in it or in its smart adjoining cafe, Les Enfants Terribles, has not been impressed by its shining machine-like steel piping decorations, and its glittering crystal!

Crystal and silver lend themselves to modernistic art decorations in the home better than any other medium. One could almost say that we are approaching another ice age, without a ray of golden sun to lift its austerity.

* * * *

And oh, the gorgeous home furnishings I saw of it in Vienna, made of real cut crystal that cost a fortune to make and another one to own! A far, far cry from the tinkling and glittering crystal chandelier of yesterday, despite the fact that they were of the same medium.

And with my mind on my dear public as usual, I figured out that a lot of these million-dollar crystals could be made by Clever Fingers herself out of imitation crystal beads or even glass beads, and be extremely attractive and effective as well as new in America. And sure enough, several pounds of beads, several miles of silver wire and several weeks later, we went completely crystal in our New York studio. I only struck when Mamzelle tried to make a modernistic piano stool out of crystal beads, and it made entirely too much of an impression on me—there are limits, even for one's dean public.

How to make delightful candlesticks, how to make a crystal bead radiator cover that costs honestly now, several hundreed dollars in an interior decorator's shop; bon bon dishes, boxes, and last but anything but least, lamp shades and shields that are simply too lovely for words when the light shines through them—that's what the Dare department of The Washington Post offers you for a stamped, self-addressed envelope this week. Honestly now, could you imagine a more acceptable Christmas gift? Each year, as I have told you, I go lampshade or turn bookbinder or cabinetmaker or something, and make a lot of whatever the year's offering is all at once—have a huge time of it and delight my friends all in one swoop. Why not go crystal this year yourself, buy all the beads at once, all the silver wire, and press the admirers into stringing service, the while you make yourself radiator covers and your friends any of the other crystal lovelies which I tell you how to make in this leaflet?

* * * *

She Fell to Pieces.

And then all the things she did for that double chin—honestly now, you can't imagine how it responds to treatment when you really make up your mind to go get it! A face towel folded into about a 3-inch strip and dipped into, oh, boiling water, run into the washbasin out of the faucet every morning, wrung fairly dry by holding the two ends in your hands which do not go into the water, and then held up under your chin, repeatedly dipped into the water and held up under your chin until it is simply boiling red, which it will be in a few minutes; followed by the same thing in ice cold water unless you have a piece of ice which you can wrap into a gauze in order to hold it—and the worst double chin in the whole wide world is going to start tightening up and reducing and actually show signs of improving within ten days or so. I promise, because mine did.

* * * *

About a handful of leaflets telling you how to make your own Christmas tree ornaments are left. If you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope today you can still get one.

* * * *

And tomorrow, in the big Sunday Post you will find Dare's weekly fashion letter. We know you'll think it worth looking for.

Au revoir!

WORK ON BRIDGE

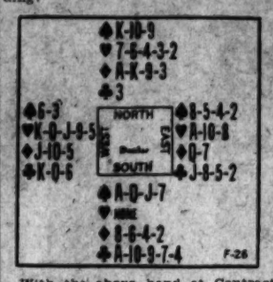
(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner.)

Last Saturday I gave the following hand and a tip concerning the bidding:



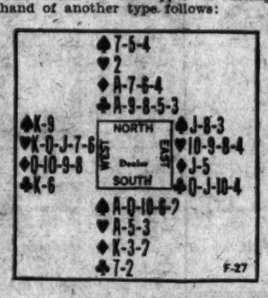
With the above hand at Contract Bridge the bidding would be: South one Spade, West two Hearts, North three Spades, East pass, South four Clubs, West pass, and North four Spades.

At Auction Bridge: South one Spade, West two Hearts, North two Spades, East pass, South three Clubs, West pass, North three Spades.

The shift by South from Spades to Clubs on the second round of bidding is made because he wants to warn his partner that he has only four Spades.

West would lead the King of Hearts and South would see that East and West would run five Heart tricks unless South ruffed. If South ruffed the first trick and then tried to exhaust trumps, the adversaries would be left with at least one trump and all that the Declarer could take would be his Ace of Clubs and Ace and King of Diamonds, making a total of seven tricks; but if he cross-ruffs the hand, he will make his trumps separately and go game. That could be accomplished by leading the Ace of Clubs at once and then a second Club for North to ruff. Then North could take in his Ace and King of Diamonds before the adversaries could discard. After that North and South would cross-ruff Hearts and Clubs without fear of over-ruffing because they have the high trumps and consequently make their seven trumps separately. These with the Ace of Clubs and two Diamonds would total game.

This hand illustrates the well known cross-ruffing tactics employed with hands of that type. A ruffing hand of another type follows:



It will be explained next Saturday.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me the name of the inclosed flower and leaves. Also, tell me how to care for an ice plant. M. A. L.

The sprig you inclosed was in small pieces when it reached my desk, so that I could tell nothing about it. The ice plant (mesembryan) is a dwarf trailing annual suitable for a rock garden or vase. It requires plenty of moisture and about five hours of sun a day. It does best in a rather rich soil.

I have two wistaria vines, one supposed to be purple and one white. The purple variety is climbing over the front of the house. This vine is 10 years old and so far has never bloomed. The other vine is healthy like the purple one, but while younger has no flowers; in fact, neither plant has ever set a bud. I have asked my florist what to do to make these vines bloom, but he only smiles, which isn't encouraging. Have you any suggestions? R. K. H.

A wistaria, irrespective of the variety, rarely blooms until it is 15 years of age. If both vines are healthy and produce vigorous foliage in the spring each vine will bloom in a few more years, and do not forget that wistaria flowers are worth waiting for.

I was very much interested in an article I read on dahlias. It said to keep feeding them and later on went on to say to give them fertilizer. What does feeding mean? Does it include water? ELIZABETH B.

Feeding a plant means giving it some of the elements necessary for normal growth. There are three elements which every plant demands, namely nitrogen, important for plant growth; phosphorus, which is said to hasten maturity and help in root development, and potassium, which contributes to the hardiness of plants and enables them to resist disease. Plants feed from the air as well as the soil, but we, of course, can only feed them through the soil and through water. Dahlias require a mixed diet.

Will you kindly let me know something of the care of French hydrangeas? We have six plants which have been growing for about five years without blooming. L. M. C.

In your locality these hydrangeas should be grown in lawn tubs, because so far north they are not reliably hardy. Leave them outside as late in the fall as possible, taking care, however, to avoid sharp frosts which will injure the buds. They should be kept in winter in a light, cool cellar where the temperature does not go below 40 degrees, and must have water enough to keep the roots from drying up and the branches from shriveling. Bring the plants out in the early spring when the late frosts are over. At this time they must be thoroughly watered. All summer they must be watered every day and twice each season they should be given bonemeal or other fertilizer. Never prune these plants, merely remove the dead flowers immediately after they have finished blooming.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

FRIED CARROTS AND APPLES.

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

Winter vegetables need not become monotonous if one takes pains to vary the way they are cooked. Here's a combination of two good foods that can be found in every country storage cellar and on any grocer's counter in the country. Yet, when put together they make a tasty dish that seems like something quite new. This is an excellent accompaniment to roast pork or roast beef—in fact, to any meat dish which gains savour by the addition of cooked apples. The U. S. Department of Agriculture enumerates the ingredients needed:

6 medium-sized carrots
6 tart apples
2 tablespoons fat
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt

Scrape the carrots and cut them lengthwise into thin slices. Pare the apples or leave the skin on, as preferred, core and cut into slices about a fourth of an inch thick. Place a single layer of the apples and the carrots in a large skillet with the fat, cover tightly, and cook until well browned, turn, and brown the other side. Just before the cooking is finished, sprinkle with the sugar and salt. Serve on a hot platter, first a layer of carrots, then a layer of apples, so the two can be lifted together.

Woman Seeks to Adopt Baby.

Maude P. Staples, of 1514 Upshur street northwest, yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to permit her to adopt Paul Calloway, an infant, and to change the child's name to Staples. Attorney John U. Gardner appeared for her.

Jean's Santa Claus

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Jean Melba, a small town girl with big city ideas from Kelsey, Conn., a stenographer, when her office burns, she finds herself jobless. She craves adventure and yearns for the good things of life. A little girl at heart, she wishes Santa Claus would come to see her this Christmas.

Phillip Baldwin, her small town Romeo, hears the wish and promises to appear Christmas day with a marriage license. Rather than take the line of least resistance by marrying Phil, Jean decides to tackle New York and find a job there. Jean plans to live with

Mollie Wilder, a sophisticated friend, who has given Jean glowing reports of gay life in Gotham. Arriving in the city Jean learns that Mollie has just married and left New York. Deportation is added to consternation, the fact that she only has 72 cents in her pocket but the situation is eased by

Sandy Clausen, a handsome, polished and animated young man who protects her from a stranger's advances, has dinner with her and then he has lost her trunk, her bag, arranges for Jean to spend the night at the apartment of his friend

Marcia White, a mysterious adventuress, whose casual hospitality does not blind Jean to the fact that Marcia's apartment is no haven of safety as compared to Kelsey, Conn. Sandy leaves the apartment, but Jean's uneasiness is indorsed by the sudden appearance of two sinister men,

Slim Diggers and

Fargeson, the latter of whom is observed by Jean to violently embrace Marcia. Instinctively frightened by fears she feels rather than can define, Jean rushes from the apartment. On her way out she sees Sandy Clause returning, but he does not see her. After spending the rest of the night in the park Jean answers an ad specially placed in the papers by Clause and learns that Fargeson, alias Sampson, was murdered the night before in Marcia's apartment. Clause denies that he returned and says Jean could not have seen him, as she tells him she did.

She accepts the job he offers with the Institute of Practical Philanthropy, an organization ready to spend millions to inculcate maternal yearnings in the hearts of little girls by giving them dolls—not to be known as dolls, however, but as miniature babies. That afternoon while shopping Jean finds Mollie, who explains that the wedding ceremony did not stick and invites Jean to live with her. Jean accepts, and returns to the office to learn that Marcia White, under police grilling, has threatened to implicate Jean in the murder.

Within a short time it becomes evident to Jean that not only is Sandy Clause more than casually interested in her, but also Lionel Gilman, a sanitarist, who invites her to dinner. She accepts and comes to the Lionel more.

When the newspapers apply pressure to the police for not having progressed with the Sampson murder case, Jean fears Marcia will be arrested and will definitely implicate her. A private detective sent by Marcia to quiz Jean is thrown from the office by Sandy.

Lionel becomes more attentive, Sandy leaves for Boston and Jean gets a letter from Phil.

Jean receives a touching plea for a doll from the guardian of a little girl named Ellen, and Lionel is due to call that night.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XII.

Twenty-one working days to Christmas * * * and heaven only knows whether I'll survive them * * * I was so close to Slim Diggers last night that I could have touched him, and he got away * * * He left the elevator I got in * * * By the time I could get back up to the office he had gone * * * He told Lionel he was a friend of mine and wanted to see me about something important * * * I think I see now why Marcia hasn't told the police about my being in the apartment * * * She's trying to protect Diggers * * * Did he really leave the apartment when we heard the door open and shut that night? * * * He could very easily have hidden in one of the bedrooms and slipped out and shot Fargeson after I had gone * * * And now perhaps he's trying to fix me so I won't tell the police about his being there with Fargeson a short time before the murder * * * I wish Sandy would hurry back * * * I should have told him about Diggers before * * * I'm getting to be a worse coward every day, but I can't help it * * * If Marcia and Diggers find out where I live, I hate to think what may happen * * * I had started out to see a Miss Wood and a little girl she's caring for when I ran into Diggers * * * But I was too upset after that experience * * * I came to the room and stayed here until Mollie came home when we went out to supper * * * Mollie went to a dance after supper so I didn't have to tell her Lionel was coming to see me at the room * * * I was afraid three would be a crowd * * * Lionel * * * But there are some things that must not be put in writing, not even in one's diary * * *

But long after Jean confided in Sandy what had taken place that night, and there is no reason why it shouldn't be told here.

Lionel came shortly after 8, beaming happily.

"Say, but it's good to have you off to myself for a change," he told her, settling in one of the room's two chairs, and the room's only comfortable chair. "Do you realize that I've never even had an opportunity to talk to you without having to lower my voice to prevent some one hearing?"

"Have you had anything to say that you didn't want any one to hear?" Jean asked him, pretending innocence.

Lionel gazed at her curiously, undecided how to interpret the implication of her question. Then: "Will you persist in behaving as if you did not know I * * * I love you, Jean? Why do you always avoid the subject?"

"Do I avoid it, Lionel? Perhaps it's because I don't think you know what you're saying. Love, Lionel, is a very serious matter * * *"

He suddenly pulled his chair nearer and leaned toward her. "And do you think I don't realize that love is a serious matter? I've been through the mill of love, Jean. I know what it is * * *"

Jean looked into his sober eyes searchingly. "Then you've been in love before * * *?"

"Of course, I have. I won't lie to you. I've always been in love with one girl or another. Why shouldn't I admit that? Isn't it the natural thing to be in love? At least, I've always played fairly."

Jean said quickly, "But I'm not criticizing, Lionel. I merely asked. You spoke as if you had * * * suffered through love."

"I have," he declared gravely. "That's what I meant when I said I had been through the mill of love * * * I was mad over a girl once, Jean. She was wonderful, and * * * I thought I couldn't live without her. But it wasn't any use * * *"

Jean asked quietly: "You * * * lost her?"

Lionel nodded. "Yes. But not until after I'd married her * * *"

He did not see that Jean had started at his quiet statement; that something very like disappointment had filled her eyes.

"Neither of us was to blame, particularly," he went on, with a slight shrug. "Unless I was," he added. "I lied to her about one or two things that didn't matter. Then, just before we were married, I told her the truth."

"Lying," said Jean, "has caused plenty of unhappiness, Lionel."

"Yes, I know; but these were little, inconsequential lies. And the strange thing is that she didn't seem to mind * * * then. She laughed and said I was silly not have told her the truth in the first place. * * * But later * * * I suppose she got to thinking about it again. I never knew * * * I went home from the office one night and * * * she wasn't there * * * I never saw her again * * *"

Jean reached out and put her hand on his. "I'm sorry, Lionel * * * You * * * you still love her * * *?"

Lionel suddenly sat up in his chair and laughed. It was as if he had abruptly thrown off an unpleasant past and turned to a bright and promising present.

"Love her?" he repeated, still laughing. "I'd forgotten she ever lived until tonight. I simply wanted you to know, Jean. I thought you were entitled to know because * * *" He took Jean's hands between his own and looked earnestly into the blue of her eyes. "I love you, Jean. I love you more than I ever loved her—or any one else. I think now I never loved before, that——"

"You don't have to say that, Lionel. Just say——"

"That I love you? * * * Oh, I do, Jean! I worship you, darling. * * * If you would only let me know that you care, that * * * that you love me——"

Jean drew back imperceptibly. "But I—I don't know, Lionel—I've only known you for such a little while. * * * You seem to decide things so quickly, to be so certain of yourself. I don't. I—can't be sure of anything yet——"

And then so suddenly had it happened that she could only push against him gently and stare into his eager eyes, wondering. For with no warning at all, Lionel had abruptly pulled her to him and put his lips to hers.

For a long moment she lay in his arms, too startled and confused to think, feeling the warmth of his breath on her face, seeing the yearning in his eyes. But presently she pushed him firmly away and would not let him touch her again.

Long after he had gone she lay in her bed in the darkness wondering what his kiss had done to her, wondering if the spark of emotion he had blown into flame in her heart were love.

But when, a few minutes after 12 o'clock, Mollie came in, she found Jean sleeping soundly.

Miss Mildred C. Wood was a thin, fragile little woman with whom life had dealt none too gently. Her hair was almost wholly white and her kindly hazel eyes looked out from a face wrinkled by time and void of all evidence of those devices to which women of our time are addicted in their eagerness to belie their years.

She lived in one of those depressing little compartments on East Thirty-fourth street, which are called apartments, but are in reality but narrow partitioned spaces conceived by grasping landlords to squeeze every possible revenue from their premises. Two deplorably small rooms one a kitchenette in which but one person could stand at one time, constituted her home.

She took Jean into what she called her living room, but which was her bed room and dining room as well, and listened attentively while Jean explained why she had come.

"I simply wanted to assure you," Jean concluded, "that the miniature baby will positively be delivered to you by or before Christmas Eve. Most of them are going out by mail, but this one I shall bring myself. Is the little girl here?" she asked abruptly.

"Would you like to see her?" Miss Wood asked quickly. She jumped up, found a coat behind a screen, and pinned a black, stiff-brimmed velvet hat to her white hair. "She's just down at the playground at the corner," she explained, smiling. "The poor thing hasn't any other place to play. It's only a short walk."

The playground was filled with younger children, those too young to be in school. Every piece of equipment was in use and every child was in a fever of activity.

Suddenly, out of a group running in a circle near the entrance, there came a little girl with big blue eyes and yellow hair, and a smile that brought Jean to her knees with outstretched arms.

"This is Miss Melba, Ellen," the little old lady said to the joyous child. "She wanted to speak to you."

Jean said quietly, "I was wondering, Ellen, if you're written Santa Claus what you want for Christmas?"

The child's smile grew. "I didn't have to write Santa Claus," she said, proudly. "Santa Claus wrote to me and said he'd bring me a doll. I hope it's a great, big doll that talks and cries and walks and—— Do you think Santa Claus has a doll like that? Do you think he might bring it to me, if he has? Do you——"

Miss Wood put a gentle hand on Ellen's shoulder. "You mustn't ask so many questions, dear. And you mustn't expect too much of Santa Claus. Think of all the other little girls he has to look after."

Ellen grew thoughtful. "Yes, of course. I'll be glad of any sort of doll, but * * *"

Jean threw her arms about the child and kissed her on her dimpled cheek. "Never mind," she said, trying to blink the tears from her eyes. "If Santa Claus has that kind of doll, he'll bring it to you, I know. And * * *" whispering * * * "I think he has, Ellen."

A little boy ran up, touched Ellen on the back and cried, "You're it * * *!" Ellen fairly flew after him.

"She's beautiful!" Jean exclaimed when the child had gone. "How can a mother neglect a child like that?"

Miss Wood said with sudden fire: "I wish she didn't have a mother. The poor little thing is too young to understand if she knew, but * * * Some day she'll want to know about her parents * * *"

Jean said, "I believe you wrote that her father was dead."

Miss Wood nodded gravely. "Killed, my dear. He was a bad man. I don't know who did it, but I'm afraid it was no more than he deserved."

"Oh * * *" said Jean, "you mean he was * * * murdered?"

"Yes * * * Shot down in cold blood * * * in some woman's apartment * * * You must have seen it in the papers just a week or two ago? * * * His name was Sampson. They called him Big Bill Sampson, the bootleg king, I believe * * *"

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—The possibility of Dick Winslow's continued success in the movies is likely, but he will give up a promising career as soon as he is ready to enter college.

DICK WINSLOW

Dick, who is 16, has played in scores of pictures in the last ten years. It probably would be easy for him, if he desired, to play as many or more parts, even leading ones, in the coming ten years.

In spite of his experience and reputation, Dick has been taught by his mother, Mrs. Sidney Johnson, to regard his work in motion pictures as a means to an end—the end being a college education.

Dick, whose name has been shortened from Richard Winslow Johnson, is a junior in high school now. When he is 17 he will have been graduated.

He plans then to go in pictures for another year to increase a bank account that will support him for a good many years and take care of his higher learning.

A knowledge of Hollywood and the variable fortunes of those who pursue cinematic success decided Mrs. Johnson against allowing her children—she has six besides Dick—to go on acting indefinitely. All except the newest of her flock, Payne, 4 months old, are or have been in pictures.

Film Family.

The six children have been in several hundred films. Cullen, 4 now, was Buttercup in a series of comedies when he was a few months old. When he was a year old he had parts in 70 film stories.

Cammilla, 12, and Seessel Anne, 9, are favorites of Mary Pickford and often appear with her. Carmencita, 7, and Kenneth, 17, complete the Johnson sextet.

Trouper.

Dick is easily the most talented member of the family.

In addition to being a first rate trouper (note his work if you see "Tom Sawyer"), he draws so well that, if he took a few lessons, he could earn a living at that.

Besides being an actor and an artist, he plays almost any musical instrument and owns a dozen.

Even with his head-start as an entertainer, Dick says he intends to become an architect.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF November 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Improvement in domestic and business conditions is predicted on this date. Propitious time for sports and ultra activity. A favorable atmosphere during the evening hours for lovers and courtship, and Cupid may irrecoverably wound your heart.

Children born on this November 29 will adore music, appreciate color, have a neat sense of humor, and be keenly observant. Their faults will be a lack of ambition and an ungovernable temper. They will not cooperate easily, although they will yield to tactful persuasion.

You have a nature which easily finds contentment, and you will early in life dig into permanent trenches of habit, out of which it will be difficult to rout you. Yours is not a progressive nor an ambitious one, and it will be easy for you to become too sunk in custom to think out new ideas for yourself, and to become too self-satisfied to take them from others. Your nonfretting mind is both a blessing and a curse; it leaves you at peace with the world and is a boon for both physical and mental health. On the other hand, if you worried a little bit more about your material advancement, you would be sitting on higher rungs on the ladder of success. Your chronic good nature covers a multitude of sins.

Your game of life is a very straight one, and although you do not play for high stakes, you follow all rules of honor, and no one would be afraid to partner you. You are a plucky loser, and you never blame your losses upon any one else. You know your own faults and weaknesses, and you do not try to make alibis for them. You have very simple, wholesome tastes, and find your pleasure and happiness in very small and inexpensive things. You very sensibly live in your own sphere of life, and within your means. You do not know how "to put on dog" nor do you ever try to. You have a great deal of patience with children, and are their understanding friend.

Successful people born November 29:

Wendell Phillips, orator and reformer.
Grace King, author.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Past Mistakes.

DEAR Miss McDonald: I hope that this letter won't prove too long for you to read, and that you will please help me! I am just 23 and utterly afraid of and discouraged with life. When I was 17, I fell very much in love with a fellow whom I thought was a good, decent, honorable man. It was a case of my being too easy, too eager to do everything for him. My parents were very unapproachable. They were never interested in my affairs so I could not talk things over with my mother.

When I refused to go out with him any more, at last, I got a little sense. He was mean and he bragged about things.

It has certainly been one hard life for me since. I didn't think I could possibly become so bitter, I don't want to be! I made up my mind to go out, have wonderful times, and consider it a personal triumph to not ever have to kiss any fellow. How elated I'd become when fellows would spend about $25 at a roadhouse, but I hated it all as it is not the kind of life I want.

Now, Miss McDonald, will you please give me your opinion of the whole affair? Sometimes I go nearly foolish when I think of the future. Should I have married that fellow, hating him as I learned to? Haven't I the right to marry some fellow whom I will work for and love?

SAD AND LONELY.

My dear child, few indeed are the lives that show no mistakes. Yours is no exception. At 17 we have not the wisdom that is ours at 70. Wisdom, like baldness, comes with the years. Stop worrying about a perfectly worthless boy.

Just start smiling again and friends will flock to you. Then life will take on a rosier hue than at present. Concentrate upon making mother comfortable and happy. Invite your friends to come and keep you company. You can not possibly keep sweet and normal while you sit by yourself and brood upon the past. Distract your thoughts by force at first, and soon they will be taking the right track themselves.

You are a great little girl to be studying and building up a background for yourself. Never fear, a man worthly of it and able to appreciate it will appear and then you will be mighty glad you waited.

YOUR NAME WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Noyes" (also spelled "Noyce") has been common in England from early times. It may be traced back to two quite different sources. In many cases it was originally a popular form of "Noah." "Noah" is ultimately of Hebrew origin, and means "comfort" and "rest." It will be recalled that from very early days it was the custom throughout Europe for the people to present pageants illustrating Biblical history. Many old records give evidence that Noah was a frequent and important character in these old pageants. After the pageants had been presented it was not unusual for the persons who had played important parts in them to retain the names of the characters they had represented. The personal name "Noah" was very seldom given to children until after the Reformation. Another rather frequent source of "Noyes" and "Noyce" is the old French "nois." In this case their full significance is "he who lives near the nut-tree."

The family name "Stamford" (originally spelled "Stanford") is recorded in the earliest English lists of names. It was somewhat Latinized as "de Stanfordia." It means "the stone ford," and implies that the persons who were first so called lived near a ford, the crossing of which was made easy by large stones in it. A certain Clemens de Stanford and a Richard de Stanfordia are mentioned in the Hundred Rolls.

The family name "Jannings" is of German origin, and means "the son of John." "John" is ultimately of Hebrew origin. It may be translated "the Lord's gracious gift" or "the Lord is gracious."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

EARDRUM ABSCESSES.

ABSCESSES of the middle ear will have very few after effects if the pus is drawn off promptly and if adequate drainage is maintained until suppuration has stopped.

At this year's meeting of the American Medical Association the specialists in ear diseases spent some time in discussing the treatment of suppuration of the middle ear. When the meeting adjourned they had agreed on the statement with which this article opened, but there the agreement came to an end. When the question arose of how the middle ear was to be drained there was disagreement of all kinds.

Dr. J. A. Pratt precipitated the fray by telling how he did it. He spends some time showing some lay member of the family how to roll a pledget of absorbent cotton on a toothpick, how to delicately insert this in the ear canal until it touches the eardrum, and then how to remove the toothpick and leave the cotton behind. If there is much pus the excess must be cleaned out with swabs before one such is left in. The swab is changed as often as it becomes half soaked with pus, whether this be once every five minutes or once every five hours.

Most of the physicians disagreed with Dr. Pratt. They did not think a layman hitherto untrained could get cotton down to the eardrum, at least not properly so. Dr. Richards had the same plan, but he used a different method. He uses a short meshed wick made from remnants secured from a twine mill. One end of this wick is placed against the eardrum. The other end is surrounded by absorbent cotton. One wick, properly placed, will drain satisfactorily for about two days. The drained pus flows into the absorbent cotton and this should be changed as often as it becomes soiled. The patient goes to the physician's office to have the wick changed.

Other physicians made use of other methods. All were agreed on the importance of draining off the discharges. Most of them thought the patient should go to a hospital, where this could be done more skillfully and more thoroughly.

TWO OR THREE MEALS?

Miss D. N. writes: A friend of mine has been following a no-breakfast plan for a number of years. He has his first meal at about 11 a. m. and then eats about 5:30 p. m. Both meals are quite substantial.

We have discussed the matter several times. I claim that three meals a day are better.

REPLY.

With the average person it makes no particular difference. This man probably eats as much at two meals as he would at three. All in all, the custom of three meals a day is about right.

USE OF LUTEIN TABLETS.

J. M. writes:

1. What are lutein tablets?
2. What is their effect and for what are they used?

REPLY.

1. Tablets containing ovarian material.
2. They are used to give relief in hot flashes and also to prevent them.

GUARD AGAINST PLEURISY.

Mrs. C. E. C. writes: Can pleurisy be prevented? Every winter the party referred to has an attack which is very serious. Is there not some kind of bandage or something to be worn?

REPLY.

Why not wear some kind of warm, windproof vest during the cold season?

If you develop pleurisy each winter I think you should be examined for tuberculosis.

Have you thought that your trouble may be rheumatism, or neuralgia of the chest wall, rather than pleurisy?

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Early Ambitions.

It is at about the age of 12 that children begin to wonder with more or less definiteness what they are to become when they are grown.

Many parents greet these first stirrings of ambition with extraordinary lack of sympathy and insight into the significance in the child's development. They tell him in effect not to take himself so seriously, that he has a long way to grow before he is a man, and to run along and play.

Yet these first gropings toward an ideal self and toward an occupation in harmony with this ideal are extremely important for growth toward maturity.

A child in this phase of development needs above all a sympathetic reception for his ambitions. No matter how fantastic, how amusingly unrealistic their present form, they should not be mocked.

Parents may help the aspiring adolescent by listening with genuine sympathy while he talks of his ambitions. They may put into his hands biographies which tell realistically of people who have achieved in different fields. They may encourage him to work directly toward his goal of the moment in some concrete way.

If he believes he wants to be an artist, they may give him materials and opportunity to try himself out. If he wants to be a rich man they may encourage him in his quest for jobs or any other means of making money in the immediate present.

Summer vacations offer a variety of opportunities for the adolescent to discover for himself how congenial may be the occupation of which he dreams.

They give him a chance to acquire in some measure at least that capacity which is so necessary a part of the apprentice hip of ambition, for keeping an objective in view although its pleasurable fulfillment may be long deferred.

Capital Busy Greeting Buds Into Society

Five Debutantes Make Their Bows at Big Functions.

IT is debut time in Washington. The Thanksgiving holiday season is crowded with busy days until one hour after another is a mad "jump" between parties, with luncheons overlapping teas and dinners bordering into supper dances with youth racing against time and their elders endeavoring, too, to maintain the pace.

An unusually large "crop" of winsome buds has criss-crossed the horizon of society this week and yesterday found the autumn pattern pretty well advanced. Baroness Korff presented her daughter, Miss Barbara Korff; Mr. and Mrs. John Spalding Flannery gave a tea to introduce their daughter, Miss Virginia Maury Flannery; Miss Katherine Hall's debut tea took place; last night Miss Mary Elizabeth Acker came out at a dinner dance and Col. and Mrs. Harrison Dodge presented their granddaughter, Miss Carolyn Walker.

Assisting at the tea table were Mrs. Hiram Bingham, Mrs. Charles J. Rhoads, Mrs. Anne Archbold, Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, Mrs. Fairfax Harrison, Mrs. Charles Marlatt, Mrs. Richard Tyler, Miss Heloise Sargent, Mrs. John L. Proctor, Mrs. Gilham Morrow, Misses Sedgley, Miss Margaret Brown, Mrs. William Kearney Carr, Mrs. John Marvin Wright and Mrs. Douglas P. Birnie.

Baron and Baroness Serge Alexander Korff, brother and sister-in-law of the debutante, acted as hosts to the young debutante group. Others assisting Miss Korff were Miss Florence Marlatt, Miss Mary P. Bradley, Miss Janet Ball, Miss Sally Fairfax Harrison, Miss Moira Archbold, Miss Helen Lee Washington, Miss Eleanor Mulliken, Miss Laura Tuckerman, Miss Mary Elizabeth Acker, Miss Mary Frances Warner, Miss Rosaline Deakyne and Miss Helen Houston, daughter of Mr. David Franklin Houston, a member of President Wilson's Cabinet, who is attending Bryn Mawr with Miss Korff.

Miss Korff wore a becoming frock of white crepe de chine made with a short train and with a bolero coat of the same material with long sleeves. Crystal and gold costume jewelry matching her white and gold slippers gave the only touch of color to her costume except for an arm bouquet of deep pink roses.

Baroness Korff wore a gown of sapphire blue velvet and her mother was attired in black velvet. The guests from official, diplomatic and residential society were received in the Chinese room of the hotel and tea was served in the grand ballroom.

A dinner dance will be given in honor of Miss Korff by her mother on December 22 at the Mayflower when she returns to Washington for the Christmas holidays. This is the debutante's second year at Bryn Mawr.

Baron and Baroness Serge Alexander Korff, the latter formerly Miss Sylvia Scott, of Chestnut Hill, Pa., are spending the week-end with Baroness Korff in Washington.

The tea given yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. John Spalding Flannery at their home on California street to introduce their eldest daughter, Miss Virginia Maury Flannery, brought together a large assemblage of representatives of old Washington families and of the judicial circle.

Assisting Mrs. Flannery were Mrs. William D. Mitchell, wife of the Attorney General, Mrs. John Lord O'Brian, Mrs. Frederic A. Delano, Mrs. George E. Hamilton, Mrs. Fairfax Harrison, Mrs. Henry C. Rowland, Mrs. Benjamin S. Minor, Mrs. Charles L. Marlatt, Mrs. Hewitt Wells, Mrs. Levi Cooke, Mrs. Lewis Greene, Mrs. Reeve Lewis, Mrs. Barry Mohun, Mrs. Edward G. Lowry, Mrs. John P. Jackson, Mrs. George D. Gregory, Miss Alva Downing, Miss Virginia W. Maury and Miss Anna McGowan.

Assisting Miss Flannery were a group of this and last season's debutantes: Miss Margo Wyeth, Miss Rosalind Deakyne, Miss Virginia Glazebrooke, Miss Elizabeth Pillsbury, Miss Sylvia Meredith, Miss Elizabeth Meyer, Miss Sally Fairfax Harrison, Miss Louise Hoehling, Miss Carma Burgess, Miss Margaret Austin, Miss Cecelia Robb, Miss Mary Wing Elizabeth Beall and Miss Mary Parrish Bradley.

Col. and Mrs. Harrison Dodge entertained at a large tea yesterday afternoon at their residence on R street when they presented their granddaughter, Miss Carolyn Walker, to society.

Mrs. Dodge was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Elvin R. Heiberg, her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Washington, Mrs. Sim Lee, Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, Mrs. Frederick Faust, Mrs. Charles Wyche and Mrs. Charles Tittman.

Assisting the debutante were her two house guests, Miss Eleanor O'Connor, of Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Dorothy Dunn, of Philadelphia, and Miss Laura Tuckerman and Miss Rosa Hayes.

Mrs. Martha G. Hall presented her daughter, Miss Katherine Hall, at a tea yesterday at her house, 1823 Twenty-third street. Receiving with Mrs. Hall were Mrs. D. L. Hardin, Mrs. William H. White, Mrs. Ralph Mulligan, Mrs. James Pennybaker, Mrs. William Hill and Mrs. Ray Fitch.

The other girls were Miss Hall's sister, Miss Mary Lewis Hall, Miss Katrina McCormick, Miss Betty Peelle, Miss Sylvia Conte Meredith, Miss Anne Carter Green, Miss Elizabeth Breckenridge, Miss Eliza Mitchell and Miss Georgette Yerby.

So even then he gets no rest,
Which you'll agree is hardly right!

Federal Council's Executive Committee Will Open Meeting Tuesday.

DR. LINGLE TO PRESIDE

Prominent church leaders from all parts of the country will attend the annual meeting of the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches, to be held at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church Tuesday and Wednesday. Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the New York area of the Methodist Episcopal Church is president of the council, and general secretaries are Dr. Charles S. Macfarland, Dr. Samuel M. Cavert, and Dr. John M. Moore. Dr. Walter L. Lingle, president of Davidson College and chairman of the executive committee, will preside at next week's conference. Addresses of welcome will be made by Bishop William F. McDowell and Dr. J. R. Sizoo.

Questions of church policy regarding such issues as world peace, race relations, prohibition, and unemployment will be discussed from the floor by the officially appointed representatives of the 27 denominations constituent to the council.

Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of President Hoover's committee on employment, is expected to address the council's executive committee on Wednesday morning. Consideration will then be given by the assembled churchmen to the action to be taken by the churches in meeting the present unemployment emergency.

In speaking of this particular part of next week's program, Mr. James Myers, industrial secretary of the council's commission on the church and social service, said: "The churches are interested, to be sure, in every proposal designed to give relief to the economic distress prevalent on all sides. But beyond this the churches are concerned with the task of finding a permanent solution to these pressing economic problems. We believe the conscience of the Nation should be focused on the necessity of adequate, constructive measures to eliminate the evil of recurring unemployment from our economic and industrial order."

Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, secretary of the council's commission on international justice and good will, declared that the Washington meeting would be asked to indicate what the attitude of the churches should be on such questions as American membership in the World Court, ratification of the Pan-American Arbitration Treaty, the possible negotiation of a multilateral consultative pact by which the United States would agree to confer with other powers in the event of a threatened breach of the Kellogg pact, and the further reduction of armaments.

Churches which will be officially represented at the Washington conference are: Northern Baptist Convention, National Baptist Convention, Free Baptist Churches, Christian Church, Churches of God in North America (General Eldership), Congregational Churches, Disciples of Christ, Evangelical Church, Evangelical Synod of North America, Friends, Methodist Episcopal Church, Methodist Episcopal Church South, African M. # Capital's Downtown Has Many Churches

Success Achieved by Congregations Due Largely to Enterprise of Pastors, Among Them Drs. Rasmussen, Sizoo and Phillips.

By DAVID RANKIN BARBEE.

Downtown Washington is better served with important churches than any city of its size in this country. The situation here is altogether unique and not without distinction. No such thing as competition, of course, exists among these churches, but they do more or less come into comparison and do make an appeal to the very large transient population that is to be found nearly every Sunday in the Capital.

With the completion of the National City Christian Church at Thomas Circle the situation is intensified. This is one of the most beautiful churches in Washington, and it has one of the most eloquent ministers in the land, Dr. Earle Willey. For twenty years Dr. Willey preached at the Vermont Avenue Christian Church, which was rather out of the beaten path of so-called downtown churches. But now he has moved nearer to the great stranger audience and has become more of a factor in the situation.

Dr. Sizoo's Church.

Over the way from Dr. Willey is Luther Place Memorial Church, which is the first church erected as a memorial to peace between the North and the South. This old church has a new minister, brilliantly educated, of pleasing personality, most winning in his personal manners and an attractive pulpiteer. Dr. Rasmussen has already regenerated his congregation and in nine months has doubled its membership. Plans are being made to make this church something of an all-Lutheran house of faith, by which it is understood that all nationals of the Lutheran Church who come to Washington will find a home there during their stay.

Coming closer to the heart of the city the stranger finds welcoming him two historic old churches, the Church of the Epiphany and New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. The former was Jefferson Davis' church; the latter, where Abraham Lincoln worshiped with his wife. Epiphany has one of the most eloquent of the Episcopal ministers in this diocese, Dr. Ze Barney Phillips, who is also chaplain of the Senate, and New York Avenue's minister, Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, a Hollander by birth, is rated the most popular preacher in the city. Both churches are always crowded when their ministers preach and a good measure of each congregation is composed of strangers.

Favorite of Southerners.

Epiphany was founded largely by Southerners residing in Washington and its present membership is said to have a large strain of that people in it. At any rate, when Episcopalians from the South are temporarily sojourning over Sunday here they attend worship at that church, most of them, no doubt, hoping to sit in Jefferson Davis' pew. This church has had few rectors, and from it have gone several bishops, the last one being the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, of this diocese.

Dr. Sizoo has been very effective in drawing Sunday night congregations, which are not only partly strangers but also of members of other churches throughout the city who come to hear his noted travel lectures, a course of which he gives every year.

A little to the east of these two churches is to be found Southern Methodism's representative church, Mount Vernon Place, which has the largest congregation of any Protestant church in the city, nearly 5,000. It, too, is a church that appeals to strangers, and right now it has as its minister not only one of the foremost pulpiteers in Southern Methodism, but also one who is probably the leading scholar in any Washington pulpit. Dr. Shelton is an authority on Old Testament Scripture and also on archeology, which he has taught for nineteen years. He had the great good sense to continue in the pastorate while he was a university don, so that he has the flexibility of mind that is needed for good pulpit preaching. There is a solidity about the man's mind that is an earnest of the kind of preaching he will do when he gets in a rage against sin and turns loose the thunders of his eloquence.

Many Strangers Attend.

To the west of the more central group of downtown churches is the aristocratic Covenant First Presbyterian Church, which also has a new minister, Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, who has been here less than a year. His audience, too, is largely sprinkled with strangers and his message Sunday after Sunday is making its impress on the community, an impress that is altogether worthy. This church will eventually become the National Presbyterian Church, and when it does it will leave its downtown location and go to a more suitable location in keeping with its new importance and its added significance. In its membership now, by merger, is included that of the historic old First Presbyterian Church which for nearly a century was the elite Presbyterian Church of the city where so many of our Presidents and chief men in the Government worshiped.

In modernizing the downtown portion of the city the Government has taken over the property of the old First Presbyterian Church and also of Methodism's chief downtown church, the Metropolitan, of which Dr. James Shera Montgomery is pastor. This latter church was in every truth a church of strangers, in addition to having a fine regular congregation. It was the first national church in Washington, and having sold its property, it has moved to a site on Nebraska avenue near the American University, where it will carry, in its new development, the significance of a national church. Dr. Montgomery is chaplain of the House and throughout his stay here has been a most popular pulpiteer.

St. Patrick's Popular.

While it is rather out of the zone in which strangers travel, the old Foundry Methodist Church on Sixteenth and Church streets is the only downtown Methodist strangers' church in the city. For long years it was located in the heart of the city, and then it moved to its present site. Its minister, Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, is one of the chief Methodist pastors here, highly educated, scholarly, practical and most earnest in his pulpit ministrations. Dr. Harris can always be counted on for a good sermon, and he always has a good audience.

Among the Roman Catholics St Patrick's has always been the popular downtown church. Here the eloquent Father Stafford always preached, and here the Pan-American Thanksgiving service is always held. It was at this church that Andrew Johnson worshiped in the latter years of his Presidency, and here at every service one can find the temple filled with reverent worshipers, many of them strangers within the gates.

Abernethy Well Known.

Across the street from St. Patrick's is the downtown church of the Congregationalists, now without a minister, but which has had a number of strong and eloquent pastors, the last one Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, who leaves Washington after Sunday. It is in the plans of this church to sell its property and move to a better site, where it will erect a national church. This church, it is said, will still remain a downtown church. Because President Coolidge worshiped there, it was much in the public eye during his administration.

Almost as far east as any of the downtown churches is the First Baptist, at Eighth and H streets, which is probably the largest Baptist Church numerically in the city. Its pastor, Dr. W. S. Abernethy, is so well known and so popular that his church often goes by his name. He has a very complete plant there and a loyal congregation, with which he is enabled to do mighty things. Many strangers of the deep-water persuasion who are in the city go to hear Dr. Abernethy.

There are a number of other downtown churches which are served by faithful ministers, but this swift survey shows that Washington is well prepared to furnish all strangers with religious service, no matter what church they belong to.

Dr. Sizoo Will Preach On Subject of Faith

Beginning tomorrow evening Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, minister of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will discuss the subject of belief under the general theme "Some Reasons for Faith." In this series the following subjects will be dealt with: "Why I Am a Believer," "Why I Pray," "Why I Am a Christian," "Why I Am a Protestant," "Why I Am a Calvinist," "Why I Am a Church Member."

Each Sunday evening Dr. Sizoo will observe a questionnaire period as he did last winter. Those who have questions dealing with religious problems under discussion may present them to him at that time or send them to him at the church office. Cards will be found each Sunday evening in the pews for this purpose.

Dr. Pierce Will End Services Tomorrow

Dr. Jason Noble Pierce severs his ten-year pastorate at the First Congregational Church tomorrow. Next week he goes to Nashville, Tenn., to accept the pastorate of Collegeside Church and the chair of preaching in Vanderbilt University School of Religion.

Dr. William S. Beard, of New York, secretary of the Laymen's Advisory Committee of the Congregational Churches of the United States, will occupy the pulpit of the First Congregational Church Sunday night. Dr. Charles L. Goodell, of New York, a minister with a national reputation, has been secured to fill the pulpit of the First Congregational Church throughout December. Dr. Goodell is one of the popular radio preachers in the country.

Dr. Darby Special Preacher.

SENTENCE SERMONS

By DR. SAMUEL JUDSON PORTER
(Pastor of the First Baptist Church)

LOVE AND BEAUTY

WE have a blinding glimpse of love's true nature in the perfections exhibited in the crucifixion of the divine Master. John Keats' wasted hand laid down his pen in death with these words: "I have loved the principle of beauty in all things." What else must a man love? What else is there to be loved? What else is love itself? When Jesus died with a loud cry on the cross, the last great barrier of love was flung down, and for one dazzling ineffable moment love for the first time showed that love could love his brother's pain; then was revealed that absolute principle of beauty which demands that things must be as they ought to be. Such was the victory of love that it made its own crucifixion the loveliest thing that love can ever know.

Nothing so beautiful as the life and death of Jesus has ever been, or ever can be, revealed to men. Utter love, utter loveliness, utter pain, utter self-giving. Look on it well, look till your eyes can not see for tears. "I can not look!" you say. But you must look! Have you no love? Look at this Man. Do not turn your eyes away. Hold on, I conjure you, though your heart be ashes and your mind a frozen thing. Is it hard to do? It is nothing to what He did for you. Suffer this for Him. Not for Him—for your own soul's sake. What do you see? Let your soul make reply: "I see Beauty. Beauty Absolute; I see the Perfection of all Perfections—the love of a loving God."

When we confront this victory of love, this unveiling of Beauty Absolute, Perfection of all Perfections, wherein every barrier of love is broken down—when we face it and permit it to take possession of us, so that we realize our oneness with this Man who lived and died for love, we enter rejuvenated into a new world which is itself transformed by love.

MEN WILL CONDUCT SERVICE TOMORROW

Gen. Ireland to Preside at Washington Heights Presbyterian.

LECTURE BY DR. COOPER

The religious service which will be held tomorrow night at Washington Heights Presbyterian Church concludes the special services which have been conducted during November, loyalty month in this church. ## Men Conducting Church Services

Calvary Methodist Highly Pleased by Success of Innovation.

Calvary Methodist Church, Columbia road near Fifteenth street, is all enthused over its Sunday evening services, which the men of the church took over and have been running for some time. There is such cordiality and informality about them that they have won instant favor with the community that church serves, and have held it, with the attendance enlarging at each service. Dr. Mark Depp, the pastor, is preaching 10-minute personal sermons.

The song services at which familiar gospel songs are used, and which open each Sunday evening service, are proving to be popular with the people. The committee in charge is planning on adding new features to this song service from time to time, which will further add to their popular interest. These song services are under the leadership of Dr. H. M. Dudley, of the American University.

A number of laymen of the church are taking a part in the services each Sunday evening, and a special committee of ushers has been organized. Tomorrow evening Dr. W. A. Parish will offer the prayer, Lieut. Edward M. Webster will read the scripture lesson, and Mr. J. M. Dewhirst will make the announcements. Mr. Edward M. Hall is in charge of the subcommittee on devotions, and Mr. Charles E. Swihart is in charge of the subcommittee on ushering.

GEORGETOWN READY TO HOLD MEMORIAL

Presbyterian Church There Founded 150 Years Ago by Dr. Balch.

PROGRAM IS ATTRACTIVE

Georgetown, which still considers itself a different city from Washington, and looks down from its ancient homes and very old stores on the Federal City with something akin to condescension, is stepping out tomorrow with a church celebration that commemorates the 150 years of one congregation's existence—the Georgetown Presbyterian Church.

Of course, this is a Presbyterian affair, but if the spirit of old Dr. Stephen Bloomer Balch, who founded the church and was for 32 years its minister, could come to life and direct the orderly events of the celebration, it would say: "This is no time for sectarianism. In this temple all denominations found a home, and the clergy of all faiths were my friends." Which is literally true.

However, the Presbyterians own the church, they compose its membership and they are going to put on the celebration, which will be an imposing memorial. Everybody in Georgetown will be there, either in person, or by proxy, which is how a great many people nowadays go to church.

Dr. Stevenson to Preach.

As the chief attraction of the opening day, Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, will preach at the 11 o'clock hour Sunday. He is a luminary whose light is shed from one end of America to the other, no matter which way you point the compass.

In the evening at 7:45 o'clock, Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, minister of the Covenant First Presbyterian Church, will be the special preacher. At both services there will be a special musical program, and after the morning service a tablet to the memory of Dr. Balch will be unveiled.

Continuing the celebration there will be special services Wednesday night at which the Rev. Harold E. Beatty, minister of the Georgetown Lutheran Church, and Dr. William Knowles Cooper will speak. Mr. Beatty will bring greetings and Dr. Cooper will deliver an historical address.

Growth Since 1780.

On Friday evening Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, minister of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will preach. The celebration will close on Sunday, December 7. At the morning service Dr. Douglas Putnam Birnie and Dr. James T. Marshall will officiate in the pulpit, and at the evening hour there will be a homecoming of the young people, past and present. The Rev. Frank Sergeant Niles, the pastor, will be in general charge of the celebration.

A noteworthy feature in the history of the Georgetown Presbyterian Church comes to light when a survey is taken of the course of its growth since its organization in 1780. The religious impulse that organized it extended through it to assist in the establishment of other churches, even in other denominations, in the days of beginnings in this section. This was doubtless due in large measure to the real and unsectarian character of its first pastor, Dr. Balch.

Preached in Frederick.

At the very outset of his pastorate in 1780 he undertook and continued for ten years to preach monthly, and sometimes fortnightly, to the newly formed Presbyterian Church at Frederick, Md., traveling on horseback the 40 miles each way. This church, known as the English Presbyterian Church to distinguish it from the German Reformed Presbyterians, now the Evangelical Reformed Church, celebrated last October its one hundred and fiftieth anniversary.

In 1794 a clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal denomination visited Georgetown on information that there were some families there of that denomination. Dr. Balch invited him to hold an Episcopal service in his church. Out of this beginning came the organization in 1796 of St. Johns Episcopal Church at Potomac avenue and O street in Georgetown. Dr. Balch encouraged this enterprise, contributed to the building fund and assisted in the dedication of the first church building.

When the Montgomery Street (now Dumbarton avenue) Methodist Episcopal Church was rebuilding its home in 1806, the trustees of the Georgetown Presbyterian Church authorized Dr. Balch to invite that congregation to hold services in its building.

Spread of Influence.

Another enterprise of Dr. Balch was a mission in the then separate City of Washington, across the waters of Rock Creek. It eventually became in 1820 the Second Presbyterian Church of Washington, located where the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church now stands. This church was attended by President Jackson and other notables. In 1859 the Second Church and the Associate Reformed Church, located on F street on part of the site where the Willard Hotel stands, united under the name of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, one of the outstanding churches of Washington today.

The spirit of this large-hearted and great-minded zealot of the gospel, in whatever manner taught, not only assisted projects in other Protestant denominations, but reached out in fellowship to clergymen of the Catholic church in his neighborhood. So much so that, at his funeral in 1833, made an occasion for public observance, there were in the cortege eight Catholic priests who had known him in a cherished companionship that bridged what, too often, especially in his day, was an impassable barrier. He well deserves what has been said of him: "He planted the gospel in Georgetown."

Central Presbyterian Appoints Delegates

Dr. James H. Taylor, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. R. P. Clarke and Mrs. W. H. Pope, of the Central Presbyterian Church, have been appointed as delegates to the North American Home Mission Congress which will convene in this city beginning Monday. This congress will deal with many of the vital problems of home missions and the various religious problems confronting the Nation. The congress is made up of representatives of all denominations, each church being allowed a certain number of representatives on the basis of membership. In addition to the official delegates there will be associate representatives at this meeting.

A reception will be given at the Central Presbyterian Church to the delegates representing the Southern Presbyterian Church. This reception will be in charge of the Woman's Auxiliary of this church.

Dr. Hand Chevy Chase Preacher.

Dr. J. Phelps Hand, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, will preach at the union service of the Chevy Chase churches tomorrow night. The services will be held in All Saints Episcopal Church.

JEWISH RELIGIOUS TEACHERS CONVENE

Dr. Abram Simon Speaks at Opening Meeting in Temple.

DINNER DANCE TONIGHT

Dr. Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, yesterday opened the second annual institute of the Jewish Religious Teachers Association of Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, which convened at the Eighth street temple in the first session of a three-day meeting.

Following the address of greeting by Rabbi Simon, out-of-town delegates were welcomed to the convention by Joseph Salomon, president of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, and the Rev. Dr. Edward N. Calisch, president of the institute.

A paper titled "The Development of Jewish Character by means of Bible story and post biblical History," presented by Samuel J. Priegal of Baltimore, marked the afternoon program. This was followed by group conferences under the direction of Mrs. S. W. Robbins, of Norfolk, Va., primary leader; Mrs. S. V. Gusack, of Washington, intermediate leader, and Albert Musher of Baltimore, senior leader.

Sabbath services were held at the temple last night, with a sermon delivered by the Rev. Dr. William H. Fineshriber of Philadelphia.

The meeting will continue today, opening at 10:30 o'clock this morning with religious services at the temple. A luncheon will be held for the delegates at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Hotel. Group conferences will feature the afternoon session, and a dinner dance will be held at the Woodmont Country Club tonight.

The Sunday session will begin at 9:30 o'clock, with a number of addresses and conferences scheduled for the afternoon. The institute will adjourn following the election of officers Sunday night.

The convention committee is composed of Mrs. Harry S. Lewis, chairman; Norman C. Kal, Dr. Bernard A. Baer, Harold P. Ganss, and Rabbi Abram Simon, chairman of the convention program.

Executive officers of the organization are the Rev. Dr. Edward N. Calisch, president; the Rev. Dr. Abram Simon, vice president; Mrs. Louis Robinson, secretary, and Rabbi A. A. Steinbach, treasurer.

Four Killed When Train Hits Autos at Crossing

Hobart, Ind., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Four persons were killed today when a fast Nickel Plate freight train hit two automobiles at a crossing. T. H. Grabowski, Gary lawyer and former president of the American State Bank of Gary; Mrs. Grabowski, the caretaker on the Grabowski suburban home, and Rudolph Niksch, of Hobart, were the victims.

The cars were running side by side when hit. Observers said that no watchman was on duty. A watchman's shanty was destroyed by one of the wrecked automobiles as it was hurtled from the locomotive. The train was not derailed.

Fireman Fatally Burned When Steam Fills Cab

Pittsburgh, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—A Baltimore & Ohio Railroad fireman died today and an engineer was in a serious condition from burns they received at their posts in a steam-filled locomotive cab, to which the engineer returned to halt the train.

The engineer, Charles N. Dreese, 55, of Hays, and R. E. Cashdollar, 30, of Pittsburgh, the fireman, were scalded.

Dreese pulled himself through the trap door in the roof, but quickly reentered the cab and jammed on the brakes.

Convict Freed to Give Blood to Save His Son

Chicago, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Released from jail long enough to go to a hospital to undergo a blood transfusion to save the life of his 9-months-old son, Arthur Noeth, 28, back behind bars was happy today over a physician's report that the child's condition was better.

Noeth, in jail for larceny, released Thanksgiving eve, was returned immediately after the operation to complete his sentence.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

MR. GLENDON ALLVINE, the erudite scrivener who composes poetic and powerful panegyrics concerning the artists and artisans who labor on the Fox lot, reminds me that in these tongue-twisting days of linguistic accomplishments for talkie stars, French is the favorite foreign language with the players.

This is no more than following the lead of the so-called legitimate stage, upon which, also, command of French has long been a requirement levied upon the actors and actresses hopeful of attaining stellar eminence in their profession. It will readily be recalled by the seasoned playgoer with what punctilious perfection Parisian French always was bandied about in the smart and sophisticated vehicles in which John Drew appeared. Many other casts were wont to essay a comparable polish and finesse, usually with something less than complete success. It is getting to be like that on the screen.

In "The Dancers," current at the Fox, there is a deal of the Gallic tongue tossed about, with varying degrees of lingual facility. The native-born Frenchmen in the cast do fairly well, and it is just possible that the entire ensemble of principals compiles a total score that averages a trifle above par for the course—ten easy lessons.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell, cast in a small role—shades of a fallen star—could probably manage better than any of the others, but her part encompasses no single French word that I was able to distinguish yesterday afternoon. And to think that she once teured with Bernhardt—the divine Sarah herself!

So the brunt of upholding Mr. Allvine's contention and justifying his encomiums devolves upon Lois Moran and Phillips Holmes. And this is why they seem to do so well for players so young.

Prior to her debut in pictures, Miss Moran was a dancer in Paris. During her Parisian engagements, she lived among the rench and acquired both the phonetics and the idioms of the language by close association with the natives. Much the same was true of Mr. Holmes.

Although Phillips Holmes, previous to his discovery at Princeton by Paramount, was not a Parisian dancer, he was a student at Cambridge, England, and spent a majority of his vacation in France, where by Miss Moran's method he, too, acquired something of the Frenchman's familiarity with French.

And isn't it odd that without speaking a word of it, Charlie Chaplin can make himself sound more like a Frenchman than any of them!

Then there is another strange coincidence at the Fox, if you look closely at the billing.

On the same bill with Red Donohue and his trained mule, Uno, are a team of adagio artists who announce themselves as "Three Jacks and a Queen."

Write your own!

In case you have wondered where the Spumoni and McGann gangs were permitted to stage their machine-gun attacks and gorilla warfare in "See America Thirst," at the Rialto, the peaceful little town of Santa Paula, Calif., was converted into a gangsters' stronghold for the filming of the pitcure and the populace given a regular Chicago thrill—which is a libel, pure and simple, writte na sa sop to popular fancy.

I lived in Chicago for ten years and never saw a murder, but was an eyewitness to three within a period of eighteen months in San Juan, Porto Rico, a placid little town that is not supposed to be "bad."

By the way, speaking of the Rialto, since Otto F. Back began broadcasting a pipe-organ program through Station WRC there weeks ago, his mail has grown so volumnious and the requests for a Herbert program have been so many and so insistent that he and the theater management have acceded to the demand.

In his radio period this morning, from 9 to 9:45 o'clock, Mr. Beck will confine his program to an even dozen of the best-known and best-beloved compositions of the late Victor Herbert, the genial Irishman, who became known as America's foremost composer of musical comedy and operetta scores.

In addition to excerpts from the more recent of the Herbert work, Mr. Beck will put on the air melodies that hark back to such of the e——r Herbert successes as "Babes in Toyland," "The Fortune Teller," "The Red Mill," "It Happened in Nordland" and others dear to the heart of all old-timers.

Jean Del Val, who formerly played with Mme. Sarah Bernhardt on the stage—not to let "the dancers have all the gravy"—makes his talking picture debut with Jack Oakie in "Sea Legs," opening today at the Palace. Mons. Del Val was last with Bernhardt in "L'Aigion" and journeyed to Hollywood after having closed an engagement with "Fifty Million Frenchmen" in New York.

Mons. Oakie, not that it matters, seems sold on the ocean as a background for his antics. In addition to taking long sea trips in "The Sap from Syracuse" and "Let's Go Native," he now develops "Sea Legs" after having scorel in earlier nautical films called "The Fleet's In" and "Hit the Deck."

Tom Olsen, still not a relative of George, megaphoning for the Fox, makes it known that the early December bookings for the F street cathedral are as follows: December 5, Will Rogers, supported by Louise Dresser, Helen Cohan and J. M. Kerrigan, in "Lightnin'," adapted from the play made famous by Frank Bacon; December 12, Jeanette MacDonald, Reginald Denny and Marjorie White in "Oh, For a Man"; December 19, Jackie Coogan, Mitzi Green and Junior Durkin in Mark Twain's immortal "Tom Sawyer."

When Pat Rooney and Pat III open at the Earle today as headliners of the vaudeville portion of the program, it will be the first time locally, to the best of my knowledge and belief, that Miss Marion Bent, in private life Mrs. Pat Rooney, mother of the gifted youngster who is now his daddy's partner, will not have appeared with them. The team of Pat Rooney and Marion Bent was a Keith standby long before Pat III made his debut as a member of the family act—and long after.

Clever as the boys are, there are a lot of us who will miss Miss Bent.

It must have ben a bit nippier than I thought last night. When anta Claus Lane opened out Fourteenth street way, old man anta Claus took shelter in a closed sedan to keep from catching cold.

I trust Mr. Blackburne did not give the polar bear a hot foot bath!

Search Resumed For Missing Pilot

Wrecked Plane Thought Clew Proves to Be in Mail Service.

Erie, Pa., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—A disabled plane sighted along the New York Central tracks near North Girard, giving rise to reports it might be the ship of W. F. Griffin, missing pilot of Berea, Ohio, today developed to be the craft of Jack Little, Cleveland-Buffalo air mail pilot, forced down yesterday. The machine, which overturned in landing, was left until means could be found to move it to an airport. The mail was brought to Erie and dispatched by train.

Cleveland, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—A report that wreckage of an airplane was seen near the tracks of the New York Central Railroad, west of North Girard, Pa., was regarded here as a clew in the search for W. F. Griffin, of Berea, missing pilot.

Griffin, in a small plane of his own manufacture, took off for Cleveland from Hamilton, Ontario, Tuesday noon in the teeth of the blizzard, reports said. Airports along the routes Griffin could have taken were checked by Wings, Inc., the company for which he worked, but none had any word of him.

River Victim Unidentified.

Detroit, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Detroit police announced today that they had failed to identify fingerprints from the headless and legless body found in the Hudson River at New York last week. Copies of the prints were sent here because clews indicated the slain man might have come from Detroit.

Pilsudski Resigns As Polish Premier

To Function Behind Scenes While Slawek Heads New Cabinet.

Warsaw, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Premier Pilsudski today resigned as prime minister of Poland, resuming his former position as directing head of the country behind the scenes. During a session of the cabinet today, he announced that his health would not permit him to continue as premier. "I am tired of directing the government machine," he said. On the advice of Marshal Pilsudski, President Mosciki appointed Col. Walery Slawek, who was premier last summer until Pilsudski took the job, as his successor.. Col. Slawek, head of the government bloc, will be given ample time to form a ministry. It is understood that while there may be changes in the cabinet line-up, they will be unimportant, since Pilsudski will retain the guiding hand whatever his official title may be. When the new ministry is formed, the old one will give official and formal notice of its resignation.

Germans Protest Acts Of Terrorism in Silesia

Berlin, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The Berlin government today sent a vigorous note of protest to the League of Nations Council against alleged acts of terrorism against German inhabitants in Upper Silesia during the recent Polish elections.

It charges that Polish police looked on without lifting a hand while Germans were submitted to violence and even torture by electioneers who demanded they vote the Pilsudski ticket or get out of the country.

75 CUSTOMS AGENTS INVOLVED IN INQUIRY

Authorities in Detroit Say at Least 30 Will Be Charged With Graft.

45 MORE TO BE DROPPED

Detroit, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Seventy-five present and former United States border customs patrol inspectors in the Detroit area are involved in charges of accepting bribes to allow smuggling of liquor into this country from Canada, Federal authorities indicated tonight.

Warrants against six were signed this afternoon by J. Stanley Hurd, United States commissioner, on recommendation of Gregory H. Frederick, chief assistant district attorney, in charge of investigation of the patrol. Six other warrants had been issued previously. Names of those charged today were withheld pending arrest of the men.

At Least 30 to Be Indicted.

Federal authorities said that at least 30 former inspectors would be indicted on graft charges, and that 45 others, against whom criminal charges could not be pressed would be dropped from the force. The total force now is 150.

In November, 1928, when 23 inspectors were indicted for graft, nearly all of the 180 men then in the service here were dropped and the force reorganized.

Frederick asked for the six warrants issued today after the completion of testimony by Charles Basile. Suspended Inspector Basile is said to have involved a number of other inspectors and alleged rumrunners.

Cases Made Against Six.

The six indicted today are alleged to have accepted bribes from three alleged rumrunners who were arrested Wednesday. Other inspectors are to testify before the federal grand jury, and indictments against inspectors and Ecorse rumrunners, charging conspiracy to violate the tariff act, will be sought. Conspiracy is an extraditable offense, and this charge will enable Federal officers to have arrested and returned to the United States a large number of rumrunners who are said to have fled to Canada when the present investigation started. In the 1928 border patrol scandal there was no conspiracy charge, and therefore no way of reaching those who fled to Canada.

Five inspectors who were arraigned Wednesday before Commissioner Hurd on the charge that they conspired with bootleggers to permit the entry of liquor by boat from Canada were to follow Basile on the witness stand before the grand jury. They are Oscar Vickstrom, Arthur Ford, Elmer J. Erskine, Gordon Garsden, and Orie Hazen. All but Hazen pleaded not guilty. They were released on bail.

Pleas of not guilty were entered for three alleged rumrunners, Raymond Malicki, Charles Evans, and Harry Gleason. They were released under $10,000 bail each for examination December 12.

REFERENDUM MOVE SPLITS DRY LEADERS

Dr. Wilson Favors Parley.

"We are ready to sit down with the wets at any time," he said, "and formulate a question to be placed before the American people, asking them to say yes or no as to whether the liquor traffic should be resumed.

"There could be no compromise between the wets and drys over a question of beer or wine, nor could there ever be a compromise on a definition of what is intoxicating liquor or over State control. But we could meet on a referendum to determine whether or not the country wants the eighteenth amendment."

Assurance has been given that the question of a referendum will be discussed at a series of temperance meetings here the second week in December and at a New York meeting about the same time.

Some wets already have taken stands in opposition to such a move. Among others, Representative Beck (Republican), Pennsylvania, has contended a move at this time to repeal the eighteenth amendment would be disastrous to the antiprohibitionists.

"It Controls the Nerves"

"I am a saleslady in a store. My nerves got the best of me and I never had good finger nails because I could not stop biting them off. My appetite was poor and I was always tired. One of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I know that it controls the nerves because I have no desire to bite my nails now, and they are long and well kept. My appetite is enormous and I feel like a new person. I have recommended your medicine to many girls with the same good results."—Ethel Fleetwood, 3023 Bandir. Street, New Orleans, Louisiana.

NATS RELEASE ART SHIRES TO MILWAUKEE FOR $10,000

Majors Waive On Colorful Infielder

Griffith Says Shires Is Best He Ever Sent to Minors.

Deal Outright Sale; Big League Career Was Turbulent.

and Catcher Bennie Tate to get Shires from the White Sox on June 16 last, the final trading date in the majors. However, as far as the Nats' needs were concerned, the team gained exactly what it wanted at the time.

When the deal was made, Manager Walter Johnson had lost confidence in Pitcher Garland Braxton—and his record with the Chisox since shows that the southpaw screw-ball twirler was anything but effective—while Bennie Tate had not been used regularly. The Nationals had pennant hopes at the time and gave this pair in order to have a capable substitute for Capt. Joe Judge in case he met with an accident.

Shires more than filled the bill during his stay here, but later developments showed that the Nats needed more than a capable utility first baseman to pull them home ahead of the Mackmen in the flag race.

Shires immediately made himself quite a hero here. Judge was recovering from a leg injury when "The Great One" was bought and Shires donned a uniform and jumped into the line-up the day he reported. In his first series as a National, he fielded flashily and his hitting figured in two victories. Shires could not shove Judge off the team, however, and had to go back to bench and utility hitting duties when the veteran recovered.

In this latter capacity, Shires also delivered. Previous to coming to the Nats, he had hit .500 in pinches, two safeties out of four times up, and he delivered five times in fifteen tries for a .333 mark while with the Nationals. During one streich he won three games in succession by coming through with safe hits while representing some mate at the bat.

For the season Shires batted .302 in 75 games, 38 of which as a National, facing pitchers 213 times and crashing out 64 hits for a total base mark of 82. His extra baggers were 10 doubles, 1 triple and 3 homers. Art drove home 37 runs during the season.

While not a great first baseman, Shires is a good one, but he is not in Judge's class, especially as a fielder. Johnson recognized the fact that he packs a punch and, in the hope of giving the Nats the benefit of this power at the bat, tried Shires as an outfielder, but he failed to impress.

Lost Interest While On the Bench.

But for Shires being the dynamic type of player that he is, he probably would have been retained by the Washington club, for he is still a youngster, having celebrated his twenty-third birthday last August 17, and has plenty of time to make good. Art, however, chafes at being kept on the bench, loses interest when not being used regularly and, consequently, is not temperamentally suited to play second fiddle to any one.

It is probably for this reason that the Washington Club officials decided to let him go, for both Manager Johnson and President Griffith are convinced that Judge is far from through and will capably hold up his end next season—and probably for several more—and both also believe that Joe Kuhel, the high-priced rookie bought from Kansas City, can fill in during any emergencies.

Shires' own actions while here no doubt convinced Messrs. Johnson and Griffith that they have him figured out correctly. Known as baseball's "bad boy," and with several black marks on his short record, including the beating up of Manager "Lena" Blackburn and White Sox Secretary Lou Barber in 1929, following a previous fight with Blackburn, Art gave all he had to the Nationals when used regularly immediately following his purchase.

When Judge got back in action, however, and Shires was relegated to bench duty, he apparently lost interest in his work, to a certain extent, and many rumors were heard to the effect that he was violating the club's training rules and not keeping himself in the best of condition.

Shires has great natural ability as a player and he probably will be as surprised as baseball fans in general when he learns that all of the big league clubs have passed him up. It was his boast soon after joining the Nats that he would have been a regular on any other club but Washington.

"Bad Boy" Reputation Teaches Lesson.

The knowledge that big-league clubs do not want "bad boys" on their roster may do him a lot of good, however, and this, together with the fact that he has just taken unto himself a wife, may bring him the sense of responsibility which appears to be all that he needs to make him a success as a diamonder.

That he has the playing ability is indicated by his record, which shows that he has hit better than .300 every season but one since he joined baseball's pro ranks. Back in 1926 he was pitching, and the Nationals gave him a short trial, but did not sign him to a contract. He went under the name of Robert Lowe, in order to maintain his college eligibility at the time.

Waco, of the Texas League, signed him the following year and he played first base and hit .280 in 104 games during that season. With the same club, he hit .305 in 1928 and .317 in 106 games in 1929, when he was purchased by the White Sox and ended that season with an average of .341 for 33 games.

Shires' hit with the Windy City fans was almost instantaneous and at the start of 1929, beginning his first season as a regular, he was made captain. He lost this honor by having a fight with Manager Blackburn before the training season ended, and later in the year again practiced fist-fighting, which added to his reputation and bank-roll after the season ended, with Blackburn and the club secretary his targets. Despite these troubles, he hit .312 in 100 games.

Shires' Sale Is Linked With Trade Last June

A new angle in the Goslin-Crowder-Manush trade between the Nats and the St. Louis Browns last June was seen yesterday in the sale of Art Shires to the Milwaukee Club.

On the face of the transaction last summer, the Nats gained much the better of the bargain, which occasioned much surprise when announced as an even swap. It is not uncommon for major league clubs to defer payment in some form and the fact that Milwaukee is owned by the Browns who will have option privilege on Shires is taken by some quarters to mean that the Goslin-Manush-Crowder exchange was not an even trade.

Both L. C. McEvoy, vice president of the Browns, and Clark Griffith, owner of the Nats, deny that the two deals were in any way connected.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S Colonials climb into the upper strata of football society today when they engage the Navy eleven at Annapolis in the first gridiron meeting between the Downtown College and the Naval Academy. The kick-off is set for 2:30 o'clock.

Robbed of much of their effectiveness by injuries and sickness and opposed by a team that has been campaigning in much stronger company, the Colonials are not conceded even a slight chance of winning except by their warmest supporters.

All the facts in the situation favor Navy, so much so that Coach Bill Ingram is reported to have nominated a group of second and third string players to carry on the battle for Navy. The Tar regulars, according to observers, will be given just enough work to keep them in playing condition, their coaches bearing in mind the hard games ahead with Pennsylvania and Army.

The Colonials, however, are not one whit depressed; rather, they are looking to their final game with determination and confidence gleaming in their eyes. They expect to flash their best brand of playing, and, in the event Navy suffers from overconfidence, to register an upset. The least they anticipate is a hard-fought game.

This optimism seems groundless, for the Colonials will be playing "out of their class." They must forego the services of one regular tackle, while three other regulars will be starting the game despite recent and unhealed injuries. Moreover, they will be outweighed and will concede an edge in experience.

Passing Holds Hopes Of G. W.

George Washington's best chance for victory, if it has a chance, lies with its forward passing attack. This phase of offense has been minutely developed by Coaches Pixlee and Walsh. It may gain plenty of yardage despite the Tars' closely woven defense.

The Colonials are fortunate in possessing a pair of exceptionally clever passers—Billy Wells and Johnny Fenlon—and two adept receivers in Bob Galloway and Fred Mulvey, left and right end, respectively.

Fenlon, who will play at quarter back, is a speedy, elusive runner, but with Navy's stout defense facing him he probably will have to confine his efforts mostly to passing. With Wells, also a talented tosser, G. W. should present a formidable aerial bombardment.

Punting of Kriemelmeyer Should Help.

In one department it is believed G. W. will have the advantage. The punting of "Otts" Kriemelmeyer excels that of Navy's captain, "Blimp" Bowstrom. Perhaps Kriemelmeyer's work will factor greatly in the Colonials' fortunes.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 persons are expected to attend. They will include the heads of both schools, Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington, and Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy. Two sections of the stands have been reserved for George Washington students and alumni. The remaining seats will be available to the general public at no charge.

No Charge for Game Today at Annapolis

The George Washington-Navy game at Annapolis today is free to the general public. In policy with the custom at the Government reservation, no tickets are sold, but all fans will be admitted to the game without cost.

Carnegie-W. and J. Delay Game a Week

Pittsburgh, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Postponement of the football game scheduled for the stadium Saturday between Carnegie Tech and Washington and Jefferson College was announced today by Clarence Overend, graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie. The game, which is to be for charity, will be played a week from tomorrow.

Two figures in the George Washington line-up who are expected to cause Navy much trouble today are Bob Galloway (left), rangy end, who is a clever pass receiver as well as a powerful defensive player and blocker. Johnny Fenlon, right, at half back, is the main threat in the Colonial back field.

Little Forecasts Victories By Irish, Stanford, Detroit

By LOU LITTLE (Head Coach Columbia University).

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Several intersectional games will be played this week-end, which practically closes the football season. The two games that attract the most attention will be Dartmouth-Stanford and Army-Notre Dame. The Army goes into this game as very much the under dog.

Notre Dame has enjoyed a most exceptional season and perhaps is the greatest team ever to represent the institution at South Bend. The Army has not as yet been defeated, although it was tied by Yale. The game could not come at a better time for the Cadets. Notre Dame was forced to be trained to the minute in order to defeat Northwestern last week. There is bound to be a reaction, and in the event that Rockne can not bring the boys back up to their peak, we will be reading about an upset Saturday evening. However, I hardly expect this to happen.

Even Chance Seen For Dartmouth.

The undefeated Dartmouth Team, which faces Stanford, has about an even chance to win. At the early part of the season it looked as though Dartmouth would be an overwhelming favorite. The manner in which Stanford has come along in the past few weeks now has every one thinking and wondering just what Warner has prepared to surprise us with. Evidently his "C" formation must be hitting on high and will, of course, cause the boys from New England a great deal of annoyance. They say that in addition to a well-executed running attack Stanford will display an array of laterals and forward passes.

Dartmouth's attack, which is built on power, will give Stanford plenty of trouble. They will have to present a real line to stop the boys from the East.

Holy Cross-Boston College Game Attractive.

In spite of the various intersectional games that are attracting Nation-wide attention, there is a game that will be played in Boston between Holy Cross and Boston College that will be as hard fought with as much of a football display as anyone would want to see in the course of an afternoon. This game is traditional. There is an exceptional amount of enthusiasm by those in attendance every year. Of the two teams Holy Cross has enjoyed the best record for the year. Their outstanding win was over Harvard by a margin of 27 points. Boston College has not been quite as fortunate. They lost several games, two of them by one point and one by three. Holy Cross is the favorite, but don't be surprised if Boston College upsets the wagon.

Easterners will be looking forward to seeing what Washington State looks like. We have heard so much about this eleven along the Atlantic Seaboard that everyone will be anxiously awaiting their arrival and

Marquette Half Back Married Month Ago

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—At the close of an undefeated football season for Marquette University announcement was made today that Melvin Brosseau, star half back, was married to Virginia Larsen, Chicago, several months ago, in the presence of relatives who were pledged to secrecy.

Brosseau is eligible for one more season of football.

Utah Is Only Sectional Champion to Repeat

New York, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The college football season now drawing to a close has been a tough one for champions. The 1930 title races in the country's six major conferences have ended with only one champion of 1929 able to repeat outright, the University of Utah in the Rocky Mountains group, although another, Tulane, obtained a tie with Alabama in the Southern conference.

Here are the champions of the various groups for both years:

Southwest Conference—1930—Texas; 1929—Texas Christian.

Pacific Coast Conference—1930—Washington State; 1929—Four tied.

Kearns Ordered to Pay Wife $500 Per Month

Chicago, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—A temporary alimony judgment ordering Jack Kearns, boxing manager and promoter, to pay $500 a month to Mrs. Legana Angel Kearns was upheld by Circuit Judge Otto Kerner today.

Counsel for Kearns, who denies having married the woman, announced that an appeal would be filed.

Mrs. Kearns, asking separate maintenance on grounds of cruelty, says they were married in Atlantic City in 1921. Kearns, in a bill for annulment, said he had never legally married the vaudeville actress but that she forced him to sign a separation agreement calling for $500 monthly payments, threatening exposure at the time his fighter, Jack Dempsey, was world champion.

The order upheld today is to be enforced until the various suits are decided.

HORWITZ NEW CAPTAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Sam Horwitz, for two years a regular guard on Coach A. A. Stagg's University of Chicago football team, today was elected captain of the Maroon squad for the 1931 season.

Alabama to Play Rose Bowl Game 3d Time in Six Years

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—For the third time in six years Wallace Wade is polishing up an Alabama football machine to represent the South and East in the Rose Bowl classic at Pasadena, Calif.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—For the third time in six years Wallace Wade is polishing up an Alabama football machine to represent the South and East in the Rose Bowl classic at Pasadena, Calif.

Formal invitation to participate in the New Year's Day battle between the East and West was received here today and President George H. Denny of the University of Alabama accepted the challenge to meet Washington State, 1930 champions of the Far West. Twice before a Wade-coached eleven has thrilled thousands who packed the California Stadium to see the season's football curtain fall with this intersectional engagement. His 1925 team won from the University of Washington 20-19 and the next year tied Stanford, 7-7.

Today's bid came close upon the finish of Wade's eighth and last year at Alabama. Yesterday his team downed Georgia, 13 to 0, to complete its schedule unbeaten. He becomes head coach at Duke University at Durham, N. C., next year.

Some observers call the machine Wade has fashioned this year his best during his eight-year regime at Alabama. They say it has more power than those great elevens of 1925 and 1926 with Johnny Mack Brown, Pooley Hubert, Grant Gillis, Emil Barnes, Pickard and others.

It is virtually a senior team. Wade has drilled his main cogs for more than two years and experience has brought them their ability and power. A sophomore fullback, Milton Cain, is about the only newcomer on the first eleven, although the second

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 28.—A football rivalry which had its inception more than a decade ago and which has reached amazing proportions since in intensity, will be resumed here tomorrow when the University of Georgetown and the University of Detroit meet in the sixth renewal of hostilities at Dinan Field.

To Georgetown the game is something more than a gridiron finale. It provides the Hilltoppers with the double opportunity of finishing the season with a winning percentage and of evening an old score with the Titans.

Not since 1926, when a high-powered eleven, under the tutelage of Lou Little, carried home a 19 to 0 victory, has Georgetown lowered Detroit's colors. That was Georgetown's second and last victory in the five-game series. The two rivals did not meet in 1927, but in 1928 and 1929 the Titans were on the long end of the scores, 33 to 13 and 14 to 13, respectively.

Numbered among the players who will face the Titans tomorrow are some who were forced to share the ignominy of those 1928 and 1929 defeats.

Scalzi Carries Hopes Of Georgetown.

One of them is John Scalzi, probably the most able and colorful performer on the Georgetown roster. It is to Scalzi that Georgetown looks for victory. By the same token, it is Scalzi who will receive the greatest amount of attention from Coach Gus Dorais' proteges.

Early season comparative scores indicated Detroit was superior to Georgetown, but the Hilltop team rules a slight favorite today. Whereas Georgetown lost, 14 to 7, to West Virginia, Detroit rambled to a 23-to-0 victory. That triumph, the final night game of the season, gave Detroit four victories and no defeats. Since then they have been unable to win a daytime game, a scoreless tie with Michigan State (which was beaten by Georgetown), and Marquette constituting the nearest approach to a win.

In direct contrast, the latent power of the Hilltoppers begun to assert itself in a 2-to-0 loss two weeks ago to New York University.

It is a coincidence that neither Georgetown nor Detroit has scored in the last two weeks. One or the other is certain to break loose tomorrow. A high scoring, blood tingling contest, like the 1928 affair, may be the result.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Jim Weaver, pitcher, who last season won 21 games for Baltimore, of the International League, and his battery mate, Tom Padden, have been sold to the New York Yankees, George M. Weiss, general manager of the Orioles, said today.

The Orioles are to receive Bill Hopkins and Kenneth Holloway, pitchers, an unnamed player, and an unannounced sum in cash for the Baltimore battery, Weiss said.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The Rough Riders from Notre Dame, riding the tide of 17 straight conquests, tomorrow will attempt to tame the unbroken Army Mule before perhaps the largest assemblage to witness a football game in America.

One hundred and twenty-five thousand spectators, an even eighth of a million rabid football fans and 2,000 more than the record crowd established at the Notre Dame-University of Southern California game a year ago, were expected to crowd into Chicago's gigantic lake front stadium, Soldier Field, to witness the battle between the two undefeated teams.

It will be the seventeenth gridiron battle in 18 years between the two rivals, but more than football tradition rested behind it. The victor will remain in the waning struggle for mythical championship honors for 1930; the loser will experience the first blot of the campaign on its record and join the ranks of the defeated.

Both Teams Anxious About Weather.

As the zero hour for the struggle approached, both teams anxiously studied the weather man's bulletins, the Army hoping for almost any kind of weather except a perfect football day and Notre Dame hoping for at least a hard field.

Prediction for the day, however, promised temperatures above the freezing point and at least a light snowfall. If the prediction is correct, the teams will fight it out on a soggy field as the turf for the past two days has been frozen with the near zero weather. Such a playing condition would favor the heavy Army line and the heavy ploughing Cadet backs and handicap the fast charging, Notre Dame ball carriers, upon whose speed Coach Knute Rockne depends.

"If the weather man has it right and the field is soft and uncertain, the Cadets will beat us tomorrow," Rockne said tonight. "Such a condition would give them a big break while handicapping our light but speedy back field. The Notre Dame backs need a firm turf to get away and to block effectively. It will be a tough fight under any conditions. The Army has a great ball club, powerful and smart. Added to that is the fact that the Army has had practically two weeks of rest while we haven't quite gotten over the shelling we received from Northwestern a week ago."

Army's Spirit Fine, Says Sasse.

Maj. Ralph Sasse, head coach of the Cadets, said he knew the Rockne Rough Riders were the favorites but that their record entitled them to that respect, but added that the Cadets were all steamed up to give them the battle of the year.

"We're going into the game to win," Maj. Sasse said. "The boys are in great spirits."

From past performances and the type of opponents the two teams have met so far this season, Notre Dame rightfully ranked as the favorite. The Cadets haven't met opponents this fall with quite the football reputations that the "Fighting Irish" have, and they have a tie with Yale to mar their record.

Both teams went through spirited final workouts today. Down at South Bend Rockne drilled his squad indoors on signals, blocking, passing and kicking. All the regulars reported they were in good physical condition again and ready to go. The Cadets went through a secret drill on Soldier Field, brushing up the game's fundamentals.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 28.—Maryland's fast-traveling football squad—train riding duly considered—arrived here today from Baltimore for its major engagement tomorrow with Vanderbilt, one of the South's strongest teams. The Terrapins appeared slightly worn by their hard battle with Johns Hopkins on Thanksgiving Day.

Vanderbilt, conquerior of Minnesota by a decisive margin, is favored to win. Coach Dan McGugin's boys have rested since last Saturday while the Terrapins have been through a gruelling game. Hopkins forced them to the limit to win two days ago.

If Maryland triumphs it will have accomplished something no other college eleven in the country has done within memory. That is that it will have defeated two of its important rivals within the short space of three days.

Maryland Regulars Forced to Play.

Coach Byrd sought to save his regulars in the Hopkins clash, but had to send them into action in the second quarter when the Blue Jays threw up a dogged defense. He had to keep them in there until half of the fourth quarter had passed, the natural result being that Maryland will not be in the best of condition tomorrow.

Vanderbilt has lost two games out of nine played thus far. It was defeated by Alabama and Tennessee, both top-notchers in the Southern Conference. Alabama won by a margin of 5 points, while Tennessee's edge consisted of 13 points. Besides Minnesota, Vanderbilt has won over Chattanooga, which recently downed the strong Oglethorpe team; Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Spring Hill, Mississippi, Georgia Tech and Alabama Poly.

On the basis of comparative scores, Vanderbilt must be made the favorite. The Commodores swamped V. P. I. by 40 to 0, whereas the Terrapins were extended to beat the same foe by 13 to 7.

Reds Send Outfielder, 2 Hurlers to Columbus

Cincinnati, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Sydney Weil, president of the Cincinnati Reds, said three local National League players had been released outright to the Columbus American Association Club. The trio included Evar Swanson, one of the fastest defensive outfielders in the majors, and Kenneth Ash and Marvin Gudatt, pitchers.

Wash. State Gridmen Primed for Villanova

Philadelphia, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Tall and tough, the Washington State Cougars looked like second cousins of the Notre Dame outfit as they ran through a snappy drill on Franklin Field today in preparation for tomorrow's game with Villanova.

"Just limbering up after the long jump from Pullman, Wash.," said coach Babe Hollingsberry as his Pacific Coast champions ran through signals and practiced punts and passes.

"We've had a great season," he remarked, "but that doesn't make us overconfident. Villanova has a habit of winning from favorites, you know. The team is a fine aggregation and the boys like to play."

Mature and massive—that's the catchword to describe Washington State—and the players are the sort of crew material with which Rusty Callow, before he quit the West, was won't to win all those boat races at Poughkeepsie with the huskies.

Capt. Schwartz, known on the coast as "Elmer the Great," and Tuffy Ellingsen, backs; Mel Hein, center and Turk Edwards, 238-pound tackle, are rated as four of the outstanding players on a team that seems to have [illegible] football suit it requires. Villanova's sole chance to beat the Cougars or hold them even lies in a passing game, in the opinion of local experts.

COLOSSAL, FAVORITE, SHOWS WAY IN BOWIE FEATURE

Fastest Race Of Meeting Is Run

Berber Second, Nicotine Third, in Feature.

Long Shot Players Cash in on Six of Seven Events.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 28.—The Curtis Bay Purse was the makeshift feature of an ordinary program at Bowie today, marking the first favorite to score during the first four races, when J. E. Davis' Colossal got home by a length and a half. It was the fastest race of the meeting, the mile and a sixteenth being run in 1:45 4-5. Mrs. James Arthur's Berber was second, a length and a half in front of the Wheatley Stable's filly Nicotine, which got the show money by a half length over Titus.

Colossal got away in front, but Pichon took the son of Trojan back to third, while Aymond went out in the lead, with Titus following closest to the pace. Berber came strong on the turn into the stretch, Aymond subsided, and Colossal regained the lead and was drawing away at the end. Hat Broom was lost in the clouds of dust at the finish. The winner paid $5.10.

The speed displayed in this race was accentuated by the high wind almost lifting the horses off the ground and hurrying them on their journey. Six started, and no time was lost at the barrier.

Season's Smallest Crowd.

The smallest crowd that has attended a racing day at Bowie was out today, with dry winter weather and high wind to keep the patrons shivering.

The Nevada Stock Farms filly, Durva, a rank outsider paying $30.40, won the first race for maiden 2-year-old fillies, with Morrision up, by a length. The Middleburg Stables' Amerisk was second, five lengths in front of Accotink, another outsider in the betting.

Fourteen ordinary maidens started. Durva, which is a bay daughter of Durbar II-Neva S., took the lead from the stalls, ran out on the turn into the stretch, but quickly recovered and was drawing away at the end. Mixed Tea had early speed but soon subsided. Amerisk gained ground when Durva ran out and left the others far back. Doucette was made the favorite, but never showed any speed.

Anchor Light Unseats Catrone at Post.

While the field was at the post in the second race, Catrone was unseated by Anchor Light and Godfrey substituted, causing 10 minutes' delay. Mrs. W. Rosen's gelding, Francock, repeating his good race last time out, won, with F. Munden up, but had a close call, as Dunfern was beaten by a short nose. J. J. Dolan's Live One was third. The winner paid $14.20. San Presto, the favorite, finished fourth.

Carnival had a bad ride. Phantasime set the pace for 6 furlongs, when Francock got his head in front, with Dunfern close on his heels. The time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:48 flat.

There was another nose decision in the third race. Oncora, a 4-year-old filly, carrying the colors of the Black and White Stable, which was groupect in the field, winning from the favorite, E. F. Sanford's Single Star. Wave Top was third. Miss Peggy led from the barrier, but Single Star and Oncora were close up and fought it out. T. Malley had the mount on the winner. The field paid $33.30.

My Scoop, 11 to 1, Scores In Fifth.

W. E. Caskey's My Scoop, an outsider, won the fifth race at a mile and a furlong by two lengths. George De Mar was second and Star Run third. The favorite, Sun Friar, odds-on according to the approximate board, dropped out of contention at the stretch turn, and Candy Pig ran out. The long-shot players had a picnic, as all of the horses in the money were at long prices. Supawana, in the field, led for 7 furlongs, with Star Run, Sun Friar and others close up. A. Robertson had the mount on the winner, which paid $24.30.

M. Shea's Gadalong, 5-year-old chestnut gelding, by Chicle—Gadiala, scored by a nose in the sixth number, a mile and a sixteenth event for 3-year-olds and upward. Pretty Patsy, the favorite, was second, Rockslide third and Highland Fling fourth.

Gadalong was little fancied by the bettors and paid $12 for a $2 win wager.

Nealon Kay completed an almost utter rout of the favorites here today by winning the seventh race, the sixth outsider on the program to triumph. Colossal, in the feature race, was the only public choice to score.

Nealon Kay closed with a rush to beat Curator, a 12-to-1 shot, by a neck, with Euphrates a length and a half further back in third place. Polamile, the favorite, was fifth. Nealon Kay paid $15.20 in the $2 straight mutuels.

Curator was first away from the barrier, but Eleusagon was the pacemaker until the field turned into the stretch, with Polamile flattering his backers by staying in second place. Nealon Kay was slow to get under way, but worked his way up with fine courage under a clever ride by Critchfield, and on the stretch run set after Curator, which had taken a half length lead. He outlasted Curator in the final drive.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—NEALON KAY, $13.20, $8.00, $6.50; CURATOR, $12.50, $9.10; EUPHRATES, $17.20.

NEALON KAY, outrun first half mile, worked his way up on outside rounding far turn and, responding to a drive with great courage, wore down the tiring leaders and outgamed CURATOR in final drive. CURATOR moved up with a rush rounding far turn, but tired after taking the lead at furlong pole. EUPHRATES closed fast. POLAMILE and ELEUSAGON raced each other into exhaustion and stopped.

PREPS PRACTICE.

The Northern Preps will practice tonight promptly at 7 o'clock at Georgia avenue and Piney Branch road in preparation for Sunday's game against the Del Rays.

NAVY HARRIERS IN MEET.

Annapolis, Nov. 28.—A cross-country run with La Fayette College, of Easton, Pa., is the only event other than the G. W.-Navy football game on the local card tomorrow.

MAJOR RACE SEASON TO END TODAY

3-Horse Entry Choice in $10,000 Feature at Bowie.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The big time racing season of 1930 will come to an end with the running of the Endurance Handicap and six other races at Bowie tomorrow afternoon. The feature is well named, for the faithful few who will be in at the death have shown plenty of quality.

The Endurance Handicap is for 2-year-olds at one mile and a sixteenth and carries $10,000 in added money, and in seasons past the winner has been one of the winter book choices for the Kentucky Derby. The field for this year's running of the Endurance will be the smallest in years, only eight nominations having been made this afternoon.

Three-Horse Entry Rated As Stand-Out.

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson's Happy Scot, Dixiana's Sweep All and Preston Burch's Tambour, all three of which will be coupled in the betting as they are trained by Burch, will be the odds-on favorites, in fact the opinion is that they will run one, two three in the race. The other nominations include C. V. Whitney's Halcyon, the Nevada Stock Farm's Voltagreen, the Middleburg Stable's Sunny Lassie, E. F. Sanford's Hibala, and the Dorwood Stable's Claremont.

Happy Scot, winner of his two starts at this meeting, is top weight, under 122 pounds and Sweep All, second to Mate in the Walden Handicap at Pimlico a fortnight ago, is in at 121 pounds, while Tambour will carry 112 pounds. This entry will concede considerable weight to the field, but on form seems quite able to do it.

Bowie Notes

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 28.—One of the real turf bargains of the year was that registered when Mrs. John D. Hertz, of Chicago, purchased Valenciennes for $3,500 from J. E. Widener. Mrs. Hertz purchased Curtsey at the same time for a similar amount and let Herbert Bayard Swope have his choice of the two fillies. As the story goes, Swope took Curtsey, and Valenciennes has gone to overshadow Curtsey's performances, topping off her season's work with a victory in the $10,000 Thanksgiving Day Handicap mile and one-eighth feature yesterday.

Valenciennes and nine others of Mrs. Hertz's string are being shipped today to Cary, Ill., by Trainer Willie Knapp.

Bobby Boyle, who handles the Geneseo string, will take Albert Adams, of Baltimore, his contract rider, to Miami on January 10, but won't race any horses at the Florida course. Boyle figures Adams will improve if kept at work all winter.

W. H. Fizer is shipping four horses to Jefferson Park, New Orleans, to join the four he has already quartered there.

The handle in the pari-mutuels here yesterday is said to have been more than $630,000, while the attendance constituted a new record for fall racing in the State.

It was so cold here this morning that neighboring streams were frozen solid. Very few trainers took a chance of working their horses until after the sun had warmed things up a bit.

Among the arrivals from New York, who came down to witness the $10,000 endurance mile and one-sixteenth race, exclusively for 2-year-olds, tomorrow, were Ogden Mills, Phil Donohue, secretary of Tammany Hall, and J. R. Frank.

James F. O'Hara, part owner of this track, who has been ill at his home in Towson, Md., for more than a year, is said to be improving and may spend the winter in Florida.

The apprentice, S. Hope, who is under contract to the Seagram Stable, had his first mount today on Hazel Gumberts.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

MR. HOFMANN, as well as all great virtuoso pianists, is obliged to carry in his memory millions of notes and must be able to shoot them out with machine gun rapidity. James Francis Cooke, editor of Etude, has found that the 319,418 mental operations made by Mr. Hofmann in a 90-minute program are composed of notes and fingering, accidentals, interpretations, rests, pauses, phrasing, peddling, meter, rhythm and other details. There is probably no endeavor that requires a higher rate of sustained mental effort than that of a virtuoso pianist.

The salmon that literally swam over the top of the world was tagged by the United States Bureau of Fisheries. But salmon travel much farther than that every year in tin cans. No matter how far a salmon may roam it always returns to the waters of its birth for spawning.

Such a hotly contested football game as the Collingdale-Rockdale game is usually a punting duel. But Collingdale managed to play the entire game without once calling on her punters. JOHN HIX.

POLICE, FIREMEN TO BOOST CHARITY GAME HERE

Heads of D. C. Back Cup Contest

Give Police, Firemen Permission to Sell Tickets.

Congress May Adjourn as Marines-Coast G. Play.

EFFORTS to attract a large attendance at the Marines-Coast Guard football game for charity here next Saturday received considerable impetus yesterday with the offer of local police and firemen to help in the sale of tickets. Proceeds of the game, in which the President's Cup is at stake, will go to Washington's unemployment fund.

A large number of tickets, some of them calling for the best seats in Griffith Stadium, scene of the game, have been distributed among the personnel of the two big public service departments. The firemen will make a house-to-house canvass, while the policemen, when on duty, will carry tickets with them. Tickets also will be sold at precinct station houses.

Congress May Adjourn For Game.

Permission was given the police and firemen to help the sale by the District Commissioners, who made a special ruling stipulating that no precedent was being set and that similar requests to make use of the "fire laddies" and law guardians would not be heeded.

Chairman Newbold Noyes, of the game committee, announced that an attempt is being made to adjourn both Houses of Congress on the afternoon of the game so that the members may attend the contest en masse. Conferences between leaders of the House and Senate will be held today for consideration of this matter.

President Hoover and members of his Cabinet have indicated their intentions to attend the game, and it is thought that with this official delegation being swelled by senators and congressmen, the affair would acquire an atmosphere never before matched in local sports history.

The Marines will perform today in Charleston, W. Va., against New River State College. The Coast Guard eleven made its last appearance before the game here in Trenton last Thursday when it lost to Rider College by one touchdown.

Lehigh Athletes Now Turn to Basketball

Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 28.—Now that the football season is completed, athletic interest at Lehigh University is shifting to the winter program in which basket ball will be one of the features. Twenty-five candidates have been going through practice paces for the past week but this squad will be augmented when practice is started in earnest next week. At that time the basket ball players who had been members of the football and soccer squads will report.

By starting the practice early Coach Roy Geary had hopes to develop new material to fill the vacancies left by the graduation of Bob Many, who for two seasons was one of the highest scoring forwards in Eastern college circles; Max Schultz, also a forward, who for three seasons was a member of the varsity and is now enrolled as a law student at the University of Pennsylvania; and Bob Bennett, former captain and guard.

While the loss of such outstanding performers would be enough to worry any coach, "Bucky" Schaub, captain-elect; Ernie Iasell, Tommy Nora, Carl Nemetz, Charles Halstead and Allen Ware are veterans who should form a nucleus for an experienced team.

ALABAMA ACCEPTS COAST GAME OFFER

team—which plays about as much as the first—has several sophomores and juniors.

This boy Cain was given a tough assignment—that of replacing an all-American full back, Tony Holm—but he has come through in great style, calling signals and kicking and passing like a veteran.

The Crimson Tide has rolled up 247 points to 13 for its opponents. It played eight conference games in a row, including four of the strongest in the South—Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Kentucky and Florida—on successive week-ends.

Alabama did not play outside the South this season, but three of its victims—Vanderbilt, Georgia and Florida—had scored impressive victories in intersectional frays.

As Alabama takes the field on New Year's Day, Wade, a guard on the Brown University eleven, which lost to Washington State in the first Rose Bowl game in 1916, will have opportunity to avenge the lacing his teammates took fourteen years ago.

Indications are that special trains will run from Alabama points to the Pacific Coast, and Gov. Bibb has already announced his intention to head the State's delegation.

Washington State Played First Roses Game in 1916

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The selection of Alabama as the opponent of Washington State in the annual Tournament of Roses game here while not a surprise was roundly welcomed by West Coast gridiron enthusiasts. The honor of competing is not new to the Huskies.

It was Washington State which inaugurated the annual classic in 1916 by defeating Brown, 14 to 0. Since then the West has held the upper hand in games won with a deciding advantage over Eastern teams. The invasion from the South has been a different story.

California defeated Ohio State 28 to 0, in 1921, tied with Washington and Jefferson the next season, 0-0, and then lost to Georgia Tech, Stanford lost to Notre Dame 27 to 10 in 1925, was tied by Alabama in 1927, and defeated Pittsburgh 7 to 6 the following New Year's Day.

Historic Albemarle County Hunt Trials Draw Big Field

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., Nov. 28.—The annual hunter trials of the Albermarle County Hunt, whose history dates back to 1854, were held this afternoon at Whilton, farm of Algernon S. Craven, near Greenwood. Despite the frigid weather, the event was largely attended by fox hunters from Virginia, West Virginia, New York and other States.

The course was well laid out over a regulation hunting field, the jumps including rail fences, chicken coop, post and rail and stone walls. Excellent horsemanship was displayed, not a single fall being recorded.

The trials fully tested the hunting qualities of the competing horses, who were sent over the course one at a time.

The judges, in making their awards, considered manners, pace, form, conformation and other requisites necessary in a good hunter.

There were three classes on the afternoon's card, the first being called at 1 o'clock.

The cub hunters plate for horses that have not hunted more than one season, was won by Content, owned by Randolph Ortman, of Chicago and Greenwood. Second place went to Richard O. Hall's Keswick, which carried off three prizes at the recent horse show of the Virginia Fox Hunters Association, held at Suffolk. Algernon Craven's Superwoman was third.

There were 20 entries in the class, other exhibitors including P. D. Koonts and Herbert E. Jones, Charleston, W. Va.; W. B. Bogert, Keswick; Mrs. R. M. Brady, Rapidan; Dr. J. P. Jones, Ingleside; David Patterson, Clismont; Mrs. E. R. Ditto, New York; Mrs. Ellie Wood Keith, University; Fox Brothers, Greenwood; Jack Rinehart and Frank Mix, Charlottesville.

Jack Rinehart's Decanter annexed the Covert Side Cup for qualified horses that have been hunted more than one season. Second place went to Atalanta, owned by Col. H. D. Newcomb, Greenwood, and third to Randolph Ortman's Paddy O'Spangle. There were 14 entries in this class.

The third class, the first flighter, was for horses awarded ribbons (first, second and third) in a previous class. They were started together and sent over the course at a hunting pace. The trophy, a silver mug, was awarded Ortman's Paddy O'Spangle, with second honors going to Col. Newcomb's Atalanta.

Judges of the events were: Mrs. Thomas H. Somerville, of Montpelier, the former Marion Dupont; Thomas Atkinson, of The Plains, and Ed D. Taylor, president of the Keswick Hunt Club.

Tennessee Finishes Well Despite Setbacks

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Tennessee, whose hard luck this year resembles that suffered by Northwestern in the Western Conference, is bowling along toward another high rating in Dixie gridiron circles.

Tennessee is definitely out of the Southern Conference race, but with five regulars on the sidelines most of the year, the Vols crushed the early championship hopes of one team and defeated their ancient State rival, Vanderbilt.

Tennessee's reserves have responded gallantly and with Bobby Dodd, the South's best quarter back, in there to guide the team, get off his booming kicks and his uncanny passes to Buddy Hackman, the Volunteers have kept a place in the first six teams of the loop.

Tennessee will meet Florida in Jacksonville December 6.

East and South Meet In Amateur Golf Play

St. Augustine, Fla., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—East and South loom as leading contenders for the fourth annual National Amateur Golf championship of golf club champions here February 3 to 7.

Howard A. Tryon, of Elmira, N. Y., last season's winner, will lead the invasion of Eastern club-swingers. He will be ably assisted by Jack B. Ryerson, of Cooperstown, N. Y., who won the 1927 and 1930 Florida winter championships here.

The South's contenders for the Walter J. Travis memorial trophy will be headed by Carl Dann, jr., Orlando, Fla., youngster, who upset the field to win the tournament in 1929, and Robert Wingate, of Jacksonville, who walked in ahead of the field in 1928.

Bud Taylor Outweighs La Barba 1½ Pounds

Mohawk-Celtic Outlook To Be Told Over Radio

Sandlot football hereabouts has gone radio. The outlook for the Mohawk-St. Mary's Celtic game to be played tomorrow at Griffith Stadium will be broadcast from Station WJSV tonight at 6:05 p. m. Manager Patsy Donovan, manager of the Mohawks; Charlie Corbett and Rube Hayman, manager and coach of the Celtics, will be the speakers.

Radio broadcasting, while an innovation in sandlot football, has for years had a forerunner in Rob Roy Mackey, the Southeast loud speaker who has been accomplishing the same results for years—minus microphone and antenna. Mackey is the garrulous co-manager of the Mohawks.

McRight Alabama's 'Block, Tackle' Man

University, Ala., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Ralph McRight is Alabama's "big block and tackle" man, and one of the unsung heroes of the Bama back field which has clicked so well this fall.

"Big Mac" is the heaviest man in the Crimson Tide's back field, weighing in at 181 pounds. Despite his weight, he is fast of necessity to be able to run interference for such speedsters as "Flash" Suther, "Hurry" Cain and Monk Campbell.

The big boy has never made a touchdown. He has been too busy at his blocking chores to carry the pigskin.

LOSES 300 YARDS IN PENALTIES.

Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—In 8 minutes of football waged between Las Vegas and Kingman High School teams, 30 penalties were called on the former team. It lost in this manner 300 yards of ground and the game by a score of 13 to 7.

HUGE DEFENSE PAIR.

ALL-INDIAN BACK FIELD.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Dartmouth's Green Indians, 3,000 miles from their home base in quest of new football honors, will face Stanford's Red Indians here tomorrow in the first big intersectional contest to be played on the Pacific Coast this season.

One of the leading teams in the East, Dartmouth comes West with a record of no defeats and one scoreless tie—with Yale. Stanford's record, not so impressive, includes a scoreless tie with Minnesota and an overwhelming defeat by Southern California.

Records notwithstanding, the slow starting Stanford eleven is strongly favored in this section to take the measure of the squad from Hanover. Tardy in development, Stanford snapped out of its lethargic state to score smashing victories over Washington and California.

Dartmouth has plenty of followers and none other than Coach Glenn (Pop) Warner, of Stanford, said recently the Eastern team would win, largely through the advantage of a heavier line. However, there are some who believe Coach Warner was working a "psychology stunt" on his boys.

Coach Jack Cannell, of Dartmouth, has made no predictions, but from the barred gates of the stadium where the Green Indians were working out this week have come reports of rigorous practice against defense of Stanford's fake reverses and three-man lateral passes.

Concededly stronger on the line, Dartmouth, however, probably can not match the back field combination that carries the colors of Stanford. Coach Warner has three sets of ball luggers, all interchangeable and most of them heavy.

Part of the proceeds will be turned over to help relieve the unemployment situation in this section. With an advance sale of more than 25,000 tickets, those in charge look for an attendance reaching over 50,000 persons.

Brooklyn Court Team Plays St. Martin Club

The annual match between the Calder Athletic Club 130-pound basket ball team, champions of the Navy Yard Boys' Club of Brooklyn, and the St. Martin's Seniors will be played Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in St. Martin's Gymnasium.

The Calder Club on its visit last year nosed out the local quintet by the score, 24-22. The Brooklynites have the identical players on this year's squad, but are strengthened by the addition of Charley Reinhardt and Harold Senkel, former "Y" athletes. The locals will use the same team which represented them last year.

As a preliminary to the game, the Owl Juniors, also of the Brooklyn club, will meet the St. Martin's Juniors.

The teams will arrive Sunday morning accompanied by more than 100 rooters.

LOU LITTLE PICKS IRISH AND STANFORD

watch with interest their display of football against Villanova. The Cougars of the Pacific Coast are heavy favorites, but Villanova, with her victory over Georgetown and Temple, have hit their stride and will be in there giving the Westerners plenty of anxious moments.

Georgetown journeys to Detroit. The game will be pretty even practically all the way, but I doubt if Georgetown can win. Carnegie Tech should defeat Washington and Jefferson without a great deal of trouble. Vanderbilt will turn back Maryland, while Southern Methodists should win from Texas Christian.

SELECTIONS.

NOTRE DAME-U. S. MILITARY ACADEMY—Notre Dame should win, but will have their troubles doing so. BOSTON COLLEGE-HOLY CROSS—Holy Cross should be the favorite. CARNEGIE TECH-WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON—Carnegie Tech is now in stride. Will win. DETROIT-GEORGETOWN—Detroit the slight favorite. LOYOLA-IOWA STATE—Loyola should take this one. MUEHLENBERG-WESTERN MARYLAND—Western Maryland will not have much trouble. SOUTHERN METHODIST-TEXAS CHRISTIAN — Southern Methodist should win. STANFORD-DARTMOUTH—Look for Stanford to win. TEMPLE-DRAKE—Temple will win by at least two touchdowns. VANDERBILT-MARYLAND — Vanderbilt too strong for Maryland. VILLANOVA-WASHINGTON STATE—Washington State will successfully defend Western football.

YANKEES RUN FOR OXFORD.

Cambridge, England, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Two American Rhodes scholars will be running for Oxford in the annual Oxford-Cambridge relay races here tomorrow. They are E. W. Goodwillie, who is entered to run both the 400 yards and the half mile, and F. L. Hovde, half-miler.

Recheck Shows Virginia Lost to Carolina by 41-0

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—North Carolina University beat Virginia University at Charlottesville, Va., yesterday, 41-0, not 40-0, R. C. (Dad) Brice, the umpire, revealed today.

To the press box, 150 yards away at the far end of the field, it appeared he had not gone across. The scoreboard bore out that belief.

Brice said today, however, that the officials noticed the error, conferred after the game and decided the extra point had been made. That made it 41-0.

Women Poloists Play at Cleveland

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—A polo team composed of four Asheville women, one of whom is Mrs. John F. A. Cecil, the former Cornelia Vanderbilt, will play three matches in Cleveland, Ohio, this week-end.

Besides Mrs. Cecil, the team includes Miss Eliza Coxe, of Asheville; Miss Betty Martin, of Asheville, and Washington, D. C., and Miss Daisy Rice Bartlett, of Asheville and Birmingham, Ala.

The Asheville team, one of the few groups of women players in the United States, will play one match with a woman's team in Cleveland and two with men's teams there.

Careers on Grid End For Nine at Marquette

Milwaukee, Wis. Nov. 28.—Nine Marquette University football players wound up their collegiate gridiron careers as Frank J. Murray's Golden Avalanche went into action against Butler University, of Indianapolis, Ind., here yesterday morning.

The Hilltop performers who are graduating in June or have played three years of varsity football include: Capt. Arthur (Red) Bultman, Green Bay, Wis., and Phillip Murphy, Portage, Wis., centers; Joseph King, Chicago, Ill., guard; Edmund Andrews, Milwaukee, tackle; David Ronzani, Iron Mountain, Mich., and Richard Honkamp, Sioux Falls, S. Dak., ends; Francis Deig, Mount Vernon, Ind., and Francis Linscott, Portage, Wis., full backs, and Stanley Nowak, Milwaukee half back.

TECH SOPHS GET CHANCE.

Atlanta, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Injuries to veterans has forced Georgia Tech to depend entirely on a sophomore back field in several games this season. Barrow, McArthur, Hart, Flowers, Cain, Hall and Cherry are some of the sophs brought out by Mike Miles, back field coach and former Princeton star.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 28.—Manager Ruocco, of the Iroquois Athletic Club, announced today he has scheduled the Staunton gridders from Washington for his club's opponent in Sunday's football game. This contest will probably be played on Guckert's Field.

In preparation for Sunday's clash with the Mohawks at Griffith's Stadium, the St. Mary's Celtics held an indoor practice at Armory Hall last night.

The Pirate Athletic Club and the Alexandria Bluebirds will hook up in a local football game Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on Guckert's Field.

The St. Mary's Buddies, under the leadership of Miss Margaret Gorman, will play all preliminary games to the St. Mary's Lyceum Five this season.

The Del Ray Athletic Club Football Team will mix it with the crack Northern Preps in a Capital City League game on Sunday.

An important practice will be held tonight by the Virginia Juniors in preparation for their game Sunday with the Mercury Juniors. This is a benefit contest and is expected to attract a large crowd.

Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., who recently was appointed by the city manager to arrange a basket ball schedule for playing dates in Armory Hall, has completed this task and will mail his report to the managers of Alexandria teams this week.

Manager Cleveland Shaw, of Engine Company No 5 Football Team, is after a game for Sunday with some fast club in the 150-pound division of the Capital City League. He can be reached by phoning Alexandria 331 after 6 o'clock.

Northwestern Gains Four Berths on All-Big Ten Team

Michigan, Wisconsin, Purdue Place Two on A. P. Eleven.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—All five first division teams in the 1930 championship race placed one or more players on the Associated Press Honorary Western Conference Football Team, but Northwestern topped them all, with a quartet of its stars winning berths.

The honorary eleven was selected today for the Associated Press by coaches, active officials and football writers who closely followed conference football fortunes, individually and collectively, throughout the campaign.

Michigan, cochampion of the conference with Northwestern; Purdue, 1929 titleholder and runner-up this fall, and Wisconsin, which tied Ohio State for fourth and fifth positions in the race, placed two of their players each, while Ohio State landed Wesley Fesler for the third straight year by unanimous choice.

Selections This Season Comparatively Easy.

Framing of the consensus of a large group of football experts was comparatively easy this year, although two or three of the Big Ten's big stars won positions on the first honorary eleven by only two or three votes over their worthy rivals, who were honored by berths on the second team.

Gov. Huey Long Says Grid Coach Will Stay

New Orleans, La., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—They're not going to replace Russ Cohen as football coach at Louisiana State University as long as Gov. Huey P. Long has anything to do with it.

"Russ Cohen will stay at Louisiana State as football coach—that's official," said the governor, a member of the university's board of supervisors, as alumni and students made merry over their alma mater holding Tulane to a close score here yesterday.

The board announced recently a majority of the members had voted to replace Cohen and his entire staff. The governor voted with the minority to retain him.

Cohen was noncommittal today.

Jones Scores Double At Jefferson Park

Jefferson Park Race Track, La., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The Jones Stock Farm, owned by A. B. A. Jones, had a field day here today when the colors of the stable were carried to victory in two races.

Cockrill, under Apprentice A. Bickey, scored a nose victory in the Carrollton Purse, feature of the card, defeating the Missouri Stable's Bozo with Kadiak third.

It was a rousing finish and the boy came in for a round of applause for his splendid ride.

The surprise of the race was the miserable performance of the supposed good thing, Hy Schneider. This gelding's recent races in the North were excellent and his work here has been good, but he failed to show anything worth while and finished in the ruckom.

Bozo took an early lead and opened a wide gap in the back stretch, but Cockrill moved to him with a rush in the stretch to win by a nose. Bozo beat Kadiak five lengths for the place.

Prince Clol, in the fourth race, was the other starter to carry Jones' colors home.

BLOUNT LEADS S. C.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Miles Blount, of Mullins, S. C., a half back, was elected captain of the University of South Carolina football team for 1931 today.

Cody Without Plans After Quitting Clemson

Greenville, S. C., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Josh Cody, the man who put Clemson College on the football map only to quit as coach yesterday, said today he was "just a man without a job" who has "made no plans."

The wagging of many tongues—tongues that had Cody joining Dan McGugin at Vanderbilt, accepting a coaching job at Furman or returning to Clemson—found Cody saying little more than that.

J. E. Sirrine, Clemson College trustee, was closeted in conference with the coach today. He sought, it was learned authoritatively, to have Cody reconsider and remain at Clemson. At the end of an hour's palaver Cody said he "had resigned and had no immediate plans for the future."

"As far as I know now," he said, "I do not intend to reconsider my resignation. I thought the matter out fully beforehand, and I think it is settled. I'm just a man without a job, and I have made no plans."

In Greenville this morning there were reports Furman might have something to offer the Tiger boss. His presence here today lent it a modicum of credence.

MOHAWKS VS. BURNS A. C.

Fresh from their 68-0 victory over the Capitols, the Mohawks 115-pound grid team, will play the Burns A. C. of Georgetown, this morning at 11 o'clock on Reservoir Field.

CAGE LEAGUE PLANNED BY SOLDIERS

Ten Teams May Compete for Knight Title Trophy.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 28.—Basketball activities will boom at Fort Humphreys, U. S. Engineer Post, located 12 miles south of this city, according to the progressive plans mapped by Lieut. Rinehardt, the new athletic director at the Virginia post.

A post basketball league has been organized and nine teams are slated to oppose each other in contests. This league play will begin around the 1st of December. New equipment has already been ordered for the teams.

Ten Teams May Form League.

Teams to take part will be A, B, C, D, E, F, Company Headquarters Company, 13th team; Engineer's School quints, detachment (white) five and the team from the Quartermaster's Department. Some good basketball material is available for each one of these outfits.

Herbert Knight, Alexandria sportsman, has ordered a handsome Goldsmith trophy, which will be presented to the team winning the league title. This play is expected to last for two months and will probably be divided into two sections, while the two winners meet in the play-off series.

It is understood from reliable sources that at the end of the league games a post team will be selected from the best players in the league and this quintet will meet the best clubs in Washington and northern Virginia for independent honors.

Fort Humphreys now has one of the most up-to-date gymnasiums in the State of Virginia, since the construction of the new buildings. Three basket ball courts are available for games. The various teams are practicing each afternoon.

Walker May Officiate Games.

Ross Walker, popular National Basket Ball Association referee, who handled a number of games in Alexandria and Washington last year, probably will be selected to officiate the entire league series. Walker is rated as one of the best at the business.

With Fort Humphreys again having a basket ball team the sport is given a real boost in northern Virginia, and some matches with Alexandria teams will be scheduled by the managers. These series of games generally attract a large crowd.

Calvert Hall Would Play D. C. High Nines

The baseball team of Calvert Hall College, of Baltimore, would like to play a game with any of the local high schools during next season.

High school managers are invited to send accounts of last season's play and advance arrangements for the game to the Baseball Manager Paul Welsh, Calvert Hall Athletic Association, Cathedral and Mulberry streets, Baltimore.

LOWER PRICES RULE CHANGES IN STOCKS

Rails, With Losses of 1 to 6 Points, Suffer Most in Dull Session.

WHEAT AND CORN SLUMP

New York, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Lower prices prevailed in the security and commodity markets today. Stocks were heavy in sleepy postholiday trading. Rails suffered most, but the average net decline for the three major groups was less than 2 points in a turnover of 1,743,790 shares. Late covering saved prices from closing on the bottom.

Railroad bonds followed the stocks lower and there was little vitality in any part of that market except U. S. Governments, which held firm. Wheat and corn sagged, while cotton futures closed 50 to 90 cents a bale lower.

The effect of the month-end settlements on money was evident only in the unofficial call date which coincided with the stock exchange's official figure of 2 per cent. The latter has prevailed throughout October and November, but a concession would not be surprising should the New York clearing house reduce to 1½, as report says it may do. One result of still cheaper money here would doubtless be the withdrawal of funds from New York, since the return on a lower rate might be expected to prove unattractive to lenders.

Rail Earnings Show Gains.

The decline in the railroad equities, which suffered maximum losses of 1 to 6 points, followed publication of the executives association's plans for seeming legislative relief. This program, embracing a demand that other forms of transportation be put under interstate commerce regulation, was accompanied by a rather gloomy expression of opinion as to the situation now faced by the roads, and its appearance overshadowed the October earnings statements. Last month's net is running nearly 8 per cent above September, but nearly 27 per cent below October, 1929.

Utilities and oil reacted with the rails, although not so extensively. Industrial leaders, at the day's lowest prices, were off one to three points, but part of these declines was recovered in the last half hour.

Several carrier shares skidded into new low ground, among them New York Central, Chicago Northwestern common and preferred, Missiuri Pacific, St. Louis Southwestern preferred, Illinois Central and Rock Island. Atchison recovered a third of a 6-point drop and Missouri Pacific cut in two a similar decline. Union Pacific, off more than 5 at one time, closed 2 lower, and New York Central retrieved a point of a break of 3½.

Brokers' Loans Decline.

A decline in brokers' loans was not unexpected, but a drop to the extent of $63,000,000 was somewhat surprising, even though stocks eased slightly during the week covered by the report. Decreases for nine consecutive weeks have brought the market very close to a cash basis.

More seasonable weather, the trade reviews said, has helped retail distribution, although neither Dun's nor Bradstreet's was able to report much important improvement. The former again pointed out that "widespread recovery is yet to be achieved."

Federal Reserve figures for October wholesale, department store and chain store business revealed unfavorable comparisons with a year ago, but, as in the case of the railroads, last month's showing was better than September's. Progress was reported for the building industry, which was said to be profiting from an improvement in confidence.

Changes in Industrials.

Net losses in the industrial stocks exceeded a couple of points in only a few instances. U. S. Steel, American Can, Bethlehem Steel, Case, Du Pont General Electric, Radio and Westinghouse were off 1 to 2 at the close. American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, American Water Works and North American fell in the same range, although Detroit Edison lost 7 and Peoples Gas 10.

Easiness of wheat, which sagged slightly more than a cent, was ascribed to weakness in Winnipeg and bearish Kansas reports. Corn dropped 1¼ to 1½ cents on increased receipts and larger Argentine exports.

Foreign exchanges were largely heavy, but dull. The Canadian dollar receded from the levels which recently sent gold to Montreal. Sterling and the French franc were steady.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Cotton was lower in the market here today under increased selling which was attributed partly to Southern hedging and partly to liquidation, or scattering pressure through commission houses. March contracts sold off to 10.76, or 22 points net lower, and closed at 10.80, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 10 to 18 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 points to an advance of 5 points. There was some buying on relatively steady Liverpool cables, and it looked as if some of the trade buying orders which had been in the market at the close of Wednesday have been carried over the holiday. The demand was supplied by Southern selling which was supposed to represent an accumulation of hedging against overbolled sales of spot cotton, while there also was considerable liquidation. Trade buying continued, but it was chiefly on scale-down orders. After the initial demand had been supplied and while there were spurts of covering, buyers showed no disposition to follow up the bulges. The lowest prices of the day were reached in the late trading, when December sold at 10.43 for the new contract and May at 11.03, making net declines of about 17 to 22 points on the active months and new low ground for the present movement. Closing quotations were within 3 or 4 points of the lowest on most positions.

May contracts selling at 11.03 today showed a decline of 118 points, or approximately $5.90 per bale, from the high price touched on the late October advance, and were within 38 points of the low record for the season established on October 8. The slight closing rally was attributed to covering and smaller late offerings from the South.

A private report based on replies from Southern correspondents was published during the day estimating the crop at 14,410,000 running bales, which was considered not far out of line with the last Government indication of 14,398,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight and appeared to be without immediate effect on the market.

Liverpool cables said that hedging in that market had been absorbed by continental buying and trade calling. Exports today, 5,678, making 3,112,958 so far this season. Port receipts, 50,063. United States port stocks, 4,160,623.

CARRIER BONDS SINK AS SALES ADVANCE

GERMAN ISSUES SCORE

New York, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Railroad bonds dipped with shares today and many second-grade and speculative issues reacted to new lows for the year.

Liquidation in carrier obligations swelled the volume of business to the best figure of the week. It induced considerable selling in domestic utility and industrial issues.

Foreign loans were featured by some wide swings both ways. United States Governments, with the exception of Liberty 3½s, closed at slightly under their previous highs.

Both lien and convertible issues were among those depressed to new lows for the year, including Atchison convertible 4½s, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, Canadian Pacific 4½s, St. Paul adjustment 5s and 4½s, Chicago Northwestern 4¾, Kansas City Southern 5s, Lehigh Valley 4s, Southern Railway general 4s, Cotton Belt first 5s, Wabash 5s B, Lehigh Valley 4s and Missouri Pacific general 4s. Most of the best grade legals were softened under the pressure against the group. Atchison general 4s, a popular savings bank issue, dipped ½ point.

In the foreign section, active issues cut a wide swath. German 5½s were well bought and held firm and most of the industrials and municipals of that country improved slightly. Bavarian State 6½s advanced 2 points and Estonia Republic 7s rose 4. Frankfort City 6½s reacted 9 points and Rio Grande do Sul 8s dipped 5, and Sao Paulo State 6s, 3.

New offerings in the final week of November, shortened a day by the Thanksgiving holiday, totaled $46,874,000, and was less than half of the volume in the previous week, which was the best of the month, with $98,977,000 in new issues. Virtually all of the financing this week was contributed by the public utility and municipal groups.

B. & O. May Build 1,000 Cars in Cumberland Area

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 28.—According to reports in railroad circles here today, it is expected that the Baltimore & Ohio early in December will authorize the construction of 1,000 steel cars on the Cumberland division, of which 750 would be built at the regular car plant at Keyser and 250 at Cumberland, which has not as large a car building shop as Keyser.

Both hoppers and gondolas are included and the work is to be done by the steel car men of the two plants. The railroad company announced some time ago it would build and buy a large number of steel cars.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

American Chain.

V. J.—Please give me some facts and an opinion of American Chain.

Answer—Profits for the first six months this year were equal to $3.29 a share of outstanding common stock after payment of preferred dividends. Income for the first half of 1929 equaled $2.63 per common share, the increase in earnings for the first half of 1930 amounting to about 15 per cent. The half-year earnings this year represents the best showing, with the exception of the first half of 1923, when an unprecedented amount of automobile chain business in that year boosted earnings. The $3 annual dividend was earned in the first six months this year, and the fact that business of this company in the last half-year has, as a rule, been twice as large as the first six months, the outlook is promising, and indications are that the earnings of $10.12 per share reported in 1929 will be exceeded in the current twelve months.

American Chain is in a strong position, with current assets about seven times current liabilities. Working capital amounts to $12,601,000, and cash and marketable securities, $968,816. Business of this company is well diversified and the stock comes under the category of an attractive speculative investment suitable for long-term holding.

Colorado Fuel.

B. K. H.—Please give me some information regarding Colorado Fuel.

Answer—Colorado Fuel is now diversifying its output. As the manufacture of rails constitutes the bulk of the company's business, the demand for which is small at the present time, the outlook does not appear to be good, and it would not be surprising if operations and earnings showed a decline in the coming months.

Recent strength in the stock has been based on unofficial reports that the company may be acquired by one of the larger units in the steel industry. First quarter earnings were $3.68 per share, as against $2.64 for the same period last year, while profits for the second three months are estimated at $1.25 a share, or equal to the amount earned in the second three months last year.

Artloom.

B. K.—I have some money in the bank and have been advised to put it into Artloom stock. What is your opinion of it?

Answer—The dividend appears to be in jeopardy and purchase of the stock is not advised. A better plan would be to keep your money in the bank. The low prices to which the stock has dropped would appear to indicate omission of the dividend. The report for the first six months shows a loss of $43,249, equivalent to a deficit of 44 cents per share on the outstanding stock. Not even the preferred dividend was earned in the first half year.

Artloom has been on the down grade for a number of years, earnings last year amount to only $1.88 per share, as compared with $5.57 in 1926. Practically nothing was added to surplus last year after the payment of dividends, and the outlook is none too promising.

Continental Oil.

Answer—Net income for the first six months this year was equal to 56 cents per share, as compared with 46 cents for the same period last year. Earnings for the full year 1930 are expected to be about equal to those for 1929, when they amounted to $1.90. The financial position has been materially improved. Current assets, as of June 30 last, amounted to $54,807,870. Of this amount $13,810,485 represented cash and marketable securities.

Current liabilities amount to $6,085,000. The stock pays no dividend and no distributions are expected until funded debt is reduced. Continental is a complete unit in the oil industry, and although the company has good banking sponsorship the stock must be regarded as a speculation.

Electric Auto Lite.

T. B. D.—Can you estimate how much Electric Auto Lite will earn this year, also what is your opinion of this stock?

Answer—It is conservatively estimated that Electric Auto Lite will earn between $7 and $8 a share this year. Such earnings would compare with $11.37 a share earned in 1929 (excluding non-recurring special income). The $6 dividend, however, appears safe for the time being. The large business received from Ford has enabled Electric Auto Lite to fare better than most other companies in the auto accessory lines.

Pure Oil.

K. L. B.—I am a stockholder in Pure Oil. Please give me an opinion of it.

Answer—Conditions in the oil industry at the moment are not altogether favorable. As a result, there is some concern as to the safety of present dividends on some oil stocks, and this applies to the $1.50 dividend on Pure Oil. For the last fiscal year the dividend was barely earned and there is some question as to whether earnings increased to any considerable extent since that time. At its current price, around 20, the yield is 7½ per cent, which must be regarded as rather risky. While paying dividends, the stock is somewhat speculative.

DO-X WILL MAKE TRIP TO NEW YORK

AMERICAN QUITS HELM

Lisbon, Portugal, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The seaplane DO-X waited here tonight for clear weather before flying on to Cadiz, where her motors are to be overhauled, but Dr. Claude Dornier, her designer, was on the way to Berlin.

Preceding him were reports that he was going home to ask the German government to put up the money for a flight to South America but in Berlin Ernst Brandenburg, head of the aviation bureau of the transportation ministry, said any such request would be turned down.

Meanwhile, the Berlin representative of the Dornier works declared it had been definitely decided that the big plane would fly to South America and up the coast to New York. Clarence Schildhauer, the American copilot, will not make the trip, he said, because his American employers have asked him to return home.

The DO-X will start for Cadiz, weather permitting, Sunday morning. Today her tanks were filled with enough gasoline to last her for a 300-mile stretch.

All day long official visitors were taken around the boat. Capt. Christiansen has received messages of congratulations from King Alfonso and the president of the Swiss Aero Club.

Ramon Franco Reported Headed to Paris Refuge

Lisbon, Portugal, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Still another rumor concerning the fugitive Ramon Franco, the aviator who escaped from a military prison several days ago, was brought in today by the conductor of the South Express, who said he had seen Franco and Alfonso Reyes, who escaped with him, on the station platform at Irun, waiting for a train to Paris.

Coast Guards Seeking Lake Vessel, Overdue

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 28 (A.P.).—Coast Guardsmen from the Eagle Harbor Station were searching this afternoon for the steamship Maple Bay, of Montreal, unreported since leaving Bete-Grid, Keweenaw Point, Tuesday.

The Maple Bay, downward bound from Fort William with a cargo of wheat, put into Bete-Gris early this week with engine trouble. Repairs were made there. A violent storm swept Lake Superior after the vessel had resumed her trip. The Maple Bay, commanded by Capt. Richard Graham, carried a crew of 21 men.

CHILD FOUND DROWNED

Denver, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—The trial of Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin for the murder of her stepdaughter, Leona, started today as Judge Henley A. Calvert overruled a defense motion for a three-day continuance.

"For the next day or so, we will be selecting a jury," said the court. "There is no possibility of testimony being taken in this case before next Monday. I can assure Mrs. O'Loughlin a fair trial, and in case she is unable to sit through the testimony, we will grant her a recess."

Mrs. O'Loughlin, who has been ill, seemed greatly improved and perhaps was more composed than at any time since her arrest.

The state has indorsed 29 witnesses, among them Leo O'Loughlin, city detective and husband of the defendant.

The O'Loughlin child's body was found October 17, three days after disappearance from home, in Berkeley Park Lake. Ground glass was discovered in the stomach.

Frank O'Loughlin, the detective's brother, also is accused of the child's murder. Earl Wettengel, district attorney, said the case against Frank O'Loughlin was very weak.

SANTA CLAUS LANE FOR 1930 OPENED BY REICHELDERFER

COMMISSIONERS HEAD LONG MARCHERS' LINE

200 Christmas Trees Flank Street, to Be Lighted in Colors to Dec. 31.

Santa Claus Lane—an illuminated fairyland along upper Fourteenth street—was opened officially last night in the presence of several hundred enthusiastic youngsters and their parents—despite the intense cold.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the District Commissioners, pulled the switch at the corner of Fourteenth and Kenyon streets that illuminated two strings of colored lights, extending from Meridian place to Fairmount street. They will be lighted each evening until New Year's eve when Santa Claus will return to his northern home.

Santa Claus Uses Sedan.

Santa Claus was a wise one last night because he left his sleigh and reindeer in the warmth of a stable and rode in comfort in a closed automobile. His crimson suit and hat and white beard were quickly distinguished by the kiddies and shrieks of joy arose above the many colored lights as the grand old man from the North rode by.

He was headed by a parade made up of the District Commissioners; members of the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association under whose auspices Santa Claus Lane was opened; Maj. Henry G. ratt, superintendent of police, and Mrs. Pratt; Fire Chief George S. Watson and Mrs. Watson; Director of Traffic William H. Harland and Mrs. Harland, and representatives of various civic organizations, including ugene Minoux, president of the Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association, and Milton R. Vollmer, vice president; Earl E. Dillon, president of the Mount Pleasant Citizens Association; Burd W. Payne, president of the Citizens Forum, and Mrs. Payne; T. C. Downing, representing the Central High School Community Center; Mrs. H. S. Young, executive secretary, and Mrs. Ida E. Kebler, secretary of the advisory committee of the Park View Citizens Association and Col. E. L. Mattice, Boy Scout executive.

Two Bands in Parade.

Marching units included the band of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Lincoln Post, No. 17, of the American Legion, commanded by Maj. E. P. Van Hise; Boy Scouts in charge of Deputy Commissioner E. M. Perkins, the Central High School Cadet Band and a community mand headed by Lewis F. Collins.

Mingling with the colored lights were more than 200 Christmas trees flanking the curbs of Fourteenth street. A large tree stood at the corner of Kenyon street. Stores along the street were lighted and the early Christmas decorations in the windows added to the spirit of the season.

The subfreezing weather drove hundreds into the shelter of the stores and theater lobbies. But little children pressed against the ropes that lined the curbs without seeming to mind the cold. B. A. Levitan, president of the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association, hailed the 1930 coming of Santa Claus to Fourteenth street as the most auspicious in years. William F. Dismer, chairman of the committee that planned the celebration, expressed gratification over the smoothness with which the parade was conducted.

Fireman Injured n Basement Fire

Five Families Drivven Out by Smoke; Trash Is Burned.

A fireman was injured last night and five colored families were driven to the street by smoke when fire of undetermined origin destroyed a quantity of trash in the basement of a three-story brick apartment house at 419 Twenty-first street northwest.

J. O. Weaver, attached to No. 1 Engine Company, was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he was treated for severe lacerations to his hands, received when he was cut by flying glass while attempting to enter the burning structure. His condition was not considered serious and he was allowed to return to his home.

Several cans of gasoline stored in the tailoring shop of William Thompson, on the first floor of the building, were removed to the street by firemen. The heavy smoke attracted several hundred persons to th escene, and traffic on Twenty-first street was blocked for more than half an hour. The blaze was confined to the basement of the building, and only slight damage was done.

COORDINATED HELP FOR JOBLESS URGED

All Private Agencies Are Asked to Give Support to Unified Program.

CIRCULAR DETAILS PLAN

Coordination of efforts of all private agencies with the District Employment Bureau was seen yesterday, by Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the Commissioners' Unemployment Committee, as a solution of the unemployment situation here.

In a letter addressed to the churches of the city Mr. Delano asked them to call the attention of their congregations to a circular sent out by the Y. M. C. A. seeking the cooperation of its members. The circular said:

"Because of the stringencies of the unemployment situation in Washington, and the large volume of unemployed, Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the District of Columbia Committee on Employment, requests that we all cooperate to coordinate the appeals for employment through the central agency—the Public Employment Bureau, 480 Louisiana avenue.

"We are endeavoring to centralize incoming calls for help, as well as registration for the unemployed, at this office. We appeal to all members of the Y. M. C. A. in this emergency to help find positions for the unemployed. If they will telephone information to the Public Employment Bureau, of the District of Columbia, with which our Y. M. C. A. Employment Service is cooperating, the calls will be given immediate attention and this plan will insure quicker placement of the men and women now unemployed.

"To those men who are home owners and members of the Y. M. C. A., we ask that they think of minor repairs, or cleaning around the home. We are listing the following items as suggestions for creating temporary jobs, and will greatly appreciate any cooperation given: Carpenter repairs, repairing and painting fences, painting, indoor or outside, putting in concrete walks, repairing and painting screens, washing windows, scrubbing porches, cleaning and washing floors, installing new down spouts, cleaning cellars, general housecleaning for women, laundry work, raking yards, cleaning garages, washing cars, removing screens and awnings, firing furnaces, storing coal and whitewashing cellars.

Man Slightly Hurt in Accident.

Frederick A. Potts, 21 years old, of 666 Maryland avenue northeast, was treated for slight lacerations at Emergency Hospital yesterday when he were received when he was injured in an automobile collision at Tenth and R streets northwest. He was allowed to return to his home after treatment.

OIL STATION'S SAFE BLOWN; $900 TAKEN

Attendant Finds Office in Disorder; Fingerprints and Drills Clews.

DUPLICATE KEY IS USED

Using nitroglycerin to blast the door off a safe in the office of the Miles Gas Station, Inc., at 2380 Rhode Island avenue northeast, cracksmen succeeded in getting away with about $900 in cash early yesterday morning.

R. John Boehs, manager of the filling station, told police that when he opened the office about 6 o'clock he found the safe upturned on the office floor, its contents rifled and papers scattered over the whole office. The safe had been pulled to a shielded spot behind the counter out of the view of passersby.

When police arrived in answer to a call from the manager they found two new drills which the thieves had left, and fingerprints all about the place. Oil had been scattered over the floor, and police say the yeggs first tried to drill into the safe, broke the instruments and then applied the explosive chemicals.

Entrance was gained by means of a duplicate key into a side building of the station. Headquarters Detectives H. K. Wilson and Richard J. Cox, who are investigating the robbery, said last night that several small bits of evidence had been found about the premises which might aid in apprehending the robbers. No one has yet been brought under police suspicion.

Boehs said yesterday that the money which was taken was proceeds from two days' business, and he had not placed a definite estimate on the amount of money which the thieves took.

Thieves Smash Window; Steal $80 in Jewelry

Thieves yesterday morning made off with more than $80 in jewelry after they had thrown a brick through a plate glass window at Marks' Jewelry Co., 701 Seventh street northwest, according to a report made to police by Joseph Smith, of 4108 Jenifer street, northwest, manager.

He told police that most of the jewelry consisted of ladies' wrist watches and a few small articles which were on display in the window. Police of the Sixth Precinct and headquarters detectives are investigating.

Apple Peddlers, 'Staked,' Turn In $3.15 for Each 100

Investigation of a so-called "apple racket" was undertaken by the District Commissioners yesterday to determine whether the employer of the "unemployed" men and women who are peddling apples on the streets is giving his help a square deal, and if any laws are being broken.

The venders appear in daily increasing numbers on the downtown streets, carrying baskets of the fruit and wearing pencilled signs reading: "Unemployed—Apples. 5c." To learn what it was all about, G. J. Adams, jr., secretary of the Commissioners' unemployment committee, had two of the peddlers brought to his office yesterday for questioning.

One of the men, who said he had started as an apple merchant by peddling a supply provided by an unidentified wholesale distributor, informed Mr. Adams that as soon as he had accummulated a "stake" he had set out as an independent operator, buying much better apples at a chain store for much lower prices than the "crew leader" had charged him.

This man, he said, made the peddlers turn in to him $3.15 for every 100 apples sold, and made his rounds in an automobile to collect the receipts and replenish the venders' supplies. Each peddler, the informant explained, was assigned to a "spot" by the distributor, who apparently had his headquarters at Center Market.

Another man, an aged Negro, questioned by Mr. Adams, told him that on the first two days he had been selling apples the distributor let him retain 75 cents, but that later he apparently had grown big-hearted and allowed him to keep $1.

The venders were told, the same man informed Mr. Adams, that the distributor had "permission" to put ten men on the streets to sell apples, implying that competition would be restricted to that number. No one has received permission from any District officials to put any person or number of persons to work peddling apples; in fact, there is doubt whether the laws of the District require any license or other permission for such venture.

As the men left the District Building, Mr. Adams gave each $1, saying that this would compensate them for possible sales lost during the interrogation.

"Boss," said the Negro as he stuffed the bill into a shirt pocket under a massive roll of sweaters and coats, "that there is one buck he ain't gonna get. No suh! That's gonna buy the cl' lady a mess of meat an' potatoes. Thank you, suh."

PALESTINE MANDATE TRANSFER DOUBTED

ARABS FAVOR PROPOSAL

Geneva, Nov. 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Transferrence of the Palestine mandate from Great Britain to Holland, or to some other country, which will be recommended by certain Jewish organizations, according to reports in Geneva, is characterized in official League of Nations circles as absurd.

Although transfer could be accomplished judicially, with the consent of both parties concerned, including the Arabs, it would necessitate the approval of all the signatories of the treaty of Versailles and the members of the League Council, as well as of the permanent mandates commission.

Italy's attitude would present a stumbling block, it is pointed out, since Rome's greatest ambition is to obtain redivision of mandated zones. France likewise would oppose the transfer, even were Great Britain willing, because the precedent would seriously disturb her Syrian administration.

The only way Great Britain can possibly withdraw from Palestine is by establishing self-government there, as is being done in Irak under King Feisul, with subsequent admission of the country into membership in the league.

Arab representatives at Geneva decleare they would welcome a change in the mandatory power, because Holland would be far easier to combat militarily than Great Britain. They left no doubt that the first action after Great Britain's withdrawal would be revolt.

Dutch representatives at the league, and officials now here for the economic and disarmament conferences in progress, declare Holland would not accept the mandate. Others have pointed out that Holland's record as a colonial administrator, both in the Orient and in Africa, is not calculated to offer an unqualified recommendation of her ability to administer Palestine.

Mr. Roberts plans to make his home in Florida following his retirement.

Two Schoolboys Held After Man Is Wounded

Police were last night investigating the shooting of Raymond Murray, 22-year-old laborer, living on Canal road near Chain Bridge, who received a slight flesh wound yesterday. A bullet believed to have glanced off rocks where some small boys were shooting, hit him on the right arm.

Two schoolboys, 11 and 12 years old, were questioned at the Seventh Precinct Station, but police were undecided last night as to whether or not they would be charged with discharging firearms in the District. Their parents conferred with police yesterday afternoon. Murray received treatment at Georgetown Hospital and then returned to his home.

PRALL RAPS ATTACK ON BUSINESS CHIEFS

"MENACE TO WELFARE"

(Associated Press.)

The representative whose district embraces Wall street yesterday looked with disfavor upon congressional criticism of the Nation's business leaders for responsibility for present economic conditions.

Representative Prall (Democrat), New York, said in a statement that "any man in public life who, now of all times, misues his public station tostir up clamorous discontent, insincerely offering oviet clap-trap as a cure-all, is a real menace to the public welfare."

"He is un-American and unpatriotic," Mr. Prall asserted, "no matter what political affiliations he may claim at the moment."

The New Yorker added he had been "greatly disturbed to read in the newspaper fro mtime to time ominous intimations that certain notoriety seekers in Congress wil ltry to improve their local political fortunes by attacking the business leaders of the country."

"Being neither creative of good will nor constructive of values," he said, "its only result would be to furnish ammunition to those forces of unrest, the local agents of the Moscow fanatics, who are openly working for a world-wide revolution, with this country as the grand prize."

Man Sentenced to Jail For 'Airing' Two Geese

Walter Smith, Negro, was sent to jail yesterday on conviction in Police Court of stealing two geese belonging to Mrs. Minnie Levy. The Negro was captured when one of the geese let out a "quack" which, according to the woman, gave notice that the fowl was hungry or was being annoyed by a stranger.

Smith was caught by the woman's two sons, Gilbert and Lester Levy, who dashed out of the house at the first "quack." Smith denied that he intended to devour the fowls and asserted that he was merely taking the geese out for an "airing." Judge Isaac R. Hitt, however, discounted the Negro's testimony and sent him to jail for 25 days.

Woman Seeks $10,000 For Fall at Apartment

As the result of an accident last January 16, Maria Peterson, of 2319 H street northwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court, seeking to recover $10,000 damages.

The woman, through Attorneys Hawken & Havell, tells the court that while she was a tenant of an apartment at 1235 U street northwest, she tripped over a hole and fell forcibly. The suit is directed against Kalman Leon, of 1429 Perry place northwest, alleged owner of the apartment house, and negligence on his part in not keeping the place in good repair is charged.

Utilities Board to Offer Suggestions on 4 Bills

Replying to an invitation from Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, Harleigh H. Hartman, a member of the Public Utilities Commission, wrote to Mr. Capper yesterday that the commission plans to submit suggestions soon to the Senate agency on the four public utilities bills pending in Congress.

The bills refer to the street railway merger, the proposed gas company merger, the limitation of court power in reviewing utility cases, and reduced carfares for school children.

Expecting $1,000,000 Neglects Hotel Bill

James O'Brien, an attorney, of Montreal, was convicted in Police Court yesterday on a charge of nonpayment of a hotel bill.

Testimony was to the effect that the man had ordered the hotel bill sent to the administrator of an estate in which he is to receive $1,000,000. It als odeveloped that the bill had been paid since O'Brien was arrested here several days ago. Judge Isaac R. Hitt found the man guilty, but took his personal bond.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

BALLAD OF A THANKSGIVING MARTYR.

IN a cottage in Hoboken
A'On a bleak November day
Sat a man disgraced and broken
As he sobbed his heart away;
But his grief did not avail him—
No one tried his tears to stop,
And he heard his dear wife saying
As she phoned and called a cop:

(Chorus.)

"Come and take my man away, sir;
He has filled our home with shame;
Prosecute him as you may, sir—
Bring disgrace upon his name.
Let his treatment be quite shoddy;
In a cell his person fling,
For he spattered ev'rybody
When he tried to carve the wing!"

II.

Soon the bluecoats came a-flying
In their wagon to the door,
And they found the poor guy lying
In disgrace upon the floor.
As they dragged him out intently,
Reigning blows upon his head,
He forgave them very gently
And these very words he said:

(Chorus.)

"I have no excuse to offer—
I deserve to pay and pay;
I've no alibi to proffer
For my conduct here today.
What my wife says is correct, sir,
So excuse her temper hot—
When I tried to carve the neck, sir,
I forgot to call the shot!"

III.

TO the hoosegow they did take him
And did fling him in a cell;
There his shame did not forsake him
As quite low his spirit fell.
Through the day they heard him weeping,
All the night they heard him sigh,
And throughout his fevered sleeping
They did hear him cry and cry:

(Chorus.)

"Oh, my shame I feel is deeper
Than the record here will show,
And my guilt I know is steeper
Than the cops will ever know.
To a far more heinous matter
My dear wife forgot to point—
For the turk slipped off the platter
As I carved the second joint!"

IV.

To the court he next was taken,
Where he took the fullest blame,
And the judge beheld him shaken
By the fullness of his shame.
As he told his tale remorseful
With a bowed and bleeding head,
Spake the judge in tones quite forceful,
And oh, hark to what he said:

(Chorus.)

"Liberate this man! I free him!
Warm apologies I make,
For the fellow, as I see him,
We should show compassion gladly
And extend a kindly word,
For the best of us do badly
WHEN WE TRY TO CARVE A BIRD!"

NO MERCY.

NEW YORK will present that subscription loving cup to Sir Thomas Lipton December 4 by radio. It seems cruel to keep reminding him of his defeats that way.

WHA-A-AT!

An airplane crashed through the roof of a Ridgefield, N. J., home the other day, landing in the library. It is understood that the indignant tenant demanded, "Where do you think you're going?" and that, obviously, the operator gave him a withering look and replied, "You stopped without giving me any signal."

HARLAND PLANNING NEW TRUCK ZONES

To Set Apart 50 to 200 Foot Areas for Loading in Business District.

MERCHANTS BACK MOVE

Truck loading zones from 50 to 200 feet long, in every block of the downtown business section of Washington, are being planned by the traffic director, W. H. Harland, he announced yesterday.

He said this move was made with the approval of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, which had asked that something be done about the congestion and the forced double parking of trucks laden with merchandise for large stores.

Considerable difficulty will be met in planning these zones, the traffic director said, because the individual permits granted to merchants, to cover the width of t heir storef ronts only, necessarily would have to be revoked.

He expects opposition to the move because many of the store owners had to pay as much as $25 for signs which marked the restricted zone and these will be useless to them under the new plan.

Opposition to the move is expected to be overcome when the new zones are maped, as store owners will have ample room for loading and unloading without having to find the owner of a parked car or being forced to park double while unloading.

Three zones of this kind have been in use several months, Mr. Harland said, naming those at Fifteenth and G streets, at Fourteenth and K streets, in front of the Ambassador Hotel and at Washington Cathedral on Wisconsin avenue, where large buses load and unload. All the zones are to be mapped with the aid of civic and business organizations.

Amendment Eases Police Promotion

Dropping of Extra Examination Rule Also Aids City Firemen.

The requirement that policemen and firemen must take another examination, if not promoted within one year after their names are placed on the eligibility list, was eliminated in a change in the Civil Service rules announced yesterday by the Police and Fire Departments.

Heretofore policemen and firemen who had established their eligibility for promotion were dropped automatically from the list, if they were not promoted within the year, and were compelled to take a new competitive examination to reestablish eligibility.

The new amendment to rules also permits such employes to have their names transferred to any newly established eligibility list if they desire. It provides also that those who desire to improve their standings on existing lists may take any additional tests.

Police and firemen of the District started selling tickets yesterday throughout the city. The firemen undertook a house-to-house canvass, carrying reserved seat and general admission tickets, and pasteboards were being offered by policemen at the precincts and on the streets.

Newbold Noyes, chairman of the committee arranging the game, announced yesterday that the following persons have taken boxes for the game:

BABY AND INVALID SAVED AS FLAMES DAMAGE 5 HOMES

ILL WOMAN IS RESCUED; BOY TURNS IN ALARM

Part of Losses Covered by Insurance; No Estimate Given by Watson.

A four-alarm fire, marked by two rescues, yesterday afternoon swept through four homes and damaged a fifth on Quincy street northwest near Fifth street. There were no casualties.

The fire, believed to have started from defective wiring in the attic of the home of Scott B. Miller, 505 Quincy street, spread quickly to the other half of the frame double house, occupied by H. E. Buchanan, and then leaped a small areaway to ignite the roofs of the homes of Harry Mills at 501, and Roy McDonald, at 503 Quincy street.

The home of J. P. Caldreath, 509 Quincy street, was scorched by the blaze.

Little was saved of the upper floors of the two double houses of stone and frame construction. Fanned by a brisk breeze, the fire had a good start before firemen could get a line of water on it. Chief George S. Watson sounded extra alarms to prevent the spread of flames to other houses in the closely built block.

Invalid and Child Saved.

Mrs. Buchanan, who has been in ill health for some time, was carried from her home by a neighbor, while Katherine Simons, 9 years old, of 519 Rock Creek Church road, carried Donald McDonald, 8 months old son of Mrs. Roy McDonald, from a porch on one of the burning homes.

When Mrs. McDonald learned of the blaze she dashed to rescue her baby, to find him missing. She became hysterical before friends informed her that the Simons girl had taken the child from the point of danger.

No estimate of the damage had been made by Chief Watson last night. Parts of the losses in the four homes most seriously damaged were covered by insurance. Much furniture in the upper floors was destroyed, the roofs of three of the four residences collapsed, while furnishings on the lower floors were badly damaged by water and smoke.

Boy Turns in Alarm.

Walter Beller, 14 years old, of 632 Rock Creek Church road, turned in the alarm when he saw flames coming from the roof of the residence at 505 Quincy street. Neighbors said they had noticed flames a minute previously but had been unable to reach the fire department by telephone before the alarm was sounded from a box.

Neighbors took in the families made homeless by the fire, while police stood guard over the few furnishings saved from the flames.

Woman Cut With Glass In Automobile Crash

She was cut with glass, after an automobile operated by her husband, had struck the car of Charles M. Ady, of Newport, Pa., which was parked at the curb on East Executive avenue northwest.

O'Connell escaped injury. Damage to the cars was slight.

Capper Urges Aid For Health Drive

Senator Indorses Work Done Through Sale of Christmas Seals.

The life of each child imperiled by by tuberculosis is a challenge to the national pride of Americans, and to their love of children, Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, declared in an address broadcast from Station WMAL last night, to aid the sale of Christmas seals of the Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

"I would be the last person in the world to suggest that you should not buy Christmas toys for children, but I want to bring to your attention an infinitely more precious gift which is in your power to bestow. This is the gift of health," Senator Capper said.

The Tuberculosis Association, Senator Capper said, had done very fine work in the past, in combatting the spread of the disease, and since it was organized in 1904, deaths from tuberculosis have been cut down from more than 200 per 100,000, to less than 80 per 100,000 annually in the Nation.
